Vandenberg Asks: What Are Peace Terms?

TWO UNIONS FIX PRICE OF JOBS AT U. S. CAMPS

Fee for Carpenters Set at $122.

BY WILLIAM THOMPSON.

Able bodied workmen are being turned away from the camp enlargement projects at Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training station at the rate of a dozen a day.

I was rejected because I didn't have a union card, and because I didn't produce the money with which to buy one. If you aren't a union man, it costs you $42 to join the union and go to work as a common laborer. And you have to lay it on the line.

You may be an excellent carpenter, but if you ask for a job without a carpenter's union card you will find your way barred by a fee of $122.

The laborer's job pays $1.10 an hour and the carpenter's $1.62½.

Good Demand for Laborers.

There is a good demand for laborers of my physique at both camps. I am 5 feet 10½ inches tall and weigh 180 pounds. I was singled out by two foremen at Fort Sheridan and one at Great Lakes because I looked "tough." But, in the opinion of Enrico, the comedian who entertains the crowd of unemployed who stand outside Fort Sheridan eight hours a day:

Mebbe you're tough and mebbe you're hard,
But it don't mean a thing if you ain't gotta card.

Common laborers and carpenters are the only classes of workers now being hired on the Fort Sheridan and Great Lakes projects. To get a job as a laborer you first must produce a membership card in Lake County Local No. 152 of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union of America, or in one of the union's Chicago locals.

To get a job as a carpenter you must be a member of Lake County Local No. 461 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, or of any local affiliated with the Carpenters' District council of Chicago.

Half of Lake County.

Half of the jobs go to Lake county men and half to workers holding Chicago cards. Initiation fees are $40 in the laborers' union and $120 in the carpenters', and each union insists that the current month's dues of $2 be paid in advance.

On rare occasions a laborer may obtain a spot of work without a card. If he is waiting at the employment gate at a time when a major operation is scheduled inside, a foreman is likely to give him the nod. But he must take the chance of running afoul of Tom Mussatto, business agent of Local 152.

I was standing outside the Great Lakes employés' entrance. It is just west of the North Western railroad tracks at 22d street and Sheridan road in North Chicago. I had applied for work but was told I was out of luck without a card. Within an hour, however, I was approached by a foreman who said the road construction workers were calling for more dry cement.

"You look hale and hearty," he said. "How's about going over to that box car on the siding and helping the boys dump some cement into the trucks? If you ain't got a card, take a chance on Tom not coming around."

Watch Out for Agent.

I took the job and nervously watched from the corner of my eye for Mussatto. He didn't appear that day, and others in the same situation and I hoped he would stay away long enough for us to make $42.

We didn't have a chance. Mussatto showed up the next day and fired 10 of us who were working either in cement or as carpenters' helpers.

Tom Mussatto, a thin, stooped man, is the most influential boss on the two camp projects. He can stop the wheels on both jobs at the drop of a hat.

When I first saw him he was ensconced in the most pretentious building in Highwood—the Labor Temple at 387 North avenue.

Mussatto himself, however, is unpretentious. His house at 322 Oak Terrace avenue is the newest in Highwood, but it is a duplex. His car is a new model, but it is in the

URGES U. S. SEND QUERY 'BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE'

Veiled Ultimatum Proposed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—The United States should address an inquiry to all the nations at war in an effort to ascertain if there is not a rational basis for a negotiated peace, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] asserted today.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg.

At the same time Representative Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.], speaking in the house, assailed President Roosevelt's plan to seize German, Italian, and other European ships interned in American ports and turn them over to the British.

The two statements illustrated a growing sentiment in congress for some action seeking an end to the war before this nation is hopelessly involved and for refraining meanwhile from actions which go far beyond methods "short of war" in aiding Great Britain.

"Fodder for Stalin."

"There will ultimately be a negotiated peace," said Vandenberg, "and I hope it comes before mutual destruction is so complete that there is little left, no matter who wins, except fodder for Stalin. It is not appeasement, it is simply enlightened self-interest to inquire whether a rational basis may not be found upon which to terminate this destruction.

"An American inquiry, addressed to all concerned, would be particularly effective in this direction if it were understood that the price of refusal to accept a just and realistic formula might be our own powerfully enlarged activity."

Against Neutrality Repeal.

Vandenberg said he was opposed to repeal of the neutrality or Johnson acts and to sending American ships into belligerent zones or providing American convoys. Such action would be participation as a belligerent, he said.

"If the time has come when any or all of these steps need to be considered—which is tantamount to the unlimited American underwriting of British war objectives—then the time has come for these objectives to be declared," he said. "The time has also come for our own objectives to be declared."

Repeating similar pleas voiced by Senators Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.]; Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], and Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], Vandenberg urged that the American people be given full information about the state of our preparedness "instead of vague and illusory expectations."

Questions Origin of Plan.

Woodruff told house members that there was a question whether the President's plan to seize foreign ships was his own idea or "a very clever British plan."

"It is also a question," Woodruff declared, "of whether the avidity with which the administration spokesmen bloomed up this proposal was more to cover up and divert the public mind from the sickening failure of defense construction rather than for any serious intent by the administration to perpetrate the act of war proposed.

"If this proposal emanated, as some of the best informed Washington observers believe, from the British, the purposes are plain. There is no question among authorities on international law but that such an act would be an act of war. Being an act of war, it would be almost impossible for Germany and Italy to refrain from acting accordingly. That would involve Japan, of course. That would mean, from the British angle, that the United States would be in the war with all of our men as well as all of our money."

Administration spokesmen made no attempt to reply to Woodruff.

Nab 2 Who Fled St. Charles by Scaling Fence

Two inmates of the St. Charles School for Boys at St. Charles, who escaped Sunday night by scaling the institution's $23,000 fence, were captured near Oregon, Wis., and returned to Illinois last night. To Sheriff Edward Fischer at Oregon they confessed they had stolen four automobiles in their flight and had wrecked one of them.

News of the escape brought from State Senator Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton] a demand that the barrier be reconstructed to make it impossible for the youths at the institution to get away and terrorize the countryside in the Fox river valley, as has happened often in the past. Senator Gunning was chairman of a committee that recommended the construction of the fence.

Fence Not Built Right.

"It was built by the state welfare department and it wasn't built right," he said. "Results have shown it isn't very difficult for resolute inmates to get away. If I had my way I'd electrify the top strands, not sufficiently to kill but enough to produce a shock, and then warn the boys. That would keep them in."

The captured fugitives are Harold Adams and Louis Leo West, each 16 years old, of Alton, Madison county. They were committed to St. Charles four years ago after conviction as burglars.

Adams said they had very little trouble getting over the fence, altho they tore their clothes doing it. They stole the first car, he said, in Elburn, the second in Rochelle, the third in Polo and the fourth in Rockford. The first three were abandoned.

They were near Oregon in the fourth car early Christmas morning when it skidded into a ditch. They ran to a barn to hide but were seen by a farmer's wife, who called the authorities. Their capture followed, and guards from St. Charles took charge of the boys last night.

Call Barricade Big Aid.

W. T. Harmon, head of the St. Charles school, said the fence has been a big help in keeping inmates in, but admitted it was not fully effective. He added that only about 30 inmates had escaped this year, compared with 76 in 1939, before the barrier was erected.

A wave of escapes last year alarmed Kane county residents living near St. Charles. The Gunning committee from the state legislature urged an appropriation for the fence, which is 12 feet high and 9,200 feet long. The state welfare department, then headed by A. L. Bowen, was unfavorable to the project, but did the building.

As first constructed, the bottom of the fence was fully two feet above ground and boys could easily wriggle under. This was exposed and the ground nearby was graded up to the wire. This work was completed by Nov. 1 and Harmon said only Adams, West, and one other boy have escaped since.

15 KILLED, 100 INJURED IN CUBAN TORNADO; MANY BUILDINGS FALL

BEJUCAL, Cuba, Dec. 26.—At least 15 persons were killed and 100 injured tonight when a tornado—the first in the history of Havana province—razed a score of buildings, including a three story theater, the city hospital, a church, a convent, several stores, and a large number of homes. From beneath the débris could be heard voices of persons crying for help while squads of men worked frantically trying to rescue them.

The tornado broke the telephone and telegraph lines and the light system, making communication with Havana and adjacent towns impossible. After an hour's work in the darkness, firemen, police, and soldiers restored the lines and were able to summon aid. The town was placed under martial law.

DRIVER SAVES 3 WOMEN FROM CROSSING CRASH

Bernhardt Jandt, 41 years old, of Milwaukee, was driving home from Chicago yesterday with his mother and two sisters-in-law, also of Milwaukee, when their automobile stalled on the tracks of the North Western railroad at Harlem avenue, near Avondale avenue. At that moment an empty passenger train, pushed by a locomotive, was backing toward them. Jandt leaped out, opened the doors of his car, and pulled the three women to safety. Fifteen seconds later the train hit the car and ground it to pieces.

Leeth, Nev., Dec. 26 (AP).—They called the little mongrel dog Bum because he came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lavere Wright whining for a handout. He stayed and became fast friends with their 5 year old daughter Janeane. Today they're thinking of changing his name. Janeane was playing on the railroad tracks. She didn't see a train approaching. Bum grabbed her snow suit and pulled her from the tracks just in time.

Labor Agent Fined Limit for Violence

John M. O'Connor, a business agent of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, was found guilty yesterday on a charge of assault and battery, was fined the limit of $100 and costs, and given a verbal lashing by Justice of the Peace James K. Calhoun of Glencoe.

"The testimony here shows you engaged in a brutal and cowardly attack," declared the magistrate. "There is no room in union labor or in New Trier township for such a man. It is regrettable that the law does not allow me to assess a larger penalty."

Driver Beaten Severely.

O'Connor was arrested Dec. 10 and accused of leading a gang in Winnetka that beat and severely injured August Van Daele, a driver for the Cream Crest Farms dairy of Skokie.

It was alleged that the assault was part of a concerted campaign of vandalism against Cream Crest. The union controls 4,500 drivers in Chicago and the suburbs. Another driver, Lyle Dye, was slugged and the tires of several company trucks were punctured the same day. A few days ago the concern signed a union contract.

Granted Change of Venue.

The O'Connor case was called first before Justice of the Peace Allen Klein of Winnetka. The defendant's plea for a continuance was denied and he was granted a change of venue to the court of Calhoun. Before Klein a representative of the state's attorney declared the only motive for the continuance was the desire of "certain persons" to intimidate Van Daele.

O'Connor, whose home is at 1753 East 72d street, was arrested last April when a nonunion dairy driver asserted he had been halted by the business agent and forced to hand over his truck key and route book.

The overseas ministry has granted permission for construction of a $60,000 school at Oruki, outside Tokio.

Five hundred girls annually are expected to graduate from the new three month course in housekeeping and farming.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Dec. 27, Friday (AP).—The royal air force ended the unofficial Christmas bombing truce during the night, reliable sources said today, with an attack on German occupied territory across the English channel from England. On the defensive side in the air war there was a night long lull.

BERLIN, Dec. 26 (AP).—Adolf Hitler made a Christmas tour along the north French coastal front and extended his visit thru today, DNB, the official German news agency, disclosed tonight. He was in Boulogne yesterday.

He visited units of the army, navy, and air force, and also of the "organization Todt," engineering units named for the engineer who directed the building of the German west wall. These units now are said to be installing more heavy batteries along the English channel coast.

Hitler Gives Watchword.

Hitler told his soldiers, DNB said, that the watchword for the new year is:

"Before us lies the freedom and future of our folks, behind us lie past experiences, and in us lies the unswervable decision that out of this war shall come a better and more beautiful Germany."

The coastal batteries which he visited had their muzzles turned toward England.

Von Brauchitsch at Front.

But the presence of both Hitler and Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, the German commander in chief, at the front does not necessarily mean an immediate attempt to invade England, authorized sources said.

They remarked that both were at the German west wall [Siegfried line] last Christmas, but that no attack in that sector took place then.

NAZIS' AIR FORCE IS CALLED KEY TO BLOW AT BRITAIN

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Studies of Germany's tactical situation, her equipment and war psychology made by army staff college graduates here indicate that if the Nazis still are intent upon a serious attempt to invade England it must be made by their air forces primarily. And these students, who must remain unidentified, estimate that Germany's entire air fleets could dump a strong force of men—more than 500,000—into England within a fortnight.

Such an assault necessarily would be a maximum effort with the last airplane, the last man, and the last mechanical weapon in Germany's war machine behind it.

Obviously it would be a tremendous gamble—one on which the ultimate course of the entire war well might hinge. But this is the sort of gamble German commanders took, on smaller scales, in the battle of France and it is the type of bold stroke that German leaders love.

Assault on Many Fronts.

An aerial invasion of England is no more fantastic than was the aerial invasion of Norway or the Low Countries. In England, as in Norway, Holland, and Belgium, it would be essential that all German forces coöperated to launch an assault on many fronts. But the air attack is the one that will have the greatest chance of effecting a landing and the capturing of a "bridgehead," which would be the first invasion step, the students say. The points upon which an aerial invasion depend, according to the officers, are as follows:

1. Defeat or at least nullification of the Royal Air Force, which is England's first and foremost bulwark.
2. Close coöperation between Germany's ground, sea, and air forces.
3. Acquisition of much special material and training of special troop units.
4. Willingness to sacrifice large numbers of men to gain the goal.

The Training of Troops.

If such an invasion is to be attempted, the military students say it must be planned along the following lines and executed as roughly outlined hereafter:

The attempt begins with the training of troops and the gathering of transport vehicles. Both these efforts are under way. Parachutists experienced in the Polish, Norwegian, Dutch, Belgian, and French campaigns are now training 10 divisions of crack infantrymen, according to reports in England. These troops are learning to make low altitude parachute jumps in darkness, then to rendezvous and consolidate themselves to fight off ground opposition while reënforcements arrive.

They also are being taught to prepare the way for an even larger force of picked men who ride in troop-carrying gliders. These machines, capable of transporting from 18 to 20 heavily armed men, were used in Holland, Belgium, and France for assaults on certain forts and cities and their use is well understood in Germany anyway because of that country's experience in gliding. These men, too, have been trained in night flights and landings.

Make Use of Old Planes.

In the training program three or four of these large gliders have been towed behind Junkers Ju-52 trimotored airliners. Germany had, by actual count prior to the declaration of war in September, 1939, between 4,200 and 5,000 of these Ju-52s. They are an old type, the first having been built in 1930, but they land slowly, fly easily and lend themselves to towing or troop transporting admirably.

Loaded with 25 parachutes, the Ju-52s cruise at 145 miles an hour. Lightly loaded and pulling three of the 20 man gliders the Ju-52s cruise at 92 miles an hour. Extremely vulnerable to R. A. F. fighter planes by day, these sky trains could make a

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Heavily armed guards along the channel coast were doubled today as Christmas brought perfect invasion weather to the Strait of Dover. Special precautions were taken against the possibility of a lightning German thrust thru the blanket of mist over the calm sea.

Special patrols of picked troops armed with Bren and other automatic weapons patroled the beaches. Every cleft and fissure of the white cliffs above was watched. Coastal traffic was halted and searched at barricades. Drivers and their passengers, whether civilians or members of the fighting forces, had to produce identification cards.

Heed Words of Nazi Chief.

These precautions not only were regarded as necessary because of the ideal invasion weather, but also because of the pronouncement of Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, German commander in chief, in his Christmas message to German troops, in which he said, "Today I speak to you before a wall of water which protects England so long as it suits us."

The precautions also followed what had been an unofficial Christmas aviation truce in which for more than 48 hours neither German nor British bombs had been dropped on England or Germany.

A Rest for Bomber Crews.

The view taken here is that, because of the weather, "the Germans and British decided to rest their bomber crews, who had been continually engaged for months."

For Britain the day was one of an uneasy peace. Bombs—the first since early Monday morning—fell only once during the day, on the Isle of Sheppey in the Thames estuary. The government said there was little damage.

Key men in the British arms factories utilized the Christmas day recess from operations—and bombing—to do vital repair and maintenance work on machines, the supply ministry announced.

It added that at one arms factory which the Germans reported had been bombed to bits the workers went on with their jobs after every pane of glass had been blown from the skylights.

crossing from French airports by night without danger of air interception.

Estimates are that for a maximum effort some 4,000 Ju-52s towing from 8,000 to 10,000 gliders in one trip could bring from 100,000 to 125,000 parachutists and infantrymen, even considering losses, as well as essential combat supplies and weapons to England as an initial striking force. These would be shock troops carefully instructed in advance in the art of establishing themselves and preparing for reënforcements.

None of Planes Need to Land.

None of the Ju-52s needs to land. The parachutists would jettison themselves, and the machines towing gliders would merely let go these craft which would then swoop down to make their own landings. The gliders would be able to use tiny patches of cleared ground, because they land at 30 miles an hour and—without wheels—skid to a stop in 30 yards.

The airplanes meanwhile would be free to return to French fields for fresh loads or new glider trains, with the probability that two complete round trips could be made in a single English winter night [12 to 14 hours long].

It would be underestimating German thoroness to assume that any area in England has escaped the scrutiny and photographs of German airmen. From this information the Nazi staff can pick its point of attack with intelligence and an eye to the special requirements of aerial blitzkrieg.

Not Too Far From Channel.

Aerial invaders need country which is thinly populated, but which also is not too far from the channel coast. Undoubtedly the strategy of parachute shock troops would be to move on the coast and seize a stretch of ground where the mechanical monsters that operated so well in France could be landed without opposition. At this time English coast defenses are well organized and alert.

Purely as an illustration it has been suggested that the York moors or the York wolds—from the town of Middlesboro south to Whitby, Scarboro and Flamborough—offer such a locale.

Twenty miles inland from the coast there are wide areas—several hundred square miles—where according to standard atlases there is a population of only 17 persons to the square mile. The countryside is 1,419 feet above sea level, rolling and open with some heather and low scrub that would assist, not hinder, parachutists and gliders in landings.

Weapons on Second Trip.

On such moors it would be easy for parachutists or glider troops to spread landing mats or strips so that the Junkers on their second trips could land. On these second trips the planes would bring specially prepared weapons such as knocked down artillery, fabricated tanks that quickly could be put together on the scene, and other equipment.

Once the invasion attempt was started the Germans would make little effort to hide their purpose. Speed would be the essence of their attack. They would attempt to move so fast that the English could not get set to halt them until the initial force at least was well in and established.

Probably the stroke would come at night. The first plane loads of parachutists would jump in the dark. Once down, however, they would set up flare paths for the gliders and for other parachutists who would come later or who might have drifted away from the main force.

Could Use Civilian Aircraft.

With carefully timed execution it is not unthinkable that from 150,000 to 175,000 men could be brought into England in two trips in a single night. Germany has a total civilian air fleet of more than 20,000 airplanes upon which to draw, and no effort would be too great to speed the transshipment of the troops. Heavy losses, up to 25 per cent of those dispatched, would be expected and accepted.

Once in England the Nazis would need the full power of their air force to fight off the British air raiders by daylight. They would require the full power of their Stuka dive bomber squadrons to act as artillery for the infantrymen on the ground who would be weakest in tanks and heavy weapons.

Heavier Luftwaffe bomber squadrons would be sent out to raid British communications centers, roads, and troop concentrations. German naval units would be in the channel and no phase of English life or of English troops would escape attacks designed to prevent the island forces from overwhelming forthwith the parachutists.

All Strength Thrown In.

Maintaining the ground forces thru even one day would mean that all of Germany's numerical superiority in the air would have to be thrown into the battle. Many authorities place the German superiority at 3 to 1 in first line combat planes, but up to date this has not been exploited to its limit in any of the air operations over England.

It would be essential that the Germans maintain nearly a 2 to 1 superiority over their ground troops to fight off the British combat planes. This is a great superiority to maintain over England—what with difficulties of fueling, maintenance, and traveling of squadrons from their bases in France or Holland to the scene of conflict.

Fundamentally, the student officers say, the full burden of success or failure for the attempt would be carried by the Luftwaffe. If the Germans were able to achieve air supremacy over the invaded portion of England and over the route to be flown by transports from France, then the effort could succeed. If this supremacy was not gained and held, the ground troops soon would be defeated and captured thru lack of supplies, ammunition, or weapons.

The Problems of Supply.

Problems of supply for a force of half a million men or more mount quickly into unsurmountable obstacles if they are not solved. Combat troops could do without food for perhaps two or three days—carrying special "iron rations"—but ammunition could not be saved. It would, however, be possible to drop ammunition by parachute by day even tho the English put up stiff resistance on the ground and by air.

A great weakness of the aerial invaders would be their lack of tanks. In France the Panzer divisions were led into battle by 30 to 50 ton monsters mounting 77 mm. [3 inch] or heavier cannon. Some of these tanks carried guns said to be as large as 4.5 inches.

It is impossible, at the present stage of aviation, to transport such huge tanks by air. But lighter ones, up to perhaps 15 tons, could be brought over in parts and assembled by specially trained crews in a matter of four or five hours.

Coupled with Sea Invasion.

Unquestionably, the air invasion would be coupled with a sea invasion. The aerialists would strike from inland toward the coast. And simultaneously the coast would be hit from the sea. The solution of the Germans' supply problem would be the seizure of a "bridgehead" on some stretch of British coast or some coastal town where barges, vessels, and transports could make landings.

It seems impossible for the Nazis to hide the gathering of boats for a channel crossing, but it would not be too difficult for them to hide the gathering of men, planes, and material for an air invasion.

Literally hundreds of airports could be utilized in France, and the "concentrations" could be scattered around so that no undue numbers would be at any one field. The flexibility of the airplane makes this seeming contradiction possible.

English reconnaissance and day bombers have been virtually halted over Germany and France by the Nazi fighter network that has made their use too costly. This has crippled, to some extent, the information service available to British intelligence service, and makes invasion prevention measures more difficult.

SANK 2 INDO-CHINESE TROOP TRANSPORTS ON CHRISTMAS: THAILAND

BANGKOK, Thailand, Dec. 26 (AP).—The Thai [Siamese] high command today reported Thai guns had sunk two Mekong river troop transports on Christmas day in hostilities between Thailand and French Indo-China. The boats were sunk after French guns shelled the vicinity of Thakhek, the communique said.

Sharp Fighting on Frontier.

HANOI, French Indo-China, Dec. 26 (AP).—Sharp hostilities along the frontier of Thailand [Siam] and Indo-China marked the Christmas period of Southeast Asia's undeclared war. The fighting was the heaviest in the last fortnight, French sources said today.

FRENCH MINISTER TALKS TO NAZIS ON COLLABORATION

VICHY, France, Dec. 26 (AP).—Navy Minister Admiral Jean Darlan returned today from Paris where it is believed he told German authorities how collaboration with France might continue.

Darlan, who appears to have taken over Pierre Laval's place as negotiator with Germany, conferred with Chief of State Henri Petain, Defense Minister Gen. Charles Huntziger, Interior Minister Marcel Peyrouton, and Finance Minister Marcel Bouthillier. Darlan went to Paris Christmas eve on an undefined government mission.

Informed quarters said they believed Darlan had presented Petain's stand that if the chief of state ever crosses the demarcation line between occupied and unoccupied France he will go also as chief of government. That is important since the chief of state is considered to be without actual governing powers. It is as chief of government and first officer of the cabinet that Marshal Petain exercises dictatorial power over unoccupied France.

ARMY RECEIVES TWIN ENGINE TRAINING PLANE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26 [Special].—The first of a new type of training plane, the AT-8, manufactured by the Cessna Aircraft company of Wichita, Kas., has been delivered to the army, the war department announced today.

It is said to be the first advanced training plane powered with two engines, and will be used for transition in the student pilot's training from single T twin engined planes. The AT-8 is a two seater, powered with Lycoming 280 horsepower, nine cylinder radial engines, and has two blade constant pitch propellers. It has a wing span of 41 feet 11 inches and weighs 5,100 pounds. It is a low wing monoplane with retractable landing gear.

BRITISH AUTHOR TELLS OF LIFE IN A GERMAN CAMP

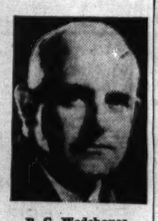
Wodehouse Lives Like the Other Internees.

[Angus Thuermer of the Associated Press Berlin staff journeyed to a prison camp in Upper Silesia, eastern Germany, to interview P. G. Wodehouse, the British author taken prisoner when the German armies swept thru northern France. Thuermer, a native of Quincy, Ill., hails from Chicago.]

BY ANGUS THUERMER.

[Copyright: 1940: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—P. G. Wodehouse, the imperturbable creator of the unexampled Jeeves, is cheerfully writing a book about American crooks these days in a room in a German civilian internment camp that once was the padded cell of a madhouse.



P. G. Wodehouse.

The author's companions are truck drivers, coal heavers, Cambridge graduates, artists, some of Britain's consuls—an assortment of Britons picked up by the Nazis all the way from Brest Litovsk, Poland, to the English channel, and from Kirkenes, Norway, to the Brenner pass.

Wodehouse was arrested in occupied France, at his villa in Le Touquet, on the channel, during the German offensive last May.

1,100 Held in the Camp.

When I arrived at the Silesian camp, where he and 1,100 other British subjects are held inside double barbed wire fences, the camp commander ordered the novelist brought to his office for an interview.

Wodehouse came in smiling; pulled a battered old cap from his shining head, stretched out a hand and said: "Well, my, my. It's certainly grand of you to come down to see me."

He was wearing a long, heavy tan bathrobe held together with a leather belt, a blue turtle-neck sweater, a tweed sports jacket, trousers, and knit gloves.

No Chance to Leave France.

"Coming over here to east Germany came as an absolute blow to me," he said. "It all happened so quickly, you know, that I really didn't have a chance to leave France.

"Really before I could do anything the war was over for me. By the end of May the whole thing was settled in my territory."

In July he was sent with other British prisoners to Loos, France, where, he said, the French police treated them as criminals and allowed them outside a cell only 1 hour in 24.

But "the German commander came to inspect," the author related, "and went thru that place like an east wind. He raised hell."

Held in Former Insane Asylum.

Soon the prisoners were transferred to Belgium and then to the present camp, which formerly was an insane asylum.

The prisoners, Wodehouse said, have reveille at 6 a. m., have breakfast and roll call at 9 a. m. After that they can see the doctor and are free to pursue their chosen activity until lunch time, since as civilians they are not required to work.

Wodehouse refused to accept special housing privileges and lives in a room with 60 other internees. His dormitory is lighted only by unshaded bulbs and in the twilight many of the internees looked far from their best.

He claimed the early-to-bed schedule was "giving me health I never achieved in private life." He said he was becoming "a great admirer of the German potato."

HALF OF JANUARY ARMY INDUCTION TO BE DRAFTEES

More than half of the 2,600 men to be inducted into the army from Cook county next month will be draftees, it was indicated yesterday. The rest will be classed as draft volunteers because they have asked that they be given their year's training at once instead of waiting for their draft numbers to be called.

The first 87 men will be inducted from five local draft board areas next Friday. Policies on which these five boards have determined their deferment decisions indicate that the number of deferments will be higher than expected.

An average of one man in six is being placed in class 1-A, fit and ready for immediate service. On this basis, order numbers up to 1,140 would be called before the 190 men which the average board will furnish this year could be approved. Four of the five boards which will provide men next Friday have deferred all married men.

EXPECT TO CALL 4,000 NURSES INTO ARMY BY JULY 1

More than 4,000 Red Cross reserve nurses will have been called to active duty with the armed forces by July 1, Brig. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commander of the 6th corps area, asserted yesterday.

All nurses now being selected are under 40 years of age. Other qualifications include: Graduation from an approved school of nursing, state registration, affiliation with the American Nurses' association, and American citizenship. The nurses may be single, widowed, or divorced. An army nurse is paid $840 yearly, plus maintenance, with an additional $40 per month rental allowance when quarters are not provided.

Nellie X. Hawkinson, director of nursing education at the University of Chicago and a member of the subcommittee on nursing of the national defense advisory committee, said one nurse is required for each 270 conscripts.

CALLS BELGIANS 19-25 TO ARMS TO AID BRITAIN

New York, Dec. 26 (AP).—Charles Hallaert, Belgian consul general, announced today that his government in London had issued a "call to arms" for all Belgians, between the ages of 19 to 25, who are living in countries not occupied by the Germans.

The decree, said Hallaert, affected all Belgians born between Jan. 1, 1915, and Dec. 31, 1921. Volunteers between the ages of 16 and 36 also would be accepted.

"Armed Belgian units are now being formed in England to fight side by side with the British and allied armies," Hallaert said the decree announced, "Belgians in countries non-occupied by the German army are affected by this decree and should at once consult their nearest consul regarding their present military status."

HEAR U.S. SEEKS PAN-AMERICAN'S USE IN DEFENSE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26 (AP).—The United States war and navy departments have opened negotiations to incorporate Pan-American Airways' far flung network of airports into the continental defense plans, responsible sources reported here tonight.

These negotiations embrace not only Pan-American's facilities in Mexico, from which squadrons of warplanes could operate to defend the immediate coast lines of the United States in both oceans, but the company's fields and equipment thruout Central and South America.

As reported here, Washington contemplates investing millions of dollars jointly with Pan-American in the construction of hard surfaced runways, extension of existing runways, construction of underground fuel storage tanks, and enlargement of hangar space. The outlay for the company's Mexican fields would entail between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, it was estimated. Work, it was said, will begin as soon as possible, here and elsewhere.

REPORT RUSSIA MASSES TROOPS FACING RUMANIA

Hear of Move as Germans Cross Hungary.

Trains Collide

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 26 (AP).—With Rumanian railways carrying especially heavy German military traffic, seven persons were killed and scores injured today in two passenger train collisions. One occurred near Bucharest, the other near Timisoara. Police started investigations, suspecting sabotage. German military trains are moving into the country from Hungary in great numbers.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 26 (AP).—Concentration of Russian forces along the Rumanian frontier was reported under way today as Germany poured the initial units of 300,000 fresh troops into Rumania and ordered a speedup in the Balkan kingdom's production of war materials.

Baron Manfred von Killinger.

A spurt of diplomatic activity in southeastern European capitals accompanied this military activity, believed by some observers to presage a possible showdown between powers with conflicting interests in the Balkans.

The Russian concentrations were reported along the Prut river, which became the dividing line between Rumania and the soviet union after Moscow obtained Bessarabia and northern Bukovina from the Bucharest government by ultimatum last June 27.

Carry Full Equipment.

German troops moved across Hungary in special trains with artillery, bridge building equipment, tanks, and other motorized vehicles.

[Other dispatches from Berlin said authoritative quarters there had described reports of German troop concentrations in Rumania as "laughable."]

Under the German ordered speedup in Rumania's war production, two large Rumanian industrial plants will be devoted to the manufacture of warplanes for Germany, diplomatic dispatches from Bucharest said. A submarine building yard already in operation at Galati, these advices added, has been ordered to increase its production.

All this German military activity coincided with the shift of Baron Manfred von Killinger, Nazi minister to Slovakia, to the same post at Bucharest. He is prepared to rule Rumania as Adolf Hitler's virtual gauleiter [district leader], informed sources asserted. He formerly was consul general in San Francisco.

Control of Civil Administration.

Diplomatic reports from Bucharest said the Germans were prepared to take over complete control of Rumania's civil administration.

On the diplomatic front, the Turkish minister to Bucharest, Hamdulla Submi Tanriover, arrived in Ankara today to confer with Turkish officials. Simultaneously, some members of the soviet legation in Bucharest prepared to leave for Moscow.

Diplomatic reports from Sofia tonight said that 27 high ranking Bulgarian army officers who wanted Bulgaria to enter the war on the side of the axis had been put on the retired list by order of King Boris. The officers are reported to have argued that Bulgaria should fight the Greeks and the Turks in order to be rewarded by Germany with an outlet to the Aegean and large slices of Macedonia "after the axis victory."

In Sofia, members of the foreign affairs committee said that Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff had told them that Bulgaria has "acquainted" Greece with the "character of Bulgaria's territorial claims."

Say Bucharest Airport Burns.

MOSCOW, Dec. 26 (AP).—Reports of a mysterious fire at the Bucharest airport and mounting death rate among children of Rumania appeared in the Russian press today. The government organ Izvestia said the airport fire was being investigated by Rumanian officials.

Pravda said 4 of every 10 children in Rumania were dying of tuberculosis and malnutrition, and in a like vein Izvestia published a survey purporting to show extreme poverty and suffering among Rumanian peasants.

WARNS BRITAIN: DON'T EXPECT U.S. MIRACLE IN ARMS

Sees an 'Avalanche' by Next Winter.

LONDON, Dec. 26 (AP).—Sir Walter Thomas Layton, British journalist-economist now attached to the ministry of supply, told his countrymen frankly today they must not expect an "avalanche" of war material from the United States until next winter.

Sir Walter Layton.

Back from his supply mission to the United States, he told a press conference that Americans did not "fully realize" the scale of rearmament necessary "for the defeat of Germany" and, as yet, "no orders have been placed on the scale ultimately required for victory."

Warns: "Don't Expect Miracle."

However, he expressed confidence that "if we hold on thru 1941" American war supplies would make their full weight felt late in the year. This, he said, "is a certainty of ultimate victory."

"Don't expect a miracle from the United States," the economist warned.

American war department orders were placed between July and October of this year, he said, and "it will take a long time" for these and Britain's own orders to mature.

Says U. S. Nonbelligerent.

Then he explained his belief that America's participation in the fight "to overwhelm Germany" made the term "nonbelligerent" rather than "neutral" applicable to the United States.

American sentiment against sending troops abroad to fight, Layton said, was "very deep," partly for humanitarian reasons and partly because many Americans felt the United States would be mixing in European affairs in which the nation had no interest.

Layton saw the late Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, 48 hours before he died on Dec. 12. He said that to the end Lothian was firm in the belief that Britain and the United States had "one strategy" in the war.

JAPANESE MOP UP GUERRILLAS IN 3 AREAS OF CHINA

SHANGHAI, Dec. 27, Friday (AP).—Japanese forces are mopping up guerrillas in three widely separated areas in China despite intense cold weather, Domei, the Japanese news agency, reported today.

It said the largest operations were in western Shansi province, where Japanese land and air assaults drove 15,000 Chinese from a base at Meikiatan and destroyed military establishments.

North of the Yangtze river, it said, the Japanese dispersed 1,000 guerrillas who have been molesting the Tientsin-Nanking railway.

BELIEVE 10 AXIS SHIPS MAY DASH FROM MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26 (AP).—Sources in the navy department here said tonight one German and nine Italian ships now at refuge in Tampico harbor were under close watch by port authorities in the belief that they would soon attempt a dash into the Atlantic.

Waterfront sources in Tampico said officers and crew members of the ships were bidding farewell to friends, and that two Italian ships had been moved to anchorages near the mouth of the Panuco river. No application for clearance papers has been made by any of the vessels.

AUSTRALIAN AID WILL CONFER ON PACIFIC DEFENSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26 (AP).—British talks begun by the late Lord Lothian with Secretary of State Cordell Hull on mutual defense problems in the Pacific will be carried on for some time by the Australian minister, Richard G. Casey, it was indicated tonight.

Casey's past participation in many of these informal conversations, informed sources said, made him a link for maintaining their continuity without serious interruption by the death of Lord Lothian, British ambassador. The new British envoy, Lord Halifax, will come to the United States early in the new year with an intimate knowledge of the talks gained from Lord Lothian's reports to him as foreign secretary.

For some time after his arrival, however, Lord Halifax is expected to be absorbed chiefly with problems connected with American aid to Britain and questions of European diplomacy, thus leaving to Casey the main task of keeping up the Pacific talks with Secretary Hull. Japan's formal alliance with Germany and Italy placed new emphasis on Pacific defense problems for both Great Britain and the United States.

SAYS U. S. URGED TO TELL CITIZENS TO LEAVE JAPAN

TOKIO, Dec. 27, Friday (AP).—Nichi Nichi today quoted reliable sources as saying the United States government had been urged "to advise American residents in Japan to leave not later than Jan. 31."

The newspaper cited in this connection an increase in the number of scheduled calls by American vessels at Japanese ports during January. It said the American President liners Taft, Coolidge, Cleveland, and Pierce are due during January in contrast to the decrease in calls of recent months when most American ships to the orient went direct to Shanghai or Manila without touching Japanese ports.

The newspaper also said the United States was being urged to extend its economic pressure on Japan by forbidding all American vessels to stop here after Feb. 1.

[In New York a British wireless broadcast quoted the Japanese Times, English language newspaper in Tokio, as saying: "There may be a complete closing down of far eastern markets to American imports as a reprisal for American restrictions on Japanese imports."]

GREEK CAPTURE OF KEY TOWN IN NORTH REPORTED

Seizure of Lin Would Open Path to Elbasan.

BITOLJ, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 26 (AP).—Greek patrols have entered the village of Lin on Lake Ochrida, 15 miles north of Pogradetz, on the road to Elbasan, according to reports reaching this town near the Albanian frontier.

Military informants said the capture of Lin, which the Italians defended stubbornly, would open the way for Greek columns to push northwestward to attempt a flanking move against Elbasan, only 30 miles from Tirana, the Albanian capital.

Claim Greeks Beaten Back.

ROME, Dec. 26 (AP).—Italian troops battling on the Albanian front were reported officially today to have beaten back Greek assaults in several sectors, inflicting "considerable losses" on the attackers and taking a number of prisoners. At the same time, the Italian high command said, Fascist warplanes bombed Greek naval bases "and enemy harbor installations."

Report 45,000 Italians Wounded.

ATHENS, Dec. 26 (AP).—Italy's war against Greece has cost the Fascists 45,000 men in wounded alone since the campaign began Oct. 28, captured Italian officers estimated tonight as the Greeks thrust ahead thru mud and snow north and northwest of Chimara, Albania. The officers, talking to correspondents at the front, made no estimate of the Italian dead, but said the toll was extremely high.

The fighting today was described by the Greeks as of a local nature, but the battle for Tepeleni and Klisura in the central sector continued. The Greek spokesman said that north and northwest of Chimara "Italian troops suffered another defeat."

British Claim Advantage in Air.

LONDON, Dec. 26 (AP).—Italy lost at least 39 airplanes to nine British losses in operations in the Greek-Italian conflict from Nov. 7 to Dec. 21, the air ministry news service reported today in giving details of royal air force activities in support of the Greeks.

Britain Names Cunningham Admiralty Commissioner

LONDON, Dec. 26 (AP).—The admiralty tonight announced the appointment of Admiral Sir H. D. Cunningham as a lord commissioner [executive officer] of the admiralty and chief of supplies and transport, effective April 1. Cunningham, who now holds a sea appointment, will succeed Vice Admiral Geoffrey S. Arbuthnot, who will go to the East Indies as commander in chief of naval forces, replacing Admiral Ralph Leatham.

BREAKFAST FOOD, CEREAL PRICES FIXED BY BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The ministry of food today announced control of trade prices for cereals and breakfast foods beginning Jan. 1. Prices will be fixed at those prevailing on Dec. 2. The order also provides that after Jan. 24 "no persons will be permitted to manufacture, produce, or packet cereal or breakfast foods except under license."

Face Meat Ration Cut.

LONDON, Dec. 26 (AP).—Britain's meat ration is likely to be reduced from that purchasable for one shilling tenpence [about 37 cents] per week to purchases of one shilling sixpence [about 30 cents] per week per person early in January, it was reported reliably today. Britain rations meat by price rather than weight. The one shilling tenpence allowance bought about a pound and a half of beef.

Pork, tripe, kidneys, liver and sausages, which hitherto have not been rationed, now may be part of the ration. Members of the fighting services, who until now have enjoyed larger rations, are expected to take a cut in proportion to that given the civilian population.

HEAR PARAGUAY SEIZES LIBERALS ON PLOT CHARGES

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 26 (AP).—Travelers arriving here today from Asuncion, Paraguay, said that on Christmas morning the Paraguayan military government began rounding up and imprisoning members of the Liberal party on charges they had plotted to overthrow the régime.

They said 180 were in jail awaiting transfer to a concentration camp.

The travelers said young military officers were directing activities of the government headed by Gen. Higinio Morinigo, who took full government powers into his hands last month. The Liberal party was in power for many years.

BRITAIN REVEALS DESTROYER SUNK; 36TH LOST IN WAR

Big Food Ship Torpedoed Off Coast of Ireland.

LONDON, Dec. 26 (AP).—The 1,350 ton British destroyer Acheron has been sunk, the admiralty announced tonight. No details of the action, its date, or the number of casualties from the vessel's normal complement of 138 officers and men were given.

The warship, built in 1930 and was equipped with extraordinarily high pressure boilers, was capable of 35 knots. On a trial run the Acheron established a record of fuel economy. Her boiler pressure of 500 pounds per square inch was said then to be 66 per cent greater than anything previously attained.

The Acheron was the 36th British destroyer officially acknowledged to have been lost in the war.

Big Food Ship Torpedoed.

New York, Dec. 26 (AP).—The British freighter Waiotira, 12,823 ton refrigerated ship, radioed today that she has been torpedoed about 400 miles northwest of the Irish coast.

She was the third large food ship reported torpedoed in the last 10 days.

She was completed last year at Belfast and was one of the finest ships of her type.

The 12,196 ton Napier Star, and the Orari, 10,350 tons, both food ships vital to England, were torpedoed recently in submarine attacks on British convoys. Refrigerated ships are expensive and not too numerous.

Raider May Have Been Sunk.

The German liner Hamburg, once called the "floating athletic field," may have been sunk while operating as a raider off Portugal, Capt. Joel Gomes of the freighter Concalo Vehlo said today.

Capt. Gomes said on his arrival here that he had sighted an empty lifeboat bearing the name "Hamburg" 200 miles east of the Azores Dec. 11.

Disclose Freighter Torpedoed.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Dec. 26 (AP).—The torpedo sinking of the 5,378 ton British freighter Aracataca in the Atlantic Dec. 1 was disclosed today by 15 surviving crewmen reaching this port.

Nothing has been heard from 49 other members of the crew, last seen in three lifeboats. The rescued men said the ship was sunk 700 miles west of Ireland by a submarine.

SPANISH FAMILY FIGHTS FOR CHILD REFUGEE OF WAR

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 26.—Luis Font Aguilera, Spanish boy who was carried out of Spain with the retreating Republicans in May, 1939, threatened today to become the cause of a minor international incident involving Spain and Belgium.

Luis was adopted by a childless Belgian couple, who found him lying ill and abandoned in a Liege hospital. Recently his family, living in Barcelona, learned where he was and demanded his return. The Belgian couple replied they have grown attached to the boy whose life they saved and accused his parents of having abandoned him.

The boy's father made public his reply, denying the boy was abandoned and asserting he was carried off by retreating "Red" militia men. Spanish diplomatic authorities in Brussels and an official organization for the repatriation of Spanish children have been asked to intervene with the Belgian government.

BRITISH BREAK A TRADITION; WORK ON BOXING DAY

Forgo Holiday to Speed War Production.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 26. — Millions of British workers in offices, factories, and the public services went back to work today after their one day Christmas holiday — the first time since the passing of the bank holidays act in 1871 that Boxing day was not observed as a general holiday. War factories were running at full speed and other industries responded to the government's appeal to carry on with their work.

[Boxing day, the first week day after Christmas, is a legal holiday on which Christmas boxes are given to postmen, etc.]

Even the city of London broke the tradition. Afternoon newspapers appeared as usual, the stock exchange was open, and insurance companies and stores were operating. The Billingsgate fish market was open for the first time on Boxing day.

West End Deserted.

London's West End, however, was comparatively deserted because the big stores and other shopkeepers there gave a holiday to those whose work did not interfere with the war effort.

Despite appeals of the ministry of transport that the public refrain from travel over the holidays, extra trains were put into service by the railway committee which explained that "if the public were not to be stranded at junctions and terminals it was essential to run relief trains."

Newspaper Complains.

The London Evening News complained that the effect of curtailed rail service was to penalize the patriotic people who sacrificed having Christmas with their families.

"Hundreds of people spent a lonely Christmas because they thought the railway lines were urgently needed for goods and coal traffic," it said, "whereas the rest of England's passenger expresses were being duplicated or triplicated all day."

An editorial branded the government's request that people forgo Christmas travel "just a show." It said that officials were "merely doing a little window dressing and making another gesture in the air," and admonished that "in wartime every government scheme publicly announced should be put into action in its entirety."

"Otherwise," it said, "the official capacity for earnestness will be questioned and all the government's proposals received either halfheartedly or with reservations."

2 Sailors Lost from Army Transport in Pacific Storm

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 26 (AP).—The loss of two sailors in a storm was reported by Capt. A. H. Schulz of the army transport Etolin on arrival today. The storm struck without warning on Dec. 20 when his ship was about 1,200 miles west of Honolulu, Capt. Schulz said. The wind was so terrific it was impossible for any one to stand on deck. Two Filipino sailors were killed by the fury of the blast. Only minor damage was done to the Etolin, formerly the Matsonia.

GUARD'S BLACK HORSE SQUADRON LEAVES FOR CAMP NEXT THURSDAY

Maj. Roy D. Keehn Jr., commander of Chicago's Black Horse squadron of the Illinois National Guard, announced yesterday that the 19 officers and 409 men of the squadron will leave by rail next Thursday for Camp Livingston, Louisiana, where they will begin a year's training.

The 106th cavalry regiment, of which the squadron is a part, was inducted into federal service Nov. 25 and had been expected to go to Camp Livingston immediately afterward, but departure was delayed because the camp was not completed.

The 2d [mechanized] squadron of the regiment, located in Springfield, and the headquarters troop of Urbana went to camp Dec. 12. With the Black Horse [1st] squadron next Thursday will go three other Chicago units, the regimental band and the veterinary and medical sections, and the remaining Urbana unit, the service troop.

During the last month the Black Horse squadron has gone thru a preliminary training program in its armory at 230 East Chicago avenue.

G-MEN ARREST GERMAN AGENT AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Dec. 26 (AP). — Federal Bureau of Investigation agents tonight arrested Eugene J. Buerk, 40, on a charge of having acted as an agent of a foreign government, Germany, without having registered with the secretary of state as required by federal law.

L. V. Boardman, chief Milwaukee FBI agent, said that Buerk was a German citizen and had been in the United States about 15 years. E. J. Koelzer, assistant United States district attorney, said that Buerk admitted membership in the Nazi party. He stated that Buerk had acted on behalf of the German counsul in Chicago and had claimed to represent the German government.

In January, 1939, Buerk recruited skilled workmen here for work in Germany and several signed up. While recruiting workers, Buerk stated that he was working for an unidentified Chicagoan.

AMERICANS DENY ITALIAN KILLED IN SAILORS' ROW

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 27, Friday (AP).—United States Marine officers today denied unconfirmed reports carried in all Shanghai newspapers that an Italian marine was killed in a Christmas eve cabaret brawl between Italians and American marines and sailors.

The officers also denied that Italian authorities had officially apologized, but said they had "expressed regrets" for the incident in which nine American marines and three sailors were listed as slightly injured. The Italians refused to say how many Italian marines were injured, but the newspapers reported 20 were battered.

The fight, said to have originated in a dispute over a table, was stopped by military police.

ITALIANS, BRITISH TRADE AIR BLOWS IN BARDIA BATTLE

Fascists Try to Disrupt Siege of Libyan Base.

WITH BRITISH FORCES OUTSIDE BARDIA, Libya, Dec. 26 (AP).—The Italian air force concentrated its activity in the Bardia region today in an attempt to impede the British land forces surrounding this Libyan outpost. The British air force continued to bomb Libyan air fields in order to keep the Italians on the ground as much as possible.

All indications point to a real British drive to be opened soon on the estimated 20,000 Italians who are besieged in Bardia.

Claim British Cruiser Sunk.

ROME, Dec. 26 (AP).—The Italian high command today claimed successes on sea and land against the British. Submarines operating in the Mediterranean and Atlantic ocean, a communique said, sank a light British cruiser and two large steamers, the last two in the Atlantic, where another vessel was declared struck by a torpedo.

Amid heavy artillery exchanges and air bombing by Italian flyers, land forces of the Fascists were reported to have repelled British assaults on a desert post near Bardia, in Libya. Italian bombers also were reported to have scored hits on a British warship along the north African coast.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALGECIRAS, Spain, Dec. 26.—A number of British troops at Gibraltar were taken ill the last few days as a result of drinking what was asserted to be contaminated liquor bought in Gibraltar bars, it was learned today. Military authorities have notified bar owners they will be fined 20 pounds [about $80] or given a month in jail if any more soldiers become ill from drinking.

VICHY REPORTS PEACE RUMORS INVOLVING U. S.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

VICHY, France, Dec. 26.—Rumors reach here of the possibility of intervention or of negotiation to end the war, with particular reference to the conflict between Britain and Italy. The rumors come from several sources.

There is interest, for instance, in United States Senator Millard R. Tydings' suggestion that the belligerents should be asked on what conditions they would be prepared to end hostilities.

There is also the trip to north Africa of Robert Murphy, American charge d'affaires here, ostensibly to inspect consulates [it is pointed out that north Africa is not very distant from some points in Italy].

5,000 HOMELESS IN BRAZIL RAINS LASTING 4 DAYS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 26.—Torrential rains, lasting four days and swelling the waters of Parahybuna river, have flooded vast areas and half submerged Juiz de Fora, industrial center in Minas Geraes state. The floods have caused a number of deaths, made 5,000 persons homeless and resulted in damage estimated at $5,000,000. The waters began receding today.

Government inspectors have found four textile mills partly destroyed and several silk manufacturing plants competely wrecked. Juiz de Fora lacks bread, milk, meat, and vegetables.

Vaccine and medicines have been rushed by plane to the city.

PRO-WAR GROUP BEGS FULL U. S. AID FOR BRITAIN

Roosevelt Asked to Give All Needed to Win.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—President Roosevelt today was called upon by a group of almost 200 leading interventionists "to make certain the defeat of Germany" by providing Great Britain with anything and everything needed to win the war.

The plea was made in a telegram as Mr. Roosevelt cancelled all appointments in order to work on the fireside chat he will deliver to the nation Sunday night. White House Secretary Stephen Early said that the address will be clear and specific on aid to Britain.

The interventionists expressed complete approval of the President's scheme to lend or lease armaments to Great Britain and asked him to inform the nation of the "consequences to us and to our children's children" if Britain fails.

Authors Among Signers.

Most of the signers are identified with various organizations which are seeking to bring America into the war actually as well as economically.

They included Hamilton Fish Armstrong, editor of Foreign Affairs; Herbert Agar, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal; Henry Seidel Canby, author; Robert E. Sherwood, playwright; Marshall Field 3d, capitalist; Freda Kirchwey, editor of The Nation; James B. Conant, president of Harvard university; Walter Wanger, motion picture producer, and Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

The signers are virtually all members of the so-called Francis Perkins Miller faction of war-minded members of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, the outstanding interventionist body. The faction is headed by and named after a Virginia publicist and world reformer.

White's Name Omitted.

It was considered significant that William Allen White, Kansas publisher, who is chairman of the committee, was not among the signers.

It was reliably learned today that White's recent statement that he wants to keep America out of war has produced a row within the committee. The more rabid war mongers within the body have increased its directorship from 7 to 14 in order to consider disciplinary action against White. White may be called upon to modify his statement to make an appeal for American entry into the war on the side of Britain or may even be forced to withdraw from the committee, it was said.

Ask for Clarification.

The telegram to President Roosevelt opened by stating that many persons do not understand "the dark consequences to us, to freedom, and to democracy here, to the foundations of American institutions," which may befall in the event the axis powers are victorious. It urged Mr. Roosevelt to sweep away "ignorance and apathy" such as that which brought disaster to many European democracies.

"We ask you to clarify once more, but perhaps in greater detail, the nature of the conflict which threatens to wipe out the sort of Christian civilization in which men may be free from the restraints of intolerance, from the fear of injustice, and from the menace of arbitrary power," the telegram said.

"We ask you to inform us, clearly and boldly, of the possibilities of English failure and of the consequences to us and to our children's children should Britain fail.

Urge National Policy.

"We ask you to tell us what we believe to be the truth, that the materials of war and the military and naval and air strength we now have and the implements we can produce are enough to make certain the defeat of the axis powers, as long as Britain is on her feet and fighting, but that with Britain down, they are not enough and may not in the future be increased enough to hold the whole world at bay.

"We ask you to make it the settled policy of this country to do everything that may be necessary to insure the defeat of the axis powers, and thus to encourage here and everywhere resistance to the plausible but fatal arguments of appeasement."

In announcing that the president's fireside chat will discuss aid to Britain, Secretary Early said that the address will contain no figures, which "other governments might like to have." The omission of figures will prevent any measurement of the extent of the breakdown of the national defense program, which observers had expected might be given in the address.

Other Messages Await.

The President ordered his appointment list cut to "must" callers for the next several days. In addition to the fireside chat, he must draft his annual message on the state of the union to congress and his budget message of the 1942 fiscal year which begins July 1, 1941.

Executive orders for establishment of the new supreme defense council are being prepared and will be issued as soon as possible, Early said.

Early said the question of a personal appearance by the President to deliver his message to the opening session of the 77th congress has not been discussed as yet.

WANTS TO SEND INTERVENTIONIST GROUP TO BRITAIN

William J. Grace, chairman of the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee, charged last night that the group of interventionists who called upon President Roosevelt in Washington yesterday to provide England with everything needed to win the war are "over age destroyers of American government."

"They ought to be sent to Britain in exchange for nothing, because that is what they are worth to the United States," Grace said.

"No American with any knowledge of the fundamentals of American government or with any love of free representative American institutions; no American with a hatred of dictatorship, and with the innate ability that free men have to sense the presence of dictatorship would have sent the save Britain telegram to the President."

Clipper Taking Diphtheria Antitoxin to European Port

New York, Dec. 26 [Special].—The Dixie Clipper took off here today for Lisbon, Portugal, with 50 pounds, or 11,000 units, of diphtheria antitoxin and 14 pounds, or 7,000 shots, of diphtheria toxoid, the former addressed to United States Ambassador Alexander W. Weddell in Spain and the latter to the British Red Cross in London. Both shipments were sent by the American Red Cross and were carried free of charge on the Clipper.

ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR SHIP DRIVE TO AID BRITAIN TOLD

He May Propose It in His Next "Chat."

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26 (AP).—President Roosevelt will propose shortly, an authoritative source said tonight, that the United States construct a great number of merchant ships at high speed to offset the heavy inroads made by Nazi planes and submarines on Britain's "lifeline."

The reported program is reminiscent of the one under which ships were built in record time during the world war.

Program to Be "Extensive."

Details were not disclosed, but a reliable informant said the program would be "extensive" and that it would fit into the plan which Mr. Roosevelt has discussed for leasing or lending equipment and supplies to the besieged country.

To avoid a "bottleneck" in marine engine production, this source continued, reciprocating engines would be used in the ships instead of turbo-electric equipment. The reason given for this was that some unused facilities for the production of reciprocating engines were available, whereas plants to turn out the more modern equipment were loaded with work and could not be expanded quickly.

It was not disclosed whether the proposed ships would themselves be made available to Britain, or vessels now coming off the ways for the American merchant marine would be released to the British and replaced in this country's fleet with the subsequent production.

Leases or Loans.

In view of recent statements by administration officials that Britain would be in great need of help next spring, there was widespread speculation that some of the current production or ships now laid up might be leased or loaned. Vessels whose keels have not yet been laid down could not be completed by spring under any practicable speed-up, experts said, even if they were built of wood as in world war days.

The maritime commission has since the beginning of 1938 started the construction of 179 new transocean craft, comprising the first major addition to the merchant fleet since the end of the world war. Of these, 54 have been completed and are now in service.

FAMILY MOVES, BUT A SQUIRREL PAL FINDS THEM

Peter, the squirrel that adopted the Edward Saarela family back in 1936, has just finished his fifth holiday season with his patient hosts.

The Saarelas lived at 317 Barry avenue when Peter discovered, more than four years ago, that a long leap from his favorite bough would land him beside the Saarela breakfast table, which was always good for a handout. Peter made himself at home and even brought in his wife, Minnie. Peter and Minnie spent four winters in and around the apartment, appearing with the first frost and, in the spring, leaving for wherever squirrels spend their summers.

Since last winter, the Saarelas have moved to 325 Wellington avenue, a block away. They didn't expect to see Peter this winter. But Peter found them, and on Christmas day gave himself a package of the Saarelas' cigarets. He apparently has had wife trouble, Saarela said, because Minnie isn't with him any more.

BUSINESS STUDY STREAMLINED TO ACHIEVE SPEED

Methods in business education are becoming streamlined, leaders at the 43d annual convention of the National Commercial Teachers' federation in the Hotel Sherman indicated yesterday. Discussion of modern business study courses, which are designed to turn out efficient students in record time, will concern the 2,000 delegates at the convention for the next two days.

One of the new methods being demonstrated at the convention is a unique system of shorthand invented by Charles A. Thomas of Menlo Park, Cal. Based on English phonetics, it does not involve the memorizing of symbols and can be mastered, it was said, in half the time now required for usual shorthand systems taught in high schools.

It is also adaptable to the language problems of the new industries arising so rapidly. According to Thomas, an average student can master 80 words of dictation a minute with usual shorthand methods. With his system the same student can take 120 words a minute, he maintains.

SOME 5 MILLION ALIENS REGISTER; DEADLINE PASSES

Postoffices Open Late to Accommodate Laggards.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26 (AP).—Postal clerks tonight were winding up the vast task of registering and fingerprinting almost 5,000,000 aliens in the United States and its possessions.

Under the law, designed to enable authorities to keep a closer check on non-citizens, today was the registration deadline. Postoffices in the larger centers of alien population were ordered kept open until midnight, and clerks were prepared to register all who arrived before that time, even tho the job runs far into Friday.

Final figures on the result of the four months' registration campaign will not be available for a week or more, but the total is expected to approach 5,000,000.

Many in Possessions.

At the close of business on Tuesday, the alien registration division had received 4,383,000 completed forms from the continental United States and an additional 88,000 from outlying possessions.

In its first report on aliens in the possessions, the division said that 75,488 had registered in Hawaii, 10,952 in Puerto Rico, 1,008 in the Virgin Islands, and 271 in Alaska.

Any alien found to have deliberately failed to register will be subject to a $1,000 fine and six months imprisonment.

The next task will be finding and prosecuting those non-citizens who did not register. A special investigating force headed by J. R. Espinosa, a former "G-man" and investigator for several congressional committees, will be established for this work.

247,217 REGISTER HERE.

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen yesterday announced that 247,217 aliens had registered in Chicago thru Dec. 24. The main postoffice and six branches remained open until midnight last night — the registration deadline. Finel figures on the registration will be available today, Kruetgen said. So far the peak day was Dec. 10, when 4,286 aliens registered. The daily average has been 2,470.

ITALIANS ATTRIBUTE BRITISH TRIUMPH IN DESERT TO AMERICA

ROME, Dec. 26 (AP).—The United States was given credit for the British victory over the Italians in North Africa today by the Italian news weekly Tempo. The article said the war had become a conflict between all Europe and the "Anglo-Saxon world," in which England continued to exist only because America was supporting her.

In this world, said Tempo, "there exists materially only North America; not England, which lives and fights only because the United States makes it possible. The latest proof is the North African offensive, made possible only by the American neutrality which furnished tanks, airplanes, ammunition, and artillery."

TINY GREEK SHIP GIVES THE LAUGH TO ITALIAN LINER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Dec. 26.—A tiny Greek freighter, the Kastor, gave the giant Italian luxury liner, the Conte Biancamano, a Christmas raspberry yesterday afternoon when the former arrived from the sea and anchored in Cristobal harbor. The Biancamano has been here ever since Italy entered the war last spring.

With the whole expanse of Limon bay wherein to heave her hook, the 3,425 ton Greek vessel chose the spot nearest to the 23,000 ton Italian craft. Then all but one of the Greek crew lined the rails while that exception was unfurling a Greek flag almost as long as the ship herself.

The Biancamano skipper ordered the hoisting of the largest Italian flag on board. Thereat, the crew of the Kastor gave the Italians the Greek version of the "merry ha-ha."

U. S. THREATENS ALL INVOLVED IN RADIO MUSIC WAR

Jackson Says He Will Bring Criminal Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—Asserting that the justice department cannot sit by and see the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers [ASCAP] and two radio broadcasting chains engage in a private war at the expense of the public, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson announced today that criminal proceedings would be instituted against the participants in the battle.

The defendants in proceedings under the Sherman act will be ASCAP, Broadcast Music, Inc., the National Broadcasting company, and the Columbia Broadcasting system. Suit will be brought in Milwaukee, Wis., immediately after Jan. 1. There will be eight charges, including the illegal poolings of most of the desirable copyright music available for radio broadcasting to eliminate competition and to monopolize the supply.

The Other Seven.

Other charges will be:

1. Illegal discrimination against users of copyright music.

2. Illegal discrimination against composers who are not members of ASCAP or Broadcast Music, Inc.

3. Withholding music from publication in order to exact fees not permitted by the copyright laws.

4. Illegal price fixing.

5. Restraining composers in their right to bargain for the sale of their own music.

6. Requiring users of music to pay for tunes on programs in which no music is played.

7. Mutual boycotts by ASCAP and by the broadcasting chains [thru Broadcast Music, Inc.] in an attempt by each of these conflicting groups to obtain for themselves control over the supply of music by depriving the others of control, which boycotts threaten to restrain and obstruct the rendition over the radio of about 90 per cent of the desirable modern copyright music.

Mutual Broadcasting system, the third major chain, has no interest in Broadcast Music, Inc., altho some of the stations affiliated with Mutual have.

Jackson said that the antitrust division of the department of justice has been receiving complaints against the activities of ASCAP for a number of years.

"The original purpose of ASCAP was one which the department recognizes to be legitimate, i. e., collective action to protect its members from piracy of their copyrights," he declared.

"A Monopoly Control."

"Activities which further this purpose have not been questioned by the department, and are not attacked in these proceedings. However, the department for many years past has frequently called to the attention of ASCAP practices which went far beyond the necessity of protecting its members in their copyright privileges — practices which were designated solely for the purpose of eliminating competition in the furnishing of music, and securing a monopoly control over the supply.

"Recently, thru Broadcast Music, Inc. [an association controled by the major broadcasting chains], the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system have engaged in, and threaten to continue on a larger and larger scale, restrictive practices similar to those which the department charges were illegally instituted by ASCAP. It is claimed that these activities were necessary to protect the broadcasting chains from the illegal activities of ASCAP.

Criticizes Both Sides.

"The department is not concerned with the question as to which organization was the aggressor. Each of these groups today is charged with using illegal methods to wrest the control of copyright music from the other.

"The threatened conflict is already in its first stage. The mutual boycotts already begun will hamper and obstruct the rendition of all copyrighted music over the radio and deprive the public of the privilege of hearing that music except on terms dictated by the victor in the contest. In such a struggle the public is in the position of a neutral caught between two aggressive belligerents.

"This department cannot sit by and see ASCAP and the broadcasters engage in a private war at the expense of the public, using violations of law as their weapons in order to fight fire with fire.

Voluntary Peace Sought.

"We have tried to obtain voluntary agreement to form the basis of a working peace which would eliminate the illegal activities and allow the associations of composers to continue their legitimate function of protecting their members from piracy. Those efforts, which a few days ago appeared to be on the verge of success, have failed.

"Now we have no choice but to proceed with a criminal prosecution to protect the interests of the public in orderly competition in the distribution of music.

"It should be added that complaints have also been received against the Society of European Authors and Composers, commonly called SESAC. These complaints are now being investigated."

Statement by Broadcasters.

New York, Dec. 26 (AP).—Neville Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said in a statement tonight that he hoped the department of justice, before carrying out its announced plan to file antitrust law charges in the radio music controversy, "will be willing to give at least as much consideration to the broadcasters as it has given to" the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers [ASCAP].

"For weeks the department of justice discussed a consent decree with ASCAP, and when it failed to get one," Miller said, "it suddenly accused practically the whole broadcasting industry, represented in Broadcast Music, Inc., of criminal practices without giving us any opportunity at all for a similar discussion."

Gene Buck, ASCAP president, issued a statement tonight, saying in part:

"The attorney general's announced proceedings to finally go into the entire structure of the monopoly of the air and its affiliations should be welcome news to every one concerned—the public, the legislatures, the judiciary thruout the nation and my associates in the society."

Sued for $525,000

GLORIA JEAN.

New York, Dec. 26 (AP). — William Lustig, a theatrical agent, sued Gloria Jean, 12 year old film actress and her parents for $525,000 today. The charge was breach of contract.

Lustig contended in an action filed in Supreme court that by terms of a contract signed Dec. 16, 1937, he was to act as Gloria Jean's personal representative in return for 10 per cent of her gross earnings. The agreement, he said, was to run for 10 years and under it the child was not to accept theatrical or film offers from any one but himself.

Lustig, who said he "discovered" Gloria Jean, said she was now working for Universal Pictures and he was receiving none of her compensation. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ferman H. Schoonover, who he said lived in Scranton, Pa., when the contract was signed.

Carpenters' Fee Is $122; Laborers' $42.

How the Boss Operates.

I sought out Mussatto after I had been turned down at Fort Sheridan the first time. He promptly dismissed me when he was convinced I could never raise $42 in cash. But before I left I picked up a rough idea as to his broad influence from a telephone conversation that was in progress between him and an excavating contractor.

Mussatto told the contractor that he would "pull off" his chief engineer if the excavator didn't desist from working his laborers at a depth lower than 12 feet. [Men working below this level are entitled to extra pay, I later learned.]

I heard the contractor's voice crack in Mussatto's receiver as he defied the labor boss to stop the job. Mussatto retaliated with even hotter words.

Visits 3 Projects Daily.

Mussatto visits the three major projects in his territory several times daily. Early each morning he stops at the Fort Sheridan job, which is near his home, then moves on to the Great Lakes project and thence to a telephone cable project in Waukegan. He inquires whether the new men on the job have cards, and whether working conditions are satisfactory. He is popular with the 400 men in his union, 30 of whom have been signed up since the start of the army-navy projects.

About 1,200 men are employed at the naval training station and 300 at Fort Sheridan. The total at the army post is expected to exceed 1,000 within a few weeks, however, when the 170 buildings planned there get farther along. The union men are expected to make $700,000 on the navy project and $330,000 at Fort Sheridan.

There are about half as many carpenters as laborers employed on both projects. They are ruled by Joe E. Kral, business agent of carpenters' local No. 461.

Carpenters Take Exam.

The man who wants to get fixed up with the carpenters' union is cheerfully obliged, if he lays out the $122. He is sent to the home of Allen M. Danner, financial secretary of local 461, who lives at 736 Central avenue, Highland Park. Danner helps him fill out an application blank and arranges for him to take an examination, as to his proficiency as a carpenter, at the Carpenters' District council of Chicago, 12 East Erie street.

I went to the council headquarters to see what type of knowledge is required for such an examination. I met Tom Kenney, district business agent.

"You have to tell us how you'd put a roof on a house, such as what pitch you'd use for different types of dwelling," he said. "Then we might ask how you'd go about hanging sash and doors, how you'd apply shingles or siding, build stairs, and lay floors.

"Just tell Joe Kral you talked to me and you'll get by without any trouble," he added. "But remember, the initiation is $120 cash."

Many Unable to Pay Fees.

There are many men applying for jobs as laborers who, no doubt, should be working as carpenters.

"What we need is Jesse Jones to come out here and lend us some dough," one of these men told me. "We ain't bum risks. We're all tied down with homes and kids. I got mine right out there in the car now."

Another applicant with a similar problem drove in from Michigan in a light truck used in his gardening business before it failed.

"I could handle a carpenter's job easy with all the experience I had putting up outbuildings on my place," he said. "But it's hard enough to raise the 40 bucks, let alone three times that much."

SOCIAL SCIENCE TEACHERS OPEN MEETING TODAY

Twelve hundred sociologists are expected to gather in the Congress hotel today for the opening of the 35th annual convention of the American Sociological society.

One hundred speakers are scheduled to analyze a list of human problems ranging from family "spats" to international wars. The convention will close Sunday.

Dr. Robert Morrison MacIver of Columbia university, who is president of the society, said the discussions will be focused on the pressing problems of war, famine, social unrest, and population trends.

The society will receive first hand reports on the success of the Institute of Human Relations at Yale university from four members of the institute's staff.

Papers on "What Constitutes a Sociology of Religion?" will be read by representatives of three religious faiths.

ACCUSED OF RAPING GIRL, 13.

A charge of rape was placed against Anthony Wosnick, 52 years old, of 1611 Hanover street, Chicago Heights, by county highway policemen, who found him parked in an unlighted automobile last night with a girl 13 years old. The arrest took place in Cicero avenue north of Flossmoor road.

WARNS FREEDOM OF FAMILY LIFE IS KEY TO LIBERTY

Educator Tells Perils of Government Rule.

A warning that the way to preserve liberty is to prevent governmental control of the family was given yesterday by Prof. Ernest R. Groves of the University of North Carolina. He spoke in the Stevens hotel at the annual meeting of the National Conference on Family Relations.

Declaring that the dictator cannot hope to maintain his system unless he can reach into the family itself, Prof. Groves said that the three major steps taken by totalitarian states in regard to home life are:

1. Invasion of family privacy by legislative restraints and the creation of such fear within the home that a man is afraid even to think.

2. Standardization of the family, since individuality and originality are a menace to totalitarianism.

3. Removal of the child from home influence and his molding to as great a degree as possible by state controled youth organizations. This makes the child an "increasingly docile" member of the state.

Discusses Electricity's Use.

In an earlier speech Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago credited electricity with slowing up the departure of many economic functions from the household and with adding conveniences which enable it to compete with outside attractions.

Prof. Ogburn said that home manufacture of ice has cut down the number of ice dealers by at least a third, and that with 10,000,000 washing machines and 20,000,000 electric irons in the nation's homes it was probable that the departure of laundering to outside institutions had been slowed up.

Admits Beauty Shop Increase.

He admitted, however, that despite electric curling irons and hair dryers the number of beauty shops has increased tremendously in the last decade, while barber shops have been unaffected by the invention of electric clippers.

Prof. Ogburn also credited the self-starter on automobiles with being a device for the liberation of women, who previously had done comparatively little traveling. But he said that the effect of improved transportation, in general, has been to separate members of the family.

The average family now has two children, he went on, and divorces are more common among couples with none. Eighty-five per cent of those divorced have no children, or only one, he concluded.

Bride of Two Months Dies After Swallowing Poison

Mrs. Betty Zelis, 19 years old, a bride of two months, died yesterday in her home at 2002 Canalport avenue, apparently a poison victim. Her husband, John, a factory employé, said they had quarreled over his refusal to go to a movie with her Christmas night. At 3 a. m. she told him she had swallowed poison, he said. His mother and two sisters gave her milk as an antidote. He went to work as usual at 8 a. m. after she appeared recovered. A few hours later she was dead.

SEEK 4 MILLION BOOST IN STATE AID TO SCHOOLS

Proposals Go Before Education Body.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 26 (AP).—Increases totaling approximately $4,000,000 in several forms of state aid to public schools were asked today in the report of the legislative committee to the 87th annual meeting of the Illinois Education association.

One of the committee's proposals was that the state pay a $5 per pupil grant to all high schools in the state, which Irving F. Pearson, executive secretary of the association, estimated would require $1,500,000.

Appropriation increases of approximately $950,000 for elementary schools, $700,000 for pupil transportation, and $840,000 for the teachers' retirement fund were among other items in the association's legislative proposals to be submitted to the 62d general assembly convening Jan. 8.

Later Increase to Be Sought.

Pearson said the proposed increases were the association's "immediate" objectives in state assistance to schools. The legislative committee, headed by W. C. Handlin of Lincoln, contended the legislature should ultimately increase state aid to 25 per cent of the total cost of operating the public schools.

The $30,500,000 school distributive fund provided by the legislature in 1939 for the current biennium was approximately 10 per cent of the cost of maintaining the schools, Pearson said.

Approximately 1,000 delegates to the annual convention of the I. E. A. also heard committees propose that the legislature enact a $100 monthly minimum wage law and a teacher tenure law and remove the state normal school board from "political control" by establishing it as an independent agency.

Act on Proposals Today.

Legislative proposals and resolutions will be acted upon by the delegates in sessions tomorrow.

B. F. Shafer of Freeport, president of the association, declared in an address tonight that "education is democracy's greatest defense" and that public schools should not be neglected during the national defense effort.

"During the depression we know what public services suffered most," he said. "We remember the closed school buildings, the payless pay days, and the sacrifices which many of our members made in order to keep the schools open. These situations are still vivid in our memories and must not be allowed to occur again."

Victim of Stabbing Dies in Hospital; Uncle Held

Theodore Sarris, 32 years old, 7300 Blackstone avenue, died in Illinois Central hospital last night of stab wounds allegedly inflicted by his uncle, Peter Sarris, 48, of 14 North 1st street, Highland Park, during a quarrel on Dec. 14 in Theodore's shoe repair shop at 1433 Hyde Park boulevard. Peter is being held in the county jail.

EXPECT JUDGE WILKERSON TO RETIRE ON JAN. 1

On Federal Court Bench for 18 Years.

The active judicial career of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, which began in 1922, is about to end, friends said yesterday. It was reported in the United States courthouse that the senior judge of the district court has sent his resignation to President Roosevelt's desk and is awaiting its acceptance.

Judge Wilkerson.

"I can neither affirm nor deny the report until there is an official announcement from Washington," the judge said.

At the justice department in Washington, it was said that no resignation had been received from the judge.

Judge Wilkerson is now 71 years old and has been eligible for retirement at full pay for more than a year. His health has been none too good for several years and he has at last made up his mind to leave the bench, his associates said. They added that his resignation was worded to take effect on Jan. 1.

Will Leave No Vacancy.

Judge Wilkerson's expected retirement will not leave a vacancy, since the law under which William J. Campbell was elevated from the district attorneyship to the federal bench was worded in anticipation of the next vacancy.

Judge Wilkerson has presided over some of the most important and dramatic trials heard in the old federal courthouse, the last spectacular one being the income tax case against M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher.

Before his appointment to the federal bench in 1922 by President Harding, Judge Wilkerson had been United States attorney under President Taft, a state representative, and chairman of the old state public utilities commission, now the commerce commission, under Gov. Lowden.

Successor of Judge Landis.

On the bench he succeeded Judge K. M. Landis, now the czar of baseball, in whose court, as an assistant district attorney, Wilkerson prosecuted the Standard Oil company rebate cases, which resulted in Landis' $29,000,000 fine against the company.

The trial of Al Capone for income tax evasion was the most sensational in Judge Wilkerson's long career.

The case, heard in 1931, drew great crowds. The judge sentenced Capone to serve 11 years' imprisonment, most of which was spent on Alcatraz Island.

Following the trial, Judge Wilkerson was nominated for the circuit court of appeals by President Hoover, but his confirmation was blocked by Democratic senators.

OUT OF HOSPITAL 2 HOURS, HURT BY TRAIN AGAIN; DIES

Four months ago Roy W. Morris, 45 years old, of Joliet, was injured in a railroad accident and was taken to the Oak Forest infirmary for treatment. Yesterday he was discharged and less than two hours later was fatally hurt when he was struck by a Rock Island suburban train at 140th street and the village of Robbins. He died last night in the infirmary.

Lieut. Fred Mulhausen of the county highway police at Homewood said that when his men reached the scene of the accident the train had gone on and Morris was lying beside the tracks unattended. The lieutenant added he had been informed by Coroner A. L. Brodie that the crew would be required to appear at an inquest to be held in the infirmary today.

'WE'RE PERFECT,' WITNESS QUOTES 2 'I AM' LEADERS

Mrs. Ballard the Boss, Ex-Member Says.

Los Angeles, Cal. Dec. 26 (AP).—Testimony of disagreements among heads of the "I Am" movement was introduced by government attorneys today as the trial of 10 of its leaders on mail fraud charges was resumed in United States District court.

Mrs. Catherine Rogers, who identified herself as a former member of the "I Am" staff, testified that during an argument between the late Guy W. Ballard, founder of the movement, and his wife, Mrs. Edna W. Ballard, in Cleveland, Mrs. Ballard cautioned her husband:

"Remember, I'm in full authority, and you mind your own business."

Later, in Washington, Mrs. Rogers declared, Mrs. Ballard came to the defense of the leader when a student crossed him.

Threatens to Slap Faces.

"Mrs. Ballard said she would slap the face of any one who dared to doubt daddy's word," the witness testified.

On another occasion, in New York, Mrs. Rogers said, "The Ballards thought that the 'I Am' organist was not 100 per cent obedient to them."

"Mrs Ballard called her 'a snake, a viper and a crocodile,' and said that any one not 100 per cent obedient was more vicious than any snake," the witness added.

Asked by a government attorney whether the Ballards ever admitted they made mistakes, Mrs. Rogers replied:

"Oh no. They said they were perfect human beings and could not err."

Mrs. Portia Terry, mother of the divorced wife of Donald Ballard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ballard, testified she once heard Donald style the "I Am" work "just a fake."

She said St. Germaine, an "ascended master," speaking thru Guy Ballard on one occasion, resorted to harsh language and told Donald to "shut your mouth."

Letter From Defendant.

Introduced in evidence was a letter to Mrs. Terry from Betty Mundy, one of the defendants, which read in part:

"There's going to be no more monkey doodle business around here . . . we're all getting tough, and God help the member that gives out any leaks about our affairs . . . if anybody gets tough with us, out they go on their ear . . . Mama sure gave it to 'em today."

16 Year Old Girl's Suitor Freed as She Goes Home

Joseph Ballaman, 44 years old, of New York City, who hoped to marry Wilma Gainey, 16, of Safford, Ariz., with whom he had planned a rendezvous in Chicago last week, was freed by Judge George L. Quilici in the South State street court yesterday on a disorderly conduct charge. Detectives met the Gainey girl when she arrived from Arizona, and Ballaman subsequently was arrested. She has been sent home to Arizona.

DEWEY TO FIGHT LAKE MICHIGAN RULE BY CANADA

Congressman Elect Charles S. Dewey of the 9th district said yesterday that he will lend all aid he can toward removing from the proposed American-Canadian treaty the section calling for the "internationalizing" of Lake Michigan.

"Altho the treaty will be considered by the senate, rather than the house," Dewey said, "I am going to offer my help to Senator Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] and will do all I can toward defeating that section. I don't like the idea of having even as good a friend as Canada tell Chicago whether we can withdraw more than 1,500 cubic feet per second of water from Lake Michigan.

"As I understand the law, a body of water completely landlocked by the states or territories of a nation is not an international, but a national body even if it is part of a chain which touches other countries."

Further testimony on the contention that the present 1,500 cubic foot flow from the lake into the Chicago river is insufficient will be taken Jan. 13 by Monte M. Lemann, special master in chancery appointed by the United States Supreme court to hold hearings on Illinois' plea for an increased diversion. He will be given the results of tests during the 10,000 foot experimental flow allowed between Dec. 2 and Dec. 12.

LAWYERS PROBE EASY DIVORCES IN TWO SUBURBS

Get Charges of Irregular Handling of Cases.

Judge J. J. Wallace [top] and Judge R. A. Meier Jr.

Complaints of irregularities in handling divorce cases in the city courts of Calumet City and Chicago Heights were being investigated by the Chicago Bar association yesterday. The bar association was informed that these courts are quick and easy places to get divorces.

The law clarifying the powers of the two courts to grant divorce decrees became effective July 1, 1939. Since then, according to reports made yesterday, at least 1,000 divorce cases have been started in the two courts and the clerks have collected fees of more than $20,000.

80% Are Out of Town Cases.

Fred Drake, clerk of the Calumet City court, said that 550 cases were handled in this court during the last year and one half. Of that number, he said, 80 per cent were out of town cases. The legislative enactment gave the two courts the same jurisdiction as the Circuit and Superior courts of Cook county in handling divorce cases.

Drake said that his salary is fixed at $100 a month by the city, but that in addition he has collected approximately $9,000 a year from filing fees. The Circuit and Superior court clerks in Cook county, whose salary is fixed at $9,000 each, must turn over all fees to the county treasurer, but the law is not clear, according to attorneys, as to how the fees in the two city courts shall be disposed of, so the clerks keep them.

Drake said that out of the fees he has to pay for a stenographer and an assistant. He denied that attorneys can arrange to file a suit and have a date set for its hearing by merely making a telephone call. This charge is being investigated by the bar association.

Insists Procedure Is Regular.

Judge John J. Wallace, who sits in the marriage court in the county building during the day and hears divorce cases in the Calumet City City court several nights a week, denied that the regular procedure followed in the Circuit and Superior courts is not in practice there. His salary for sitting in the City court is approximately $3,000.

Judge Robert A. Meier Jr., who holds court in Chicago Heights, said that his court has handled about 450 cases in the last year and one-half. He said that 300 of these were filed by Chicagoans or nonresidents of Chicago Heights. Divorce cases are heard in his court at night also.

Judge Meier said that his salary is $2,700 a year, but that his clerk, Edward Kirgis, collects about $8,000 a year in fees and salary. The city fixes the clerk's fee at $6 for attending each session of court.

Attorney Roman E. Posanski, former city judge of Calumet City, was one of those who asked for an investigation of the method of handling cases and fees in the two courts. Judge Posanski sat in the Calumet City court before the court began extending its jurisdiction to hear all divorce cases.

Camacho Sends Mexico's Biggest Budget to Congress

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26 (AP).—President Avila Camacho today sent congress his first budget. It calls for about $102,090,000, which exceeds by $9,171,500 the previous high in the Republic's history—that of 1940.

In Safety Court

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Judge John V. McCormick presiding in Safety court yesterday while daughter, Patricia (right) and a friend, Lois Kilroy, look on.

Sixty-five errant drivers were brought into Safety court yesterday as a result of their traffic offenses over the Christmas holiday. Assistant State's Attorney William McCarthy said this was an extremely light court docket for the day after Christmas. Only one jail sentence was imposed by Judge John V. McCormick. He sent Irvin Dixon, 862 North Wells street, a painter, to the county jail for 10 days and suspended his driving privileges for 60 days for drunken driving. Six minor fines were imposed, and the other cases were continued or dismissed.

FIND DIVORCEE DEAD IN ROOM OF WAR FLYER

A divorcée was found dead yesterday in the hotel room of a reputed world war flyer at 1244 North Dearborn street in what police said was the aftermath of a Christmas drinking party. She was Miss Gladys Benson, 38 years old, a stenographer.

Hotel employés found her body after breaking into the room of H. C. [Burt] Alexander, 45, not far from her room on the same floor. She had been dead 24 hours, Detective Eugene Celusta of the Hudson avenue station said. Miss Benson's body was unclad and in bed, Police said. Alexander, partially clad, was sitting next to her. Police said he was too stupefied with liquor to be questioned. Empty whisky bottles littered the room. There also were two empty bottles which had contained sedatives. Police reported Miss Benson died probably from a combination of sedatives and alcohol.

A card in her purse asked that Ferdinand L. Metz, a clothing designer, be notified in case of accident. Miss Benson was divorced in 1938. Alexander came to Chicago from Los Angeles last month. He described himself at the time as a world war aviator and test pilot.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 26 [Special].—Gov. John Stelle will deliver the major address next Sunday at the dedication of the new bridge on route 66 between Chenoa and Pontiac in honor of Jimmy Cox, state fiscal supervisor who was killed near the site, it was announced today.

BOY, 7, ON HIS WAY HOME, IS KILLED BY AUTO

Struck Down After Taxi Ride with His Chum.

Two boy chums, David Lofton, 7 years old, 1811 South 2d avenue, and Walter Busch, 6, of 1907 South 4th avenue, both of Maywood, took a taxicab home from a movie yesterday to be sure of their safety. But when they alighted at 5th avenue and Harrison street, in the suburb, they didn't see an automobile bearing down upon them. David was knocked down and died last night in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park. The car driver was Martin Smith, 21, of 1830 South 15th avenue, Broadview.

Pedestrian Killed by Taxi.

Julius Miller, 58, 720 Monroe street, was killed yesterday by a taxicab as he was crossing the street in front of 1019 Randolph street. The driver was Stephen Blajoff, 111 North Addison street, Bensenville.

A man killed Wednesday at Lincoln and Belden avenue was identified yesterday as Ellsworth Chapin, 71, of 2243 Cleveland avenue. Witnesses said he stepped in front of a cab driven by Henry Broach, 44, of 538 Belden avenue.

George Leighton, 26, of 13732 Clifton Park avenue, Robbins, a laborer, died in Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, of injuries incurred Wednesday night in an automobile collision at Halsted and 147th streets in Harvey. The other driver was Henry Ipulaan, 3 East Main street, Glenwood.

Dies of Traffic Injuries.

Stephen Fodor, 28, of 1148 Wolfram street, a mechanic, died in Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday when he was struck by an automobile at Wolfram street and Racine avenue.

John Hart, 60, colored, who had no regular address, was killed when he was struck by an automobile at 43d and State streets. Neal Burch, colored, of 5724 South Park way, was the driver.

John Mitshal, 66, of 632 South State street, died in County hospital last night of injuries suffered Monday evening when he was struck near 567 Harrison street by an automobile driven by Herbert Woodward, 4236 North Spaulding avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 889 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 652 were killed in Chicago, where 23,701 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

Find Father and Daughter Slain, Son Wounded by Ax

Youngstown, O., Dec. 26 (AP).—Sheriff Ralph Elser reported Frank Schuster, 41, and his daughter, Virginia, 17, were found slain and his son, Robert, 19, seriously wounded tonight in their home at nearby Lake Milton. Schuster's wife, Gertrude, discovered the tragedy upon returning from a holiday trip. Schuster was in the basement, shot to death. Virginia was in her bedroom, hacked with an ax. Robert also had been attacked, apparently with an ax.

10 COAST GUARDS SAVED IN FIERCE PACIFIC STORM

Waterfronts of Three States Battered.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 26 (AP).—The coast guard here reported today that a boatload of coast guardsmen, missing since yesterday morning in terrific seas, had been rescued. Two of the 10 men aboard were reported injured.

The news was radioed to coast guard headquarters from the cutter Shawnee, which with other craft had been searching for the 10 missing men.

"Found Cove lifeboat and surfboat four miles west of Fort Bragg, under sail, fuel exhausted," the message said. "Two men injured. Have taken in tow."

Location of Rescue.

The Shawnee will bring the rescued men to San Francisco. Fort Bragg is about 185 miles north of San Francisco.

The 10 men went out from Port Arena yesterday morning, fighting thru huge breakers in a driving storm, to aid the lumber schooner Stanwood. They were in a 30 foot motor lifeboat, with a 26 foot motorized surfboat in tow.

The rescue was attributed to the alertness of a truck driver who saw a small boat, with sail rigged, about three miles offshore from Fort Bragg. He notified the coast guard, and the cutters Shawnee and Ariadne raced to the radioed location at forced draft. The Shawnee arrived first.

No Letup in Sight.

No letup was in sight for the storm, which has pounded coastlines of California, Oregon, and Washington. Strong southerly winds and occasional gales were forecast from San Francisco to the Canadian border.

The tug Active cruised out of Puget Sound, hunting for the Canadian five-masted schooner City of Alberni, which reported itself in trouble 500 miles west of Cape Flattery. The vessel is en route from Australia to British Columbia with a sugar cargo.

In California heavy combers swept away summer homes at Stinson beach, smashed in boardwalks and piers, undermined foundations of homes at Redondo Beach, and rolled over seaside cottages at Shelter Cove below Cape Mendocino.

In Oregon, high seas driven by a 50 mile an hour wind littered the Tilamook coast guard station with debris, washed out a section of the Cannon Beach highway, tore down part of the seawall, and forced four freighters to put back to ports for repairs or to reload shifting cargoes.

Miami Coast Guard Hunts Fishing Boat with 9 Aboard

Miami, Fla., Dec. 27, Friday (AP).—The coast guard was searching in pounding seas off Miami Beach early today for the 26 foot charter fishing boat Thrill, missing since yesterday afternoon with nine persons aboard. Two coast guard vessels were engaged in the search, including one from the Fort Lauderdale base. The vessel left Miami Beach early Thursday and was expected to return in the afternoon.

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL.

George Patterson, 65 years old, 800 South Ashland avenue, a retirer, fell dead of a heart attack yesterday in a restaurant at 1559 Roosevelt road.

FREE BAR UNION FROM NITTI GANG, MEMBERS URGED

Progressive Slate Makes Last Minute Appeal.

Reports of wholesale attempts at intimidation of members of the Bartenders' union brought a retort yesterday from Austen Steeves, Progressive candidate for union president. In a letter sent to members Steeves pleaded with them "to knock out the forces that for the last seven years have been bleeding you and bringing disgrace to you and your union."

Austen Steeves.

"Members of local 278, don't be intimidated," the letter said. "Show Chicago and the nation that you have the courage to exercise that precious American right to vote."

Steeves said he prepared the letter, which was signed by his running mates on the Progressive ticket, after he had received reports that Chicago bartenders were "receiving instructions" on how to vote. This drive of intimidation was seen as a last-minute effort by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and hoodlum associates to keep their hold on the union.

Court to Supervise Election.

Steeves is opposed by the James Crowley-George B. McLane ticket in the election to be held Jan. 6 under supervision of Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne. Judge Dunne appointed a receiver for the union when charges were made that the organization was dominated by Nitti.

It also was learned yesterday that the Crowley-McLane representatives passed out $5 Christmas presents to each of 200 unemployed bartenders. As union funds are tied up by the receivership, authorities speculated on the origin of the $1,000.

Meanwhile, Roy D. Keehn, receiver for the union, prepared a petition to be submitted to Judge Dunne. This report is said to cover matters discussed with State's Attorney Courtney in a conference to safeguard the election.

Consider Disqualifying McLane.

The problem of disqualifying McLane, present business agent, as a candidate to succeed himself was one of the subjects discussed at the conference. McLane recently declared in court that he feared he would incriminate himself if he testified against Nitti in a conspiracy trial. Courtney held that this statement should be brought to the attention of Judge Dunne.

Latest reports of attempted intimidation came on the heels of threats made to Keehn and his assistant, James U. Sammis. Guards were assigned to two assistant business agents, appointed by the court, after they had been threatened on a tour of duty.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office ordered the arrest of hoodlums found using threats in the campaign against members of the Progressive ticket.

MRS. ELIZABETH NIELD DIES.

Spring Hill, Ill., Dec. 26 [Special].—Mrs. Elizabeth Nield, 81, widow of the Rev. Thomas Nield and a resident of Spring Hill 21 years, died today. Two sons and three daughters survive. Burial will be in Gleason, Tenn.

George Spector, Convicted with Judge Manton, Freed

Lewisburg, Pa., Dec. 26 (AP).—A time allowance for good behavior meant freedom today for George M. Spector, convicted with former United States Judge Martin T. Manton of New York on charges of conspiracy to "sell justice." He has served all but two months and 12 days in the federal penitentiary here of a year and a day sentence. Spector paid a $5,000 fine which also was imposed.

CONGRESSMAN DEWEY'S AIRPORT PLAN.

Congressman Elect Charles S. Dewey's proposal that the blighted areas of the near south side be turned into a centrally located airport springs from the sort of bold imagination that Chicago needs badly. The area between the railroad thorofares and Lake Michigan from 16th street to 31st street, which he proposes as a site contains some of the most dilapidated properties in the city, and relatively few substantial properties.

Mr. Dewey's proposal will have been of great service to Chicago if its only effect is to jar the city out of the economic doldrums that afflict it. He has called attention to two of Chicago's most vital problems. One is the need of a central air terminal, the other the real estate blight that every year transforms several square miles of income producing properties into deficit producing properties, with repercussions of the most violent nature in local taxation and real estate development.

Chicago's trouble is that it hasn't had fresh ideas in the field of city planning for more than 30 years. The city is building a subway the benefits of which are none too clear and is contemplating a Congress street development, solely because that project was embodied in an outmoded city plan in the face of evidence that no one will benefit from it except a few real estate promoters.

Mr. Dewey has brought forward a fresh idea. It may not be executed exactly as he has proposed it, but he has given the city something to think about. Chicago needs that sort of thinking.

YOUTH AT THE WHEEL.

We know a father who is currently in the doghouse with his high school daughter. The daughter, being attractive, has a number of invitations to dances during the holiday season. Her father doesn't object to her attending—providing he drives her and her friends in the family car and calls for them when the dance is over.

This father isn't an old fogy. It isn't his daughter's morals that he thinks are in jeopardy, but her life. He is an executive of an automobile casualty insurance company, and every day in his office he gets reports on accidents in which youthful drivers are involved.

Two shocking accidents in the Chicago area recently have given this particular father and others who share his views strong arguments for their position. In one of these crashes three Chicago high school boys lost their lives on a suburban highway. They had passed another car three times, in an apparent attempt to provoke a race, and were going 70 miles an hour when they skidded and were killed. In the other case four high school boys were killed when the car in which they were riding left the road and struck a tree.

The safety bureau of the Chicago Motor club has statistics that show that these are not isolated incidents. Young drivers in the various age groups are involved in from seven to three times as many fatal accidents as drivers of mature years.

On the basis of the number of miles traveled, drivers 16 years old have nearly seven times as many fatal accidents as drivers of 30. Seventeen year old drivers have four times as many. The age group from 18 to 21 has about three times as many fatal crashes as 30 year old drivers. From 22 to 25 years there is a regular decrease, until the 25-year-olds have not a great deal higher accident frequency than those 30 years old. The accident frequency chart shows a gradual improvement after 30 until the age of 48 is reached, after which drivers have a higher accident tendency. The 65-year-olds, however, have just as good a record as drivers of 27, and several times better than that of the juvenile drivers.

A start has been made toward reducing this juvenile accident record thru safety education in the public schools. Fatalities among drivers and passengers from 15 to 24 years old have shown a considerable decline in the last three years. This is a variety of education better carried on in the home than in the school. If father puts his foot down, son, or daughter's boy friend may keep his off the gas. Speed is the cause of most of the accidents involving young drivers.

SYSTEMS OF AGGRANDIZEMENT AND AGGRESSION.

R. M. P. Willoughby of the Law Society's hall, Chancery lane, London, adds a note to one of Mr. Churchill's statements on war purposes. The Churchill sentence was: "The ground is not new; it has been frequently traveled and explored." As, for instance, Mr. Willoughby observed, in the house on Feb. 12, 1793, when the younger Pitt, prime minister, said that the government had taken no step and entered no engagement to interfere in the internal affairs of France or to attempt to dictate any form of constitution.

"I declare," said Mr. Pitt, "that the whole interference of Great Britain has been with the general view of seeing if it were possible either by our own exertions or in consort with any other power to repress this French system of aggrandizement and aggression with the view of seeing whether we could not reestablish the blessings of peace."

Thirty years before that, before the French republic, the elder Pitt had found the same system of aggrandizement and aggression in the Bourbon family compact, which united monarchical France and Spain, and after the French republic came Napoleon with another system. It doesn't lighten the present situation to note that conditions are repetitious and that this is not a new experience, but it is to be observed that these systems have not endured. Frequently they are wholly contained in the active lifetime, which may itself be brief, of one man. They arise with him and disappear with him. If they are periodic in their occurrence, as they seem to be, each period is terminable.

In 1914 three monarchs of continental Europe were held responsible. Now the responsibility is placed upon the shoulders of three men who, in the monarchical era, were entirely unknown and who came up out of the mass of subject peoples. If their systems were based upon the free political consent of the people over whom they have acquired mastery, there might be a probability of greater durability for the régimes. Inasmuch as they rule by force and unqualified dictation, not only over the people of their own countries but over great masses of other people who are only temporarily silenced, it is reasonable to assume that the organization of Europe as at present constituted is as ephemeral as any of the other violent forms which had their day of ascendancy on the continent.

The longer view, which seems to promise relief, does not help much just now but it is a view which has its proper place. Everything is not being decided by the events of this year or next year. All the factors which will take part in the decision are not now employed. They may not begin to influence the situation until a peace has been reached.

MR. WHITE EXPLAINS.

William Allen White is presently engaged in an effort to withdraw his committee from positions which he says it never took but which Gen. Hammond of the America First committee has shown it did take. Mr. White now says that his committee does not look with favor upon American participation in the war; does not work for repeal of the Johnson act; does not envisage repeal or amendment of the neutrality law to permit convoying by the American navy of supplies for Britain.

The question of veracity can be settled by any one who will take the trouble to examine the record. In a sense the question is an unimportant one because the positions which Mr. White now says his committee didn't take were implicit from the start in the attitudes and personnel of the committee.

The fundamental assumption of the White committee can be stated in the now familiar phrase that "this is our war." The White committee conveniently overlooked the fact that this war of ours was started without consulting the American people as to its occasion or its aims. But it was our war anyway and, being our war, we had to see to it that it was won. At the start the committee concentrated upon increasing the supply of arms and munitions to Britain and France. Mr. White himself took credit for the transfer of the destroyers and the flying fortresses.

When these arrangements had been concluded, the committee did not disband as might have been expected. It was recognized that to assure "our" victory much more might be required. If the Johnson act stood in the way of credits, it must be pushed aside, and if the neutrality act stood in the way of convoys it, too, must be sidetracked. Gen. Hammond's quotations from the White committee are not needed to establish the point that these proposals were favored explicitly by the committee; they follow inevitably from the premise upon which the committee started its campaign.

The future course of the White committee, if it survives its present difficulties, is easily charted. In due time, if the war drags on, the committee will advocate the sending of our pilots, our navy, and finally our army to fight in Europe or Asia. If this war is actually being fought for us our interest as well as our pride will demand that we get into it with all our strength. To do less must seem to those who believe the war is ours to be both stupid and cowardly.

Perhaps Mr. White was so naive and so emotionally upset by the war that he did not foresee this turn and is now genuinely alarmed at his own handiwork. Whatever the truth about him may be, the fact is obvious that many of his colleagues acted from the start with their eyes open. They knew exactly what they wanted and that was all-out American participation in the conflict. Some of them wanted it because of financial ties; others because of racial and religious bonds; still others from ambition for social recognition abroad. All of them recognized in the White committee a convenient means of promoting their real desire without arousing the storm of opposition which would have followed a frank announcement of their purposes.

A familiar political process has been at work in the White committee. If it contained any moderates, they are being pushed aside. The extremists are taking over. They are likely to have their way because, if the premise of the committee is accepted, they have logic on their side and they know what they want.

Editorial of the Day

SCIENCE IS WONDERFUL.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

We are constantly delighted with the contrivances which are put on the market to break up the monotony of living. Among these are such dandy items as combination door keys and compasses, alarm clocks which break softly into our dreams and lead us gently over the threshold of consciousness, tie clasp and fountain pen in one, and toy airplanes which go tumbling over and over under the terrible impetus of superman.

But of all the wonderful new gadgets, those we like best are the household thermometers which are custom built to the tastes of the individual purchaser. You can find them these days in almost any hardware or drug store showcase registering temperatures all the way from 65 to 85 degrees within a few inches of each other.

Some notable award should be bestowed on the manufacturers who have thus tossed tradition to the winds and recognize the principle that people are only as hot or as cold as they think they are. Now it is possible to buy your Aunt Emma, who huddles in her shawl all winter long, an instrument which will prove to her that it is 10 degrees warmer than she thinks it is, and save yourself the price of at least three tons of coal between now and the 1st of May. Or, come next July when your wife starts insisting it is simply too hot to stay in the kitchen, you can get her a radiomicrometer adjusted in the interest of continued home cooking.

Yes, sir, these are great days we live in; and we have only contempt for any crass realist who suggests that the reason for the different temperatures shown in the thermometer showcase is the varying distances of the mercury bulbs from the hot little display lights.

BETWEEN ONE EVE AND ANOTHER.

We nominate as world's champion of the Better Mousetrap Makers an obscure Austrian curate named Joseph Mohr, whose name is absent from the encyclopedias. He wrote the words to a song for use in his own small parish [1818], and all Christendom sings it at this time of year. It is "Silent Night." The music was composed by the organist of his church, a schoolmaster named Franz Grüber.

A new epithet to use in quarrels between lawyers came over the cables from Germany a few days ago. It is "rabulistic," a highbrow term for shyster trickery. It's in the up-to-date unabridged Webster, but it's not in our edition of 1913, whose covers are falling off.

Whenever any one tells us not to write "proven" for "proved" because it is a form that comes from old Scottish, we answer: "Have the Scotch no right to make a contribution to the English language?" . . . Spontaneity in writing is often nipped in the bud by schoolmasterly knuckle-rappings over such hair splitting points as this. Therefore we have hammered out a maxim: "Haggling p r e c i s i o n i s t s make bad writers."

Now that the football season has passed into history, except for the "bowl" games on New Year's day, the radio experts might like to know that Joe Lokanc of Northwestern is not properly called Joe Le Conk, which sounds like a gangster's monicker, but Joe Lokonse.

If Ernest Hemingway had only killed off the "obscenity" named Pancho in "For Whom the Bell Tolls," he would have given the book its much needed happy ending.

JOURNEY'S END.

Our last year's Christmas tree. A few brief days
It gleamed with lights and beauty; then I said,
"Tomorrow it comes down." The youngest raised
His voice and wept: "We can't just throw it out
To die when it has been so happy here."
Then Father soothed: "I haven't any doubt
We'll find some use for it. Come, no more tears."
And so, weeks later when the tree had dried
And shed its needles until it stood bare,
The two peeled off rough bark from every side,
Trimmed down the branches until here and there
Small pegs, like little hands, were reaching out.
Then rubbing smooth its pearly skin the two Applied a glossy coat. A footing stout
Upheld the tree where living roots once grew.
So now, upright, beside the small boy's bed
It holds his tiny garments every night.
A shirt, an overall, two socks instead
Of tinsel, silver balls and colored lights.
O, little Christmas tree, how proud it stands

From my kitchen window I can see the most wonderful Christmas tree. It is symbolic of South Chicago and its many industries. The top of the tree is formed by the lights on a huge gas tank on 96th street. They are alternately red and white, with a large white light on top which serves as a beacon for airplanes. The perfectly sloping sides are formed by a string of red lights on a pair of railroad gates less than midway between my window and the tank. Between the gates, within the body of the tree, are a myriad of street lights, gas station lights, and the lights on the railroad bridge over the Calumet river.

It is a wonderful Christmas tree, and it is there every night just for me because from no other point can it be seen with such perfect symmetry of line and color. It is my tree and it fills my horizon. It showed itself to me while I was washing the dishes. Frieda K. Zimmerman.

Lines to Read Between Acts.

While you are on the subject of inscriptions in old theaters, why not recall the lines that are, or used to be, on the walls of the Auditorium, under a fine pair of mural paintings. Two generations of Chicagoans have read them:

"O, sweet melodious Springtime, firstborn of Life and Love."

"A great Life has passed into the tomb and there awaits the requiem of Winter's snows."

E. Grey.

POSTSCRIPT TO A CONSCRIPT.

Spend a little, save a little, waste a little time,
I'll cry a little, sigh a little, dream a little, too,
Ah! yes, there'll always be for me a little thought of you.
I'll live a little, give a little, of my precious days,
I'll flirt a little and enjoy some other fellow's gaze,
I'll write a little note to you and often I will ponder—
Does absence really, truly make a fickle heart grow fonder?

Maybe You Like Facts and Figures.

Want to know how emigration from Europe, including refugees, is affecting American music and drama? Not much, apparently. Department of justice figures from the latter part of 1933 to date show that Germany has contributed 145 actors and 445 musicians and that Great Britain has sent 204 actors and 94 musicians. The screen actors' guild has announced that only 18 of the film industry's 19,511 employés are refugees, but these figures have been criticized as a gross underestimate.

WHOOPING COUGH VACCINE FOR BRONCHIAL ASTHMA.

SOME day, no doubt, we will discover a chemical or a bacterial antidote for bronchial asthma. But for the present we endeavor to banish all irritants to which the patient reacts. Not infrequently foods, dyes, cosmetics, or animal hair or dandruff will be found to be responsible.

Search as we may certain individuals will defy the most critical study. With these victims the symptoms are so distressing and persistent that almost anything that gives promise of relief will be tried. Not long ago a New York physician, confronted with one of these stubborn cases, determined to resort to whooping cough vaccine. He was led to this procedure because the "barking spells" so closely resembled the manifestations of the childhood malady.

No explanation so far has been forthcoming as to just why this management proved successful. It may be suggested, however, that perhaps the organism that causes whooping cough may be the sensitizing agent and that the reaction has become more marked with advancing years.

Two or three brief histories point clearly to the neutralizing influence of the substance on those who had been given up as chronic, hopeless sufferers. A 62 year old merchant had experienced periodical seizures for 10 years. A vaccine made from his own excretions failed to bring help. He was then advised by his physician to use adrenalin, which he did, obtaining reasonable comfort. The after effects, however, were anything but agreeable and an offer to experiment with the whooping cough preparation was accepted eagerly. The first dose was small and was given during the height of an attack, at about 3 p. m.

For the first time in many years he was able to sleep the night thru. Later paroxysms were eased in similar fashion. It should be stated, however, that the material appeared to wear out and it was not considered wise to administer larger amounts. The patient was then placed on ephedrine, which alleviated the symptoms.

Another case, that of a 14 year old girl, resulted in practically complete cure. No medicine other than adrenalin had been beneficial. Subsequent to the first injection of the vaccine she passed several days without a single attack—a situation that had not been duplicated in many months. Repeated treatments were followed by freedom from trouble and within two weeks she was out playing with other children. A dietary indiscretion brought a return of her asthma, but once again the material was successful. She now has only an occasional mild siege which does not disturb her in the least.

A most striking illustration is presented by a woman of 40 years, who, when seen by her physician, was bedridden, struggling for breath, and taking regular injections of powerful drugs. Here the vaccine changed the picture abruptly. Within two weeks she was able to return to her job and for three months thereafter failed to exhibit the slightest discomfort. A mild return of her difficulty was quieted with a single additional dose. She has had none since and is now entirely free from all signs of her original disorder.

Physicians have observed that in severe cases adrenalin will lose its efficiency, whereupon ephedrine, a similar chemical, will take hold and be effective. In some instances helium inhaled with oxygen will bring improvement. Perhaps we may look upon the pertussis [whooping cough] remedy as altering the condition of the blood to such an extent that worn out products will again become potent.

CONCRETE FLOOR.

J. T. writes: Does constant standing on concrete affect the feet in any way?

REPLY.

It may, if the circulation, the ligaments, and the muscles are overstrained. There will be a tendency to dropped arches.

AN UNWISE CRACK.

Mrs. W. writes: My 16 year old son is always moving his knuckles so that they make a cracking noise. Is this harmful?

REPLY.

Quite. Some injury to the joint surfaces may ensue, with enlargement. Each "crack" strains the ligaments.

DRAFT AGES.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The Tribune is right in calling the 30 to 35 draft age a mistake. I have examined 21 men of whom I passed 13 and rejected 8. All but one had jobs or a business or a profession. Several are married and creating homes. They are needed in their jobs and the married ones will have their home-creation plans disrupted.

Young men of 21 or even 19 and 20 would learn more rapidly and more enthusiastically. They would not be burdened by the thoughts of the sacrifices that the 30 to 35 year old men must carry with them.

Much as we Americans dislike the word "compulsory," yet it must come and we will get used to it. We like the word "voluntary" but untrained volunteers were slaughtered in the battle of Shiloh. Some young men who would most profit by the military training would not volunteer just as some of our best students in colleges do not take the exercise they should. E. P. S. Miller, M. D.

WOULD KEEP OUR HOSE.

Woodstock, Ill., Dec. 21.—The President's analogy about lending a neighbor a hose when his house is on fire would have more point if the said neighbor had not piled trash in his basement and poured oil on it [Versailles treaty, war guilt, reparations], had not scuttled the local fire department [league of nations], had not given the arsonist a huge quantity of fire starting material [Skoda arms works, the Czecho-Slovak army, the tanks that conquered France, 1,000 airplanes, etc.], had not cut off the water supply when another neighbor was fighting fire [Republican Spain], did not still have that hose we lent him the last time his house was on fire [war debt], and did not have several thousand feet of hose of his own which he apparently is saving from possible harm [estimates of credits in western hemisphere as high as $12,000,000,000]. I think we ought to keep our hose. We may need it.

Clara Mae Perkins.

CHRISTMAS GIFT!

Chicago, Dec. 18.—We are told in a letter recently published in this column and signed by John A. Simpson that along with forgetting the war debts "we should give [not lend] England ships, war vessels, planes, and all other needed materials."

In a true spirit of Christmas I think it would be a splendid idea to give [not lend] William Allen White, John A. Simpson, and all others of their kind to England, and good riddance to them.

James Howard.

UNCLE SAMUEL'S ROLE.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 20.—The international stage is being set by the administration for a return engagement of Uncle Sam in a rôle for which he is considered typed, that of "Public Sucker No. 1 of the World." His financial backers, the conglomerate John Q. Public, will be called upon to advance all of the expenses of the production, but the proceeds will be removed from this country, never to be returned.

During the run of the show he will become the recipient of fulsome flattery from some who not long since criticized him for too realistically playing the rôle of Shylock. At the end of the engagement his pretended popularity will suffer an abrupt decline, and it will again be made brutally clear to him how sharply drawn is the line between recognition in the dressing room and in the counting room. Those who had previously lionized our Uncle Samuel will be too much concerned with their rehabilitation to permit themselves to be bothered by any demands that he receive a cut from the receipts. Burton F. Kimball.

WPA ART DEFENDED.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—I am writing this little note in protest against the articles on WPA appearing in your paper.

We have several fine pieces of art here at New Trier High school from the project and I think it is only fair to express my resentment of an article that is not fair in my estimation.

I am not speaking officially for the school. Personally I think it would be better for The Tribune to suppress such articles, because even people who are not especially interested in the project thought the articles extremely drastic and condemned the paper for publishing them. Catherine M. Murphy,
Head of art department, New Trier Township High school.

LIKES WILL BROADCAST.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 20.—Replying to Al Morrison concerning radio programs, let me say I am a housewife, who, long ago, learned to turn off the radio completely during the day, with the exception of WILL, our state university. They are a Godsend—lectures on English literature, sociology, economics, psychology, civil war, and reconstruction, etc., all from the classrooms — fine music, daily news reports, everything any one would wish—and no advertising. Since I discovered WILL, I appreciate the radio. I used to wonder why one bothers with them; such trash, not to speak of the propaganda they sneak in now and then.

Alta C. Catlin.

A WORLD POLICEMAN.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Will some one please tell me what Germany has done to the United States to warrant all these warlike acts sponsored by Roosevelt? Is it our job to police the world?

Maybe I am dumb, but I thought this country, its constitution, its laws and ideals were sufficient to satisfy its people and that they would subordinate their ties of racial origin in their devotion to a free and independent America.

Axel Lonnquist.

DRAFT BRITISH WEALTH.

Marcellus, Mich., Dec. 20.—Now that it is proposed to loan supplies to England let us consider this: There must still be hundreds of millionaires in the British empire. Why not draft their wealth as our government intends to do to ours in case of war or great emergency? The loans, which are nothing but outright gifts, will prove to be an endless and fatal drain to our resources.

There are hundreds of thousands of aged people in America who no longer can find safe investments and are forced to leave their money in savings accounts at pitiful interest rates. After exhausting ourselves helping England our government will declare an emergency and will reach for these bank accounts, saying with a sardonic smile that it wants to give the little fellow a chance to do something for his country.

APARTMENT LEASE.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We answered an ad for an apartment and signed a 6½ month lease by request of landlady, who now claims she violated her own lease in renting to us and [1] claims apartment, saying our lease with her is not valid.

2. Have we any remedy?

3. She has objected to giving rent receipts, altho we have paid rent regularly in an effort to comply with lease rather than be liable for possible damages.

4. She now says we must surrender apartment and [3] minimizes our position to the extent of appearing to cooperate with an insurance company which is trying to negotiate a settlement for damages sustained by one of signers of lease as result of his being knocked down by a car on Oct. 30, which car was driven by their [insurance company] assured.

We have a doctor and lawyer on case of accident and [6] wish advice on also putting situation regarding lease in hands of lawyer, or [7] can you handle it? E. R.

1. You could not acquire any greater rights than she had and hence the owner of the building could assert his rights under the original lease, but we do not see how your sub-landlord would be in a position to take advantage of this point.

2. See 1. We cannot advise to advantage without having the wording of both leases.

3. You could pay by money order and thus have a receipt.

4. We cannot advise without having the wording.

5. We do not see that this is any concern of yours.

6. If you have confidence in him it would be a good idea to go over the facts with him.

7. Not without having the facts.

SIX COLLEGE MEN choose the fashions they like their girls to wear at the big dances

Thank you Bill Barr, Charlie Ford, Tom French, Bill Swisher, Art Nielsen and Bob Crane! When you came into Field's and worked with us, seriously and in session after session, to choose evening clothes for College Bureau's Fashion Showing, we learned a lot from you. Now we invite all college girls to see the men's selections . . . bouffant dresses that skip the "graduation" look . . . jacket dresses because the men say you can wear them to both formal and informal dances . . . slim silhouettes . . . floating fabrics. It was lots of fun for Field's to learn about glamour from the college man's angle. Because college men are exacting about the way their dates look at the big dances, we give you college girls seven of the men's favorite ways for you to be glamourous.

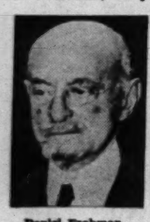
DANIEL FROHMAN, DEAN OF THEATER PRODUCERS, DIES

Pneumonia Following Fall Fatal at Age 89.

New York, Dec. 26 [Special].—Daniel Frohman, 89 years old, dean of American stage producers and one of the most distinguished figures in the history of the theater in this country, died today.



Daniel Frohman.

Death came in the Leroy sanitarium, where Frohman had been under treatment since Nov. 4 when he broke his right hip in a fall in his hotel suite. An attending physician said the producer developed pneumonia about four weeks ago.

Altho the veteran producer had been professionally inactive for many years, he kept an unflagging interest in the stage, where he had helped develop many of the leading stars for more than two generations.

Mementoes Line His Walls.

He retained a studio over the Lyceum theater and lined its walls with hundreds of autographed photographs and handbills reminiscent of a bygone day when he and his brother, Charles Frohman, who died in the sinking of the Lusitania during the world war, were the nation's leading producers.

As president of the Actors' Fund, a philanthropic organization, he kept in touch with footlight folks. He kept this post when he retired from active producing in 1912.

Frohman was in or of the theater for more than three-quarters of a century. He was born in Sandusky, O., the son of a stage-struck German Jewish peddler. At the age of 11 he was prompter for a local German company in his home town. At 23 he was advance man for a one-night stand troupe, and at 28 he landed on Broadway as business manager for the old Madison Square theater.

Genius as Talent Discoverer.

In 1885 Frohman founded at the old Lyceum theater the Daniel Frohman Stock company, which became known as the "star factory." He had a genius for discovering new talent. Among those who found fame under his guidance were Maude Adams, E. H. Sothern, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Alison Skipworth, Edith Wynne, and Margaret Illington.

Searching both sides of the Atlantic for desirable plays, Frohman presented works by Pinero, Jones, Anthony Hope, Howard, Mark Twain, Howells, and other "moderns."

He married Miss Illington in 1903 and they were divorced in 1909.

HOLD HOLLYWOOD SERVICES TODAY FOR AGNES AYRES

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26 (AP).—Hollywood will pay its last respects tomorrow to Agnes Ayres, bright star of the silent films.

Funeral services for the 42 year old actress will be conducted at a Hollywood chapel, with the Rev. Neal Dodd officiating. Cremation will follow at Hollywood Memorial park.

Miss Ayres died Christmas day after a brief illness. She was known to millions of movie-goers in the days of Rudy Valentino, opposite whom she starred in "The Shiek." She retired in 1927, wealthy, but lost her savings in the 1929 crash. Three years ago, after establishing herself in the real estate business, she essayed a film comeback, but received only minor rôles.

DR. W. H. OSGOOD TO RETIRE FROM FIELD MUSEUM

Noted Biologist Plans to Continue Research.

Dr. Wilfred Hudson Osgood, chief curator of the department of zoölogy for the Field Museum, will retire from active service on New Year's eve.

Dr. W. H. Osgood.

Maj. Clifford C. Gregg, director of the museum, said the institution will continue to enjoy the benefits of Dr. Osgood's advice as one of the most eminent biologists in America. As chief curator emeritus he will continue a number of researches on South American mammals and will complete several books.

A tiny, wiry man whose sandy hair is barely sprinkled with gray, Dr. Osgood looks forward to a long continuation of his scientific career. "Altho I've passed the retirement age of 65, I have a great deal of work yet to do," he commented.

31 Years with Museum.

During 31 years as a staff member of the museum, Dr. Osgood has conducted many expeditions and has obtained thousands of valuable zoölogical specimens. His expedition to Ethiopia took seven months of traveling on pack mules over 2,000 miles of wild country. He brought back 3,000 zoölogical specimens, one of the largest and rarest collections ever gathered in that land.

Other important expeditions led by him include one to Peru in 1912-13, the Marshall Field expedition to Chile in 1922-23, a personally financed trip to French Indo-China in 1937, and the Magellanic expedition of the Field Museum which in 1939-40 explored and collected specimens in the southernmost reaches of South America. His field trips have taken him also to Africa, Asia and almost every section of South America.

Friend of Herbert Hoover.

Dr. Osgood was graduated from Leland Stanford university in 1896. At Stanford he was a friend of Herbert Hoover.

On Dr. Osgood's recommendation, his position of chief curator will be filled by Karl Schmidt, his former assistant. Schmidt is widely known as a zoölogist and has an international reputation as a specialist in the study of reptiles.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Anna Neagle gave W-G-N and Mutual network listeners a happy half hour last evening. This golden haired British girl, who was starred on W-G-N last spring in the radio première of her first musical picture "Irene," returned last night for an exclusive radio presentation of her second, "No, No Nanette." It was presented on the program In Chicago Tonight.

All the gayety, bright comedy and music of Vincent Youmans' musical show of 15 years ago came back to life last night with refreshing new touches. The radio première, of course, reflected the flavor of the new Herbert Wilcox R-K-O picture version, in which she is starred. The movie opened at the Palace on Christmas eve.

Tunes Seem New Again.

"No, No Nanette," in its new dress, still contains the very popular tunes, "Tea For Two," "I Want to be Happy," and "No, No Nanette," introduced many a year ago by Louise Groody, Charles Winninger and others of the original company.

They were fresh, gay, and almost new, last night when sung by Miss Neagle, Bret Morrison, and Earle Wilkie. Bret Morrison, who performs regularly on W-G-N productions, portrayed Tom Gillespie, the romantic lead. He both sang and acted last evening.

Fine Supporting Cast.

Bob Jellison provoked many laughs as the sputtery discomfited Uncle Jimmy around whose complications with gold diggers the plot is woven. A notable supporting cast included Cornelia Osgood, John Goldsworthy, Willard Waterman, Donna Reade, Fran Carlon, Marvin Mueller, Herb Butterfield and Hazel Dopheide.

The musical setting was provided by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra. The production was under the direction of William A. Bacher.

Miss Neagle is to appear on the Kate Smith show tonight. Because bad weather grounded planes between Chicago and New York Miss Neagle had to take the train east last night. She will arrive in New York two hours before broadcast time.

7 PER CENT INCREASE IN CHRISTMAS MAIL HANDLED THIS YEAR

Christmas mail poured in and out of Chicago this year at a pace 7 per cent faster than that of last year, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen reported yesterday. He offered the following comparative figures for 1940 and 1939 from Dec. 1 thru Dec. 24:

INCOMING MAIL.

Kruetgen said that large increase in outgoing second class mail—largely advertising matter—reflects business improvement.

BUILD HOSPITAL FOR TUBERCULAR CHILDREN'S CARE

A children's tuberculosis hospital is under construction at the Oak Forest infirmary, according to an announcement yesterday by Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board. When completed it will accommodate 40 young patients, most of whom are in County hospital. Work of remodeling an old building for the hospital will take about two months.

Supt. Frank Venecek of the infirmary said the number of bedridden patients there has more than doubled during the last five years, with 1,782 of the 3,726 now at Oak Forest confined to beds. The institution has a staff of 125 nurses in the infirmary and 72 more in the tuberculosis hospital, where there are 463 patients.

Venecek said operating expenses for 1940 were $1,272,251, and that increases in the cost of coal, food, and other supplies may raise this by nearly 10 per cent in 1941. He added that the federal government donated the following foods during the year: 32,000 pounds of raisins, 1,252 bushels of apples, 7,000 pounds of cabbage, 8,952 pounds of celery, 266 bushels of carrots, 1,463 cases of oranges, 20,000 pounds of onions, and 231 bushels of tomatoes.

AGREE ON TERMS TO SETTLE C. I. O. LUMBER HOLIDAY

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 26 (AP).—A tentative settlement of the three week labor "holiday" at Tacoma's big St. Paul and Tacoma Lumber company plant was reported tonight by Ed S. Jackson, United States department of labor conciliator.

The International Woodworkers of America [C. I. O.] local will vote on the settlement Saturday. About 1,200 workers are involved. The agreement provides for a union shop and reëmployment by the company of 13 discharged employés, Jackson said.

The St. Paul "holiday" was called in protest over the discharge of union members at the same time the strike of the rival A. F. of L. union over wages and vacations tied up virtually all the rest of Tacoma's lumber industry. The widespread A. F. of L. union strike was settled two weeks ago.

FIND CITY ITSELF VIOLATES RULE ON BARBED WIRE

The little known city ban on barbed wire, which has interfered with government requirements in a large defense contract, has been violated by the city itself, it was discovered yesterday. Around the new water filtration plant at 78th street and the lake is an 8 foot fence topped by three strands of barbed wire.

Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, said the contractor was directed to erect the fence to protect valuable pumps. He said such fences had been used on other occasions at city construction sites.

The antibarbed wire regulation was called to public attention when police halted construction of a fence around a plant at 5301 South Western avenue. The federal bureau of identification ordered that such a fence be built after the plant received subcontracts worth 8 million dollars from naval engine makers.

H. I. Allen, attorney for the company, which has the contract for the fence, said an effort probably would be made to get special permission to proceed or to have the building code amended.

MIKE BOYLE DUE TO PROTEST CUT IN UNION WAGES

Michael J. Boyle, business agent for the Electrical Workers' union, local 134, is scheduled to appear before a special aldermanic subcommittee today to protest the contemplated 10 per cent slash in city union wages. The city council finance committee has voted the cut for 1941 and the matter is now before the council, which will meet Jan. 7 to discuss the 1941 budget. The subcommittee, which has heard protests against the cut from a dozen unions, expects to report back to the finance committee Monday, according to Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], who is chairman of both committees.

FOUR ECLIPSES TO TAKE PLACE IN NEXT YEAR

There will be four eclipses during 1941, Dr. Oliver J. Lee, Northwestern university astronomer, said yesterday.

There will be a partial eclipse of the moon on March 13, visible everywhere in the United States except in the extreme northeast. On March 27 there will be an annular eclipse of the sun, visible only in South America. On Sept. 5 a second partial eclipse of the moon will be seen from Alaska and the eastern world. On Sept. 21 there will be a total eclipse of the sun, not visible in America.

Dr. Lee said the maximum number of eclipses in one year is seven, and the minimum number is two.

PROBE LAUNCHED INTO $75,000 FIRE IN LOOP BUILDING

Authorities were conducting an investigation last night into the fire that wrecked the five story building at 178 West Randolph street during the early morning rush hour yesterday and did $75,000 damage.

Dense smoke, combined with a low fog, blanketed the west section of the downtown area, tied up traffic and caused thousands of employés to be late for work.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan said he had heard that certain employés in the building had tried to put out the fire before turning in an alarm. The resultant delay permitted the fire to gain headway, he said, and the causes behind it are to be looked into. Police were studying reports that Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin operated a handbook in the building.

The street level of the building was flanked by a B-G restaurant on one side and a Thompson restaurant on the other. The B-G system also maintained experimental kitchens on the fourth and fifth floors. Twenty-five employés of the kitchens and scores of patrons of both restaurants were routed by the fire. The building was owned until Oct. 15 by William R. O'Toole, former alderman of the 14th ward.

Young French Violinist Wins Acclaim as Symphony Soloist

Suite, from "Christmas Eve" ..... Rimsky-Korsakoff
Symphonie Fantasie, F Minor ..... Miaskowsky [First performance]
Scenes de Ballet, Op. 52 ..... Glazounoff
Emperor Waltzes ..... Johann Strauss

Last night's soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Zino Francescatti, repeated the triumph he enjoyed when he made his debut with the ensemble a year ago. At the close of his performance of Lalo's Spanish Symphony he was repeatedly recalled by an enthusiastic audience, even after the stagehands had moved the conductor's podium back to its usual position in the center of the stage. Finally the smiling young French violinist found it necessary to respond to the insistent demand for an encore, and he repeated the second movement of the symphony.

Such an ovation was deserved. In the impeccable virtuosity and controled fire of his performance Mr. Francescatti seemed an ideal interpreter of Lalo's popular work. He played the typically Spanish ornamentations that decorate the melodic line with the right rhythmic grace; his handling of the rubato that comes with the recurrence of the rondo's theme was as sure as it was apt; the passion and drive of the first movement never got out of hand and were complemented by the gracious and serene performance of the slow movement. The excessive vibrato of Mr. Francescatti's otherwise beautiful tone was forgotten in the light of these virtues.

Three second rate compositions by Russian composers constituted the first half of the program. Of these the most important was Miaskowsky's Symphonie Fantasie, written for the orchestra's Golden Jubilee and dedicated to "its illustrious conductor, Dr. Frederick Stock." The work begins auspiciously with a sprawling theme, typical of the composer, given a briefly contrapuntal and expressive development. Thereafter, the main body of the piece concerns itself with two less interesting themes in conventional uninspired fashion, and one is grateful for the return of the opening music, which serves also to conclude the work. Constructed like the usual first movement of a symphony, the work sounds exactly like that, as if three more movements needed to be tacked on to give the fragment meaning.

The Rimsky-Korsakoff and Glazounoff contributions were equally banal, and the beautiful sonorities and dazzling virtuosity of the orchestra seemed wasted on them. Dr. Stock exerted all his musical wisdom to make them as effective as possible. In accompanying the soloist he accomplished his usual miracle of conducting with complete and beautiful cooperation.

Mr. Francescatti's performance of the solo work was broadcast by W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

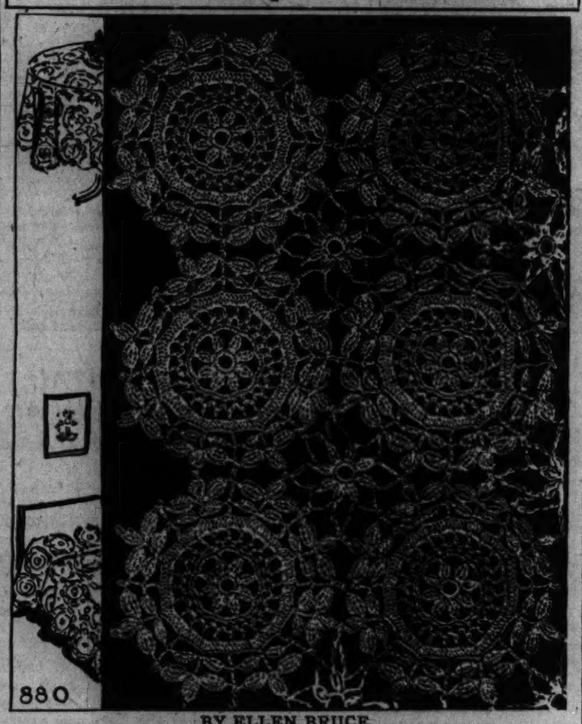
Unusual Bedspread Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This new and unusual bayberry medallion for a bedspread is destined for wide favor. It is easy to crochet and is lacy enough to serve as a tablecloth, if desired. A few cones of bed cotton are required for the bedspread, while a couple of hanks of mercerized crochet cotton are suggested for use in a tablecloth. Treble and double treble crochets create the bayberry motif, while single and double crochet form the center design.

For instructions in crocheting the bayberry medallion for the bedspread, No. 880, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

New Two-Piece Suits Arrive in Gay Colors

BY REA SEEGER.

Any restless urge for color to spike up a fur jacket or long fur coat can be appeased with the new collection of two-piece suits now obtainable in such interesting pastels as pink, blue, soft grey and two more eye catching shades—cranberry red and a dull old gold. Suits designed expressly for the after holiday doldrums stress the fitted silhouette, the longer line to the jackets and simple but precisely tailored details.

There are two styles of skirts in one showing, a clever inverted pleated model and the straighter affair minus the pleats. The jackets that complete these skirts have patched pockets, a softer tailored outlook from the shoulders. They button snugly down the center.

Twill like fabric and the smooth swanky flannels are the choices now ready. Prices are very modest. These clever two-somes are separable so that the good old trick of contrast can be worked in any way you wish.

Next to the suit, combines in light or bright colors come the many telling dress contrast finds. Extremely simple in outline they use the precise seaming and cutting to dramatize the fine quality of the fabric usually soft thin wool. In these very new daytime dresses you'll notice the new trend of the sloping shoulder lines, the casual charm of high round necklines, elbow length and cuffed sleeves and the complete absence of frills or similar ornamentation. Even the popular pockets have been smoothly concealed. An unbroken outline from shoulder to hem dramatizes the texture and color of the fabric.

'First Party' Dance Dress

"First party" dance dress of snowy white net combined with a shimmering bodice top of metallic brocade makes any young subdeb look like she had stepped off the top branch of the Christmas tree. The same lovely dress comes in heaven blue or candy pink. Over the shoulders is the scarlet guardsman's cape with gold embroidered epaulets for swanky contrast.

Gayety of City Given Sparkle by Ballet Russe

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Leonide Massine, artistic director, took over the Auditorium last night for its traditional Christmastime dance session. From now until Jan. 5 the old theater will be brightened once each day—twice on Saturdays and Sundays—by the twinkling limbs of ballerinas.

Immediately the troupe began work on its task of presenting the six new works in its répertoire. Last night's principal item, the Petipa-Tschaikowsky "Nutcracker," probably had never before been performed here. The curtain raiser, the Balanchine-Stravinsky "Poker Game," certainly had not.

"The Nutcracker" is one of those unsophisticated old ballets in which a tiny thread of story is used merely as something on which to hang a series of delightful dances—playful and romantic by turns. In this case a Christmas present in the form of a nutcracker comes to life and conducts its child owner off to the Snow Country and the Kingdom of Candy.

It turns out that in these two localities people spend all of their time dressing themselves in noble finery and dancing like mad. There are princes and fairies and merry Chinamen and muscular Russians and gay flowers in human form.

"Poker Game" is based on the brilliant idea of reproducing on the stage, with live dancers, naturally, the deals and straights and flushes of poker. The dancers are dressed in costumes built around the four suits as motifs.

The orchestra was anything but easy with Stravinsky's fearfully hard score, and the performance as a whole hardly succeeded in getting itself across. "Poker Game" is an intellectual ballet—at least in the sense that its basic idea is completely nonesthetic—and it drew more admiration for its cleverness than applause for its beauty.

There were opportunities in "The Nutcracker" and in "Poker Game" to greet many of the troupe's best liked dancers—Alexandra Danilova, Alicia Markova, Nathalie Krassovska, Frederic Franklin, Igor Youskevitch, Roland Guerard, and others. In "Capriccio Espagnol," which served as night cap, Leonide Massine himself appeared.

The performance was a benefit for the Church Mission of Help of the Diocese of Chicago and drew a brilliant audience.

According to CULBERTSON

(Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.)

It is a pleasant, as well as a profitable experience to make a slam, hence it goes without saying that when the opponents rob you of that opportunity, they should be made to pay well for their crime. In today's hand, which occurred in a recent New York duplicate game, the victims failed to exact full payment, and suffered accordingly in their match-point score.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	1 spade	2 diamonds	3 spades
4 hearts	4 spades	5 diamonds	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
Pass	6 spades	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

As will have been observed, the bidding was extremely vigorous all around the table, but East's six diamond bid would easily have been fulfilled, so South was not far out of line when he sacrificed at six spades. As it happened, his figuring was off by one vital trick. He should have gone down four for an 1,100 point penalty but, as so often happens, the defenders proved kind.

West led the king and ace of diamonds. Declarer ruffed the second and laid down the spade king. East won and returned the heart king. Dummy's ace won and East's remaining spade was carefully drawn before dummy returned the heart nine. Again East found himself on lead, and this time without a good exit. The average player, it is to be feared, would now lay down the club ace, feeling that a heart return might [as it would] give the declarer a ruff in one hand and a discard in the other.

Even the most dreaded plays, however, are not always dangerous, and this East was a good enough player to analyze the situation instead of acting on impulse. Declarer's holding had been disclosed as six spades, one diamond and two hearts. Even if his other four cards were all clubs, it could do him absolutely no good to discard a club from either hand. Hence, a heart return by East could not possibly lose a trick, whereas the lead of a club [either ace or low] would confine the defenders to one club trick if declarer had the king, which was practically a foregone conclusion.

On this sound analysis, East returned a third heart. Declarer discarded a club from his own hand and ruffed in dummy, then led a low club from the board toward his king, and West sank the defender's slip! Instead of giving the situation as much thought as his partner had given it, West automatically followed suit with the club nine. Now, when declarer led a club toward dummy, West had to play the jack and declarer made him a gracious gift of the trick, refusing to cover with dummy's queen. East, of course, was helpless. He could not overtake with the ace without establishing dummy's club queen, whereas leaving West on lead was just as expensive. West had to return a diamond and declarer got rid of his last club while ruffing in dummy. Thus the sacrifice contract was down only three tricks, 800 points, against the cold small slam in diamonds that the opponents would have made.

I scarcely need point out that if West had done a little thinking and dropped his club jack on declarer's king, the defenders would have taken two club tricks and increased the penalty by an all-important 300 points.

Looking at Hollywood by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—So Billy Hill, the young man with a song, and Scott Fitzgerald, the youth who had to grow older, have passed on. Each lived a long time in a short life and each had his influence on us Americans.

I remember Fitzgerald best as he was at the height of his vogue, 'teen years ago. His jazz-age novels, "This Side of Paradise," and "The Beautiful and Damned," were still talked about. With his wife and small daughter, he was wintering in Rome and riding high; magazines were paying him $2,000 a short story. He was gay and handsome and kind, and the world was his oyster.

I remember Billy Hill best as he was two springs ago, when he sat in the bar of his New York hotel and talked and drank, and he told about himself. Gene Buck, scrapping president of ASCAP, had said outright that Billy Hill was the greatest composer of American folk music since Stephen Foster, and that "The Last Roundup" would endure longer than any other song of our time, with the possible exception of Jerome Kern's "Ol' Man River."

Billy, big and good looking and happy at the moment, told me that his favorite among his songs was not "The Last Roundup," but an obscure failure whose refrain was, "So Little Time, So Much To Do." And that bespoke Billy Hill. He said he had never had enough food. Up to the time he wrote his first hit he was too poor, and afterward he figured he shouldn't waste time eating that could be devoted to drinking. Billy could drink enormously but he was far from being a gutter drunk.

Hill became a $50,000-a-year songsmith overnight with "Roundup" in 1933. The song came out of a 60 cent bottle of bootleg gin. Up to then his life had been hard but colorful—a life that would make a roistering, melodious movie biography. A Massachusetts Yankee, he became a violin student at the New England Conservatory of Music and was so good that a fine job could have been his. He was slated to join one of the greatest orchestras of all time—the Boston symphony under Dr. Karl Muck. But Billy didn't want to be a symphony musician; he wanted to be a hobo.

He worked a spell as a rigger in a Boston shipyard, then went hoboing. In Salt Lake City he played the violin, not the piano, in a dive. He was a violin professor in more dives on Frisco's Barbary coast. He was a stevedore. Bumming back to New York, he worked for two years as doorman at a Park avenue apartment house.

Billy told me his two most satisfying experiences. One was at a café society party at which he, now a famous song writer, was being lionized. A woman, making a plain pass, asked him if he'd come to her apartment in about an hour for a drink. She did not recognize the doorman who for two years had tucked the robes around her in her limousine. He did not go.

The second experience was in Rome, where Billy had found a bar and was lonesome for some one to gab with. There was a little Italian at the bar so Hill bought him a drink and they began to talk with the bartender as an interpreter. The Italian wanted to know what Billy did and he said he was a composer. "And who are you?" asked Billy. "Nobody," shrugged his companion. "My name is Pietro Mascagni." Billy Hill was no tin pan illiterate—he composed his melodies on paper—and it was a big moment to be drinking with a man so great.

Hill had always wanted to write songs and he got a job writing them for the other side of phonograph records. The record business was like double bill movies: You sold the customers one hit and with it a cheap B production. Billy's record-maker paid him $25 a song.

It was a slim living and finally came the old Horatio Alger bottom. Mrs. Hill was about to have a baby, there was no money, and gas and electricity were going to be shut off. Billy borrowed 60 cents for the bootleg gin, took a few stiff ones and wrote two songs in an hour. The phonograph man rejected both. One, he said, may have been all right sixty years ago, and the other, with its stuff about dogs and calves, was nonsense.

Desperately, Billy took his tunes to Louis Bernstein, who staked him and honorably declined to accept the songs for a flat sum. They'd be on a royalty basis. One of the numbers was "The Last Roundup." The other was "The Old Spinning Wheel."

Altho Billy Hill quickly became one of the richest ex-doormen, I have a hunch that when his will is probated his net estate will be shown to be very small, for to him money was nice to have and wonderful to spend.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Robert E. Sherwood's drama of the Finnish conflict—or, to be exact, the first two acts of the drama—provide as affecting an emotional experience as the recent American theater has known. The continuing timeliness of the subject matter is no doubt responsible in good part for the tense identification of the audience with the happenings on the stage. But above the play itself there tower the superlatively expressive, the almost incomprehensively perfect, performances of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

These great and honest craftsmen of the stage, along with their gifted and effective fellow players, carry the play with such simple continuity and quiet intensity that not until the rather painful drop in interest at the outset of the third act does the drama seem to show any faults at all.

Mr. Lunt, as the Nobel prize winning Finnish scientist, discovers and maintains a tone of thoughtful maturity, and the emotional crises of the story register upon his consciousness exactly as they should upon a man of high idealism and inner resource.

Miss Fontanne, in what must be the best performance of her career, becomes the symbol of the exquisite torture that war inevitably brings to an affectionate and sensitive woman. I have never seen on the stage a more complete and sincere representation of all that is good in highly civilized living, nor anything to surpass the technical ease with which Miss Fontanne realizes her characterization.

Much of this same quality of normal and admirable reaction in the face of insurmountable emotional hardship suffuses the other chief performances—of Richard Whorf, as a human and sympathetic American radio announcer; of Sydney Greenstreet, as the old uncle, a musician whose fundamental pessimism is reflected in his taste for Sibelius; of Montgomery Clift and Elisabeth Fraser as the young lovers separated forever by the war. In sharply contrasting vein, Maurice Colbourne delivers with a knife edge Dr. Ziemssen's exposition of the Nazi ideology of world conquest.

The play itself can scarcely be dealt with fairly in this space, and I shall come back to it at a future time. On the whole it is not as good as its protagonists make it seem, for all the directness and pointedness of Mr. Sherwood's characteristic style. Those who find a warmongering attitude in it are neither more nor less wrong than those who find a continuation of the author's earlier theoretical pacific-

Cuff Notes.

The Eames MacVeaghs, formerly of Chicago, have received word in Washington that Mrs. MacVeagh's brother has escaped from a German concentration camp and is somewhere in unoccupied France, "near a mountainous border." They have learned, too, that Mrs. MacVeagh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonin Barthelmy [he was formerly French consul in Chicago], are safe and well in Paris. . . . A special bed and armchair were built at the Morrison hotel for 300 pound Sydney Greenstreet, who so beautifully portrays Uncle Valdemar in There Shall Be No Night. . . . Among the Christmas shoppers was the woman who asked to be directed to the pine cone department and, after following directions, ended up at the fine comb counter.

Christmas at the Art Institute.

Organ carols pealed forth in the Art Institute Christmas afternoon and many hundreds of persons visited it during the day, most of them stopping to gaze at the masterpiece of the month, Mantegna's engraving of the Virgin and Child, then going on to see Mrs. Thorne's American Rooms in Miniature. Mantegna's Virgin and Child, engraved about 1475, for the first time in Christian art showed Mary as a simple peasant woman. It was Mantegna's original plan to disregard her deity, for in the first state of the engraving the halos were omitted. They were added later and are shown in the print on display.

"Look at the drapery," said one discerning Christmas day observer. "The folds of it lead your eye right to the Child."

Lost Guest.

Clinton Hughes, one of the carolers who sang on the near north side, also sang carols a few places Christmas afternoon. Friends had invited him to come in afterward for hot buttered rum, bringing any companions he happened to be with. After a futile effort to find the apartment he sent his host and hostess a wire: "Right idea. Wrong address. If still welcome call Table 53, Camellia House."

ism. Whereas the emotional result of war is powerfully driven home, the intellectual content is, I am convinced, confused, illogical, and inconclusive.

Church Women to Hold Meeting This Afternoon

"Church Women and Chicago's National Christian Mission" will be the theme of a Christmas meeting to be held by the woman's department, Chicago Church federation, this afternoon at the Stevens Building assembly hall. The Rev. Rolland W. Schloerb, chairman of the Chicago Church federation's commission on world friendship, will be the principal speaker.

Still Time to Send in Your Check for Christmas Seals

There still is time to pay for your Christmas seals, according to Homer J. Buckley, president of the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County, local sponsors of the sale. Buckley said that 45 cents of every Christmas seal dollar goes to health education and case finding projects, 28 cents to maintain the institute's 17 community health centers, and 23 for the home nursing service.

The nursing service last year made 60,748 visits to give instruction in diet, hygiene and sanitation and to assist local physicians in home care. The health centers conduct physical examinations and promote school health programs and local clinics. The institute also conducts early diagnosis campaigns and industrial health programs, distributes literature and gives motion pictures, lectures and summer programs in the parks.

Debut Parties in Second Place to Betrothals

the officers' training school at Northwestern university this winter. Before attending Pine Manor, Miss Loeber was graduated from Ferry hall. Mr. Harrington's naval duties permitting, the young couple will be married this spring. Miss Loeber made her debut at a tea-dance at the Knollwood club in 1937.

If Miss Nancy Wolcott doesn't serve Scott Alexander McKeown Jr. with a series of variegated menus after their marriage on Jan. 4, it won't be Miss Helen Shoemaker's fault. Miss Shoemaker is giving a luncheon and recipe shower for Miss Wolcott at the Shoemaker home in Hubbard Woods today. Each guest is to bring her favorite recipe to be added to Miss Wolcott's collection.

James Herbert Mitchells Giving Dance for Daughters.

Subdebutante Joan Mitchell is calling time out from her figure eights at the Chicago Arena, where she is practicing for the midwestern figure skating championships to be held in Cleveland next month, to entertain with her older subdeb sister, Sally, at a dinner-dance which their parents, Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell, are giving for them at the Casino club tonight.

Miss Sally, who is in her last year at the Girls' Latin school, will be a debutante next year and is looking forward to entering Sarah Lawrence college in the fall. Joan is a junior at the Francis Parker school.

Mrs. Jefferson Caffery departed yesterday for Washington, D. C., where she will join her husband, the United States ambassador to Brazil. Since Oct. 28 the Cafferys have been visiting her mother, Mrs. Daniel E. McCarthy of the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Mrs. Caffery expects to return to Chicago in a week to say good-by to her mother before leaving for her home in Rio de Janiero.

Miss Mary Pynchon is coming to Chicago today for a four or five day visit with her father, Harold C. Pynchon, and Mrs. Pynchon. In February Mr. Pynchon will be going to Stamford, Conn., where his daughter lives with her mother, Mrs. John Rowland, to give his daughter in marriage to William Jenkins of Stamford. Miss Pynchon and Mr. Jenkins have not yet set the exact date for their wedding.

Ralph Chatillon and his bride of two weeks will be receiving their mail in the future at the Valley ranch in Valley, Wyo., where they met last summer. The attractive Mrs. Chatillon met her husband's Chicago relatives when the couple stopped off last week for a three day visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Lefens.

The Chatillons were married on Dec. 14 in Plainfield, N. J.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Chell Scott, Norma Tredwell goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her step-daughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Gerente with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron with the dead man. Cameron lives in the apartment below Paul's and he confesses to the murder, claiming a girl, Hilda Lestrade, witnessed it, but Maclain doubts his story. Norma longs to ask the advice of Bunny Carter, head of the aircraft works where her stepson, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, but does not dare for fear of implicating Barbara in the murder. In Gilbert's workroom some one pushes a wardrobe on Norma. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder and the bombing sight Gilbert Tredwell has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwell home with his two seeing-eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers Gilbert's bombing sight plans have been traced and learns from Norma that she thought Bella, the maid, was hiding behind the wardrobe and it was she who pushed it on Norma. Later Bella is found beheaded. Maclain came upon the odor of violets in Paul's apartment and finds it again about Bella. He concludes that violet perfume is a trademark in the Nazi spy system, but thinks Bella was killed because she was working for the intelligence but pretending to work for the Nazis. Maclain questions Bunny Carter and drives with him out to the aviation plant where he hears Louis Madoc, a foreman, speak and he realizes he is hearing the voice of the fake Paul Gerente who visited him the night of Paul's murder. A perfume ad is mailed Norma from the House of Bonnee and Maclain pockets it, sure it is a message in code. When he finally decodes it he realizes there is a plan to kidnap him. He throws the letter out to be collected, willing to act as bait to catch the criminals, but in the meantime he dictates a message into an ediphone and sends it to Spud. It is an order to investigate the House of Bonnee and be ready to capture the gang when they try to kidnap Maclain.

INSTALMENT XXXV.

PERFUME FOR SALE.

"Hell's fire!" Spud snapped out when the Negro concluded. "He probably suspects that some one's tapped the phone. I'm going to take a look at the Tanner building right now. Come on, Cappo."

He slid his arms into a heavy overcoat and said a trifle morosely, "I wish now that Rena was here. She might handle a cosmetic job better than I can. Is there a gun in the car?"

"A 25 automatic, but 'tain't much bigger than so." Cappo measured the size by extending thumb and forefinger.

"That's big enough. I probably won't need it."

"Ain't no telling, Mr. Savage," said Cappo.

Spud located the venomous little Colt once he was in the car. He slid out the clip, tested the loading, and replaced the clip again. Duncan Maclain was a man given to expressive understatement. Spud didn't even want to look at a building unarmed if the captain termed that building "Dangerous as hell."

Yet the atmosphere of New York was deceptively lulling. As the car crossed the junction of Broadway and Amsterdam avenue at 72d street, Spud looked out of the window at the orderly crowd of people and indulged in a sheepish grin. The traffic officer, an old-timer on 72d street, recognized Maclain's car and waved them thru the converging traffic stream. Reflecting on his mission, Spud was hard put to waive a feeling of participating in an opera bouffe where he had the part of a clown to play.

New York City was part of the United States; the United States, its institutions, traditions, and all they stood for formed a deity to Spud. The deity was mounted on a concrete base of integrity, set apart from other countries of the world and their futile bickerings. To him, as to most Americans, its ramparts were unassailable, tried, and true. He could understand the internal seething and boiling of politics and crime, but the belief that outsiders might strike against his country was a shade beyond his comprehension. That he willingly, without thought or question, would start on a quest which he considered a trifle childish was a high tribute to his confidence in Duncan Maclain.

East 57th street was comparatively deserted when Spud rapped on the window and Cappo pulled into the curb. The Tanner building was across the street, less than half a block away. The neighborhood was devoted largely to art and antique dealers. Most of the shops showed darkened windows on the street level floor. Farther east, beyond the elevated, the lighted canopy of the Sutton theater cut a yellow box of white, making the block where the car was parked seemingly dark.

"You wait here, and keep your motor running," Spud told Cappo. "The building's probably closed, but I may be able to get in the lobby and see what names are on the directory." You say the captain mentioned something about being kidnaped, Cappo, when he asked you to throw that letter away?"

It sounded that way to me, Mr. Savage, but he jokes an almighty lot."

"I don't think he was joking then," Spud remarked a bit irritably. "The darn fool's up to something which he knows I wouldn't approve of. Otherwise he'd have sent me more information. As it is, he's keeping things to himself and telling me nothing except what he wants me to know."

"Yessah, that's certainly a way with the captain," agreed Cappo.

Spud took a cigaret from his pocket and put it back again. A man in the uniform of a Protective agency was coming down the street trying the shops from door to door. Spud sat back in the limousine until the watchman went by with no more than a cursory glance at the car. He got out when the man was several doors beyond, turned up his coat collar, and lowered his head against the sharp wind sweeping down 57th street from the East river. The traffic light turned red, and Spud cut diagonally across the street.

Closer to the Tanner building, he saw that a light was burning behind wide curtained windows on the second floor. Outlined against the curtains, gold letters indicated The House of Bonnee. Spud went into the small office building lobby thru an entrance next to a decorator's shop. There was an elevator a few steps to the rear, but the bronze door was closed and no attendant was in sight. At the right was a staircase. A sign on the wall said,

HOUSE OF BONNEE,
Second Floor.

Spud walked up, going over in his mind a hastily concocted story about selling cosmetics which he hoped might get him an interview with the head of the House of Bonnee.

He stopped before stained glass panels in a double door. It opened readily. He went into a reception room done in colored mirrors in the most modernistic style. To the left, arranged on steps of crystal shelves, were bottles and jars. Close by the shelves was a cashier's booth with a window of chromium bars. Straight ahead he glimpsed a line of curtained booths thru an open door. The curtain of the third booth was drawn back far enough to disclose the back view of a woman with a waving machine spread out octopus-like above her head.

On the other side of the waiting room, a girl with slender legs revealingly crossed looked up from a magazine. She was dressed entirely in white except for a small apron of violet hue embroidered in one corner with The House of Bonnee. The girl's blonde hair was clustered thickly to her head in a mass of becoming curls. She stared at Spud questioningly for a few seconds out of ingenuous blue eyes before she wrinkled her saucy nose with a smile and asked:

"Was there some one you wanted to see?"

Spud switched his story, deciding it was too late for a credible salesman's tale. He took a chance and said, "I suppose I want to talk to Monsieur Bonnee."

The girl laughed and lowered her lids inquisitively. "Monsieur happens to be madame," she said, "and madame happens to be away. It's after hours except for customers with late appointments. Suppose you stop in tomorrow."

Spud gave an embarrassed smile and took another glance at the woman visible thru the door.

"My name's Rogers," he said. "Perhaps you can help me. I just wanted to know if my wife's still here. I was to meet her some time after eight, but I was delayed."

"What Rogers?" asked the girl.

She went toward the booths and closed the door behind her, shutting them off from view.

Spud walked swiftly over to the cashier's cage and peered thru the bars, taking in a telephone switchboard, a safe, a glass topped desk, and a couple of files. He left the window and sat down in a chair feeling that for once the captain must be wrong. There was decidedly nothing suspicious, nothing out of the way about The House of Bonnee. New York was filled with such outfits, catering to the city's women from the Bronx to the Battery. He stood up again as the girl came back thru the door.

"Your wife's almost ready," she said. "Won't you sit down and make yourself at home? We carry a unique line in the House of Bonnee. I've been trying to interest Mrs. Rogers in this particular brand of perfume." She took a bottle from the steplike shelves and adroitly broke the seal. Leaning over Spud, she smiled, removed the stopper, and held it to his nose. It was pungent, and strong with a sweet acidity. "It's $20 an ounce," said the girl, "and the newest thing in our line. It's called Black Violets."

Golden Forest Is Setting for Debut Party

The Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone was transformed last night into a forest of golden Christmas trees for the first of the two debut balls that will be given during this holiday season. The second will be Miss Evelyn Gardner's party tomorrow night in the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deere Wiman, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, and the two buds, Mary Jane Deere Wiman and Marie-Merrill Hubbard, received their 700 guests last night in the foyer adjoining the ballroom. Supper was served on the floor above, which also was decorated with golden trees and garlands of leaves. The table centerpieces were white tulips and snapdragons. Both debutantes were in fluffy white tulle with voluminous skirts. Miss Hubbard's skirt was caught in places with French blue bows, and Miss Wiman's had a gold thread running thru it, forming a design. Miss Hubbard's flowers, forget-me-nots, picked up the blue of the bows, and her gloves were of the same color. Her old-fashioned round bouquet was encircled with plaited tulle.

Miss Wiman's flowers were white orchids and phaelonopsis. Her mother, in gold lamé, wore light green orchids, and Mrs. Hubbard, in white, printed in a green ivy leaf design, wore white violets surrounded by waxed ivy leaves. Mrs. Hubbard has been confined to her home for several weeks as the result of a spill in the hunting field, but she was allowed to remove the braces from her back and to be out just long enough to appear at her daughter's debut. She dined quietly in her room at the Blackstone before the ball, for the doctor would not allow her to go to the dinner party that Mr. and Mrs. Wiman gave in the Balinese room for a group of their friends.

Today's calendar for the debutantes, who are setting a sort of unofficial endurance record by rushing from one party to the next, includes the formal debuts of Miss Peggy Rich and Miss Isabelle Johnson, luncheons for Miss Eleanor Norris and Miss Barbara Warner, and a dinner-dance for Miss Margaret Stuart.

The luncheons start off the day's parties. Mrs. Paul Walker's at the Casino is for the James Norrises' bud, Eleanor, and at the same time Mrs. Donald Lourie, Mrs. Edwin S. Ford, and Mrs. Louis E. Tilden will be entertaining in the Pump room for the daughter of the John Eliot Warners. Mrs. Walker is in mourning so she has asked Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. to act as hostess.

From there the debutantes will troop out to Kenilworth, where one of their number, Miss Isabelle Johnson, will be presented at a tea-dance by her mother, Mrs. Homer H. Johnson. The party is from 4 to 7 o'clock in the Kenilworth club.

Some of the debutantes will go on to a dinner Miss Jean White's parents, the Joseph Whites of Winnetka, are giving before taking their young guests on to the Exmoor club for dancing. Topping off the day for Miss Johnson and her assistants will be Miss Bennet Freeman's breakfast at 1 o'clock in the morning.

At the Indian Hill club, another young group will be dancing as the guests of Mrs. Robert Stuart and her son-in-law and daughter, the George Andrew Macdonalds. The dinner-dance is for Mrs. Stuart's granddaughter, Miss Margaret Stuart. This daughter of the R. Douglas Stuarts is studying this winter at the University of Chicago.

Miss Peggy Rich will rush from the Stuart party back to town, as her own debut supper-dance is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock at the Racquet club. The James Grierson Shennans of St. Charles and the Joseph Riches of Lake Forest are giving the party for their sister. The debutante is staying with her mother, Mrs. R. Joseph Rich, at the Ambassador East during her vacation from the Finch school.

Dec. 27, 1940.

Universal Day—As the end of the year draws near, the last sparks of the explosive five will be felt and this is one of the days when power and authority are asserted.

January—If you are entering an eight-year, January will seem more like the month that ends a year rather than the beginning for it is a sort of windup of what has been left over from last year. You will want to settle up old accounts and clear up your files. Perhaps some friends will look like bad debts to you and you will want to cross them off the ledger. Try to put into practical use the truths that your experiences of the last year brought you, otherwise you might lose out on opportunities this year. Don't waste any time in regrets. This may prove a highly emotional month so watch your feelings.

Women World Wide
by Ruth DeYoung Kohler

A GOOD many years ago Walt Whitman commented that one of the most hopeful things about America was the quality of its women.

On the threshold of a new year, and at the conclusion of this series of radio broadcasts and articles, I recall the great poet's statement as a modern prophecy.

With America changing . . . changing as a stream of khaki grows into a mightier army, changing as new planes roar off from factory-proving grounds, changing as new ships glide gracefully into the sea . . . one of the soundest indications is the defense interest of its women.

Total preparedness means the military and the economic and it also means the home. With the military still in its gawky adolescence, women, both individually and in groups, have taken home defense on their own shoulders and started pulling at its bootstraps.

Altogether these feminine efforts, great and small, on the home front make up something like a patchwork quilt, but among them there is a common denominator.

This common denominator is an intense awakening to the fact that the American way of life demands service from its adherents as well as acceptance of its benefits.

Looking back on the thirties and even the twenties, it is perfectly easy to see how gradually and insidiously the nations we call the democracies slipped into the way of taking democracy for granted . . . until it became almost like the gas or the electricity, something to be turned on.

As one writer has put it, "The will to save American democracy and to defend it can only be steeled in the fires of our courage and in our faith in the future of our historic way of life. Without that courage and that faith, the individual American citizen never can be called prepared."

WOMEN are peculiarly fitted for this job of rekindling faith in America for as the mothers of children, they never have been able to think wholly of their own generation. They want to preserve, to improve, and to pass on.

Our pioneer women did not build for their own generation only, but for the next. Walt Whitman recognized this when he made his remark about "the quality of American women." It was "Uncle Tom's Cabin," written by Harriet Beecher Stowe, that fired the conscience of America against slavery and that great anthem "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" came from the pen of Julia Ward Howe.

TODAY'S women are working thru their organizations, many and efficient, thru an ever closer relationship between home and school—thru cultural crusades that embrace all nationalities—and thru a spiritual revival that stretches out to all creeds. They know that their most helpful procedure is a normal course of activity beginning on the home doorstep and bent upon keeping emotion from becoming uncontrollable war hysteria.

TAKE, for instance, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which has transformed its fiftieth birthday celebration from cakes and candles into a patriotic crusade for strengthening the national defense and keeping out of war . . . by such common sense measures as the careful and considered selection of public servants, the careful selection of teachers in the schools, and the teaching of Americanism to those isolated groups who often are the victims of foreign influences.

Or again take the 2,000,000-member Congress of Parents and Teachers which believes its greatest service is to hold to the line on the normal community services to children in education, in recreation, in social service, and in medical care.

The Girl Scouts have set up service bureaus to reëmphasize "duty to God and country and help to others at all times." The American Association of University Women has issued a leaflet entitled "Today's Challenge," which might well be a text for any group anxious but floundering in behalf of the national defense effort.

For 1941 I can wish nothing more important than that such faith and courage and common sense on the part of American womanhood be scored and underscored. In this lies the hope of America.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

A questionnaire survey conducted recently by a journal for registered nurses has some findings that bear out one of our pet theories—that the use of cosmetics by convalescents has an excellent psychological effect. Ninety-five per cent of the nurses questioned say that the use of beauty aids or grooming aids improves patients' spirits and state of mind.

Any woman who has ever been ill can testify to this. The first day she feels inclined to put on lipstick is the day she's definitely on the mend and we even have a hunch that that day can sometimes be hastened by the use of luxurious little glorifiers that bolster up feminine morale.

Cosmetic counters are good shopping centers when you need a gift for an invalid. One of our pet gifts is beautifully scented and very bland soap. We've usually found that hospital soaps are efficient, but hardly more than that. A cream soap in a fresh, uplifting kind of a fragrance is useful and luxurious, too.

Then there are colognes, all kinds of them, that have a dozen uses in the sickroom. Be sure that the perfume is a light, clean one—and if it has an atomizer so much the better. When the invalid is feeling down a little frothy cologne sprayed on the linen has a refreshing effect.

CALIFORNIA SUN CHEERS BEARS AND STANFORD

Two Champions Get to Drill at Last.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—Three football teams competed with Saturday's opening at Santa Anita for a place in the athletic spotlight here today as Stanford moved into the neighborhood to share some sunshine with the world champion Chicago Bears and the National League All-Stars.

Luke Johnsos.

Clark Shaughnessy brought his Pacific coast champions into nearby Pasadena to complete preparations for their date with Nebraska in the Rose Bowl New Year's day. The Indians, unbeaten and untied, held a light workout in Brookside park, where the White Sox do their spring training.

The National League All-Stars, finally finding a field that was not too muddy, engaged in a three hour defensive drill against the Bears' man-in-motion offense, firmly convinced they will be able to hold the champions to fewer than 73 points when they meet in the third annual pro football game in Gilmore stadium on Sunday.

Bears Stress Defense.

The Bears also stressed defense in a drill on the polo field at the Riviera Country club out near the ocean, but their chief concern was over Coach George Halas, whose condition, following an emergency appendectomy on Sunday, still is such that no telephone calls or visitors are allowed to reach him in St. Vincent's hospital.

Only Luke Johnsos, assistant coach on whom has fallen the responsibility of getting the champions ready for Sunday's contest against the pick of the National league, has been allowed to talk to Halas. Attending physicians and hospital attachés, however, report that Halas is recovering splendidly and that members of the squad will be permitted to visit him before the game.

Luke Turns Worrier.

Johnsos, usually a carefree Swede, is doing an expert job of worrying in Halas' absence, conducting himself more like a head coach than a vacationist who suddenly has been asked to lend a helping hand. To the casual observer, however, his worries appear entirely unnecessary. The Bears in their drill today were a serious, determined and attentive lot.

On the Hollywood High school field, where Ray Flaherty, the Washington Redskins' coach, is attempting to whip the All-Stars into shape, there was an air of general good fellowship and sightseeing. Only a miracle can prevent another Bear landslide Sunday, in the opinion of several coaches here in the rôle of excursionists.

Rain Complicates Plans.

Johnsos is complaining about the rain which has slowed down the schedule Halas outlined before his illness. Flaherty too has some sharp, altho private comment, to make on the weather and Shaughnessy beamed as he beheld the sunshine. The heavy rains up and down the coast have handicapped not only these three teams, but the East and West squads in San Francisco as well, and word from Phoenix, Ariz., where Nebraska is quartered, said the Huskers also are ankle deep in mire.

Johnsos announced this morning that Bernie Masterson, veteran quarter back, probably would start against the All-Stars and that Bobby Swisher and Gary Famiglietti would handle the right half back assignment in the absence of George McAfee. McAfee's position with a North Carolina tobacco company prevented him from making the trip.

The other absentee is Jack Manders, veteran field goal artist and lithograph salesman.

"Since this is Masterson's last game with us before he reports to U. C. L. A., as back field coach, the least one can do is give him the honor of starting," Johnsos said. "In fact, he'll probably play most of the game. The U. C. L. A. rooters will want to see him and so will the Stanford and Nebraska teams. Bernie helped Shaughnessy at Stanford last spring and Nebraska is his old school."

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26 (AP).—Howard Chappell, junior tackle, today was declared ineligible to play for Western Reserve university in the New Year's day Sun Bowl game in El Paso, Tex. The ruling by Dr. Robert E. Bates, dean of students at Western Reserve's Adelbert college, left the Red Cats only three able bodied tackles for the contest with Arizona State. Dr. Bates ruled Chappell, who offered to make the trip, ceased to be a student when he left Cleveland Thanksgiving day to enter army air service at Parks Air college, East St. Louis, Ill.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 26 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks are convinced now that two hockey games on successive nights are too many. After playing a 3-all tie with the Rangers in New York last night, the Chicagoans ran into the Canadiens here tonight and were beaten, 7 to 5, on a combination of their own weariness and the brilliant shooting of the home team. Montreal climbed into a sixth place tie with the New York Americans as a result of the victory.

The weary Hawks will meet the Red Wings in Detroit Sunday, then will head for home to battle the same club in the Chicago Stadium on New Year's night.

Hawks Lead for a While.

A crowd of 8,524 watched the Canadiens strike hard and often tonight. Half way thru the second period, Chicago held a 3 to 2 lead, but Montreal dominated the play in the closing half as the Hawks wilted.

Pacing the Montreal attack with a pair of goals was Rookie Jack Adams while the others were spread evenly among Tony Demers, Johnny Quilty, Elmer Lach, Murph Chamberlain and Joe Benoit. For Chicago, Bill Thoms and Pep Kelly each got two goals with George Allen scoring the other.

Seibert, Allen Collaborate.

The game was a see-saw battle in the opening two periods. Chicago opened the scoring at 2:42 of the first when Earl Seibert helped Allen score. On two quick thrusts within the next three minutes, however, Adams sent the Canadiens into a 2 to 1 lead.

Kelly scored both second period goals, which sent Chicago ahead, 3 to 2, by breaking from Montreal power attacks while Chicago was playing a man short thru a penalty to Bob Carse. Soon after Carse returned, however, Demers evened the count for the Canadiens and Montreal got tallies from Quilty and Lach before the session ended.

Thoms Strikes Back.

Thoms reduced Montreal's lead to one goal early in the final period, but after that Chicago began to show signs of wear. Three minutes later Chamberlain stretched the Montreal lead to 6 to 4 on a play with Charley Sands, with Benoit adding another goal before Thoms concluded the scoring for Chicago at 14:50.

Altho lightning fast, the match was clean thruout with only five minor penalties being handed out. Mush March of Chicago had a tooth knocked out by an accidental blow in a second period skirmish.

Football Rules Committee to Meet at Pine Valley Club

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 26 (AP).—The National Collegiate Football rules committee will hold its annual meeting Jan. 1, 2, and 3 at the Pine Valley Golf club near Camden, N. J., Chairman Walter R. Okeson announced tonight.

It Looks Easy, but Just Try It!

Loyola Meets Yale; Butler Tests De Paul

De Paul's unbeaten basketball team will attempt to gain its seventh consecutive victory tonight and Loyola will try to improve on its .500 per cent rating in the second double header of the season in the Coliseum.

Loyola will oppose Yale at 8:15 o'clock in the first game. De Paul will meet Butler in the second game. Yale opened its road trip with a victory over Washington university in St. Louis Monday night, and suffered its first loss of the season on Wednesday against Bradley Tech in Peoria. Butler has gained an even break in four games against Big Ten conference teams, beating Ohio State and Northwestern, and losing to Indiana and Michigan.

Paul Stagg Resigns as Springfield College Coach

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 26 (AP).—Paul Stagg, son of A. Alonzo Stagg, resigned tonight as head football coach at Springfield college, a post he had held for the last four seasons. Neither Stagg nor Dr. Ernest M. Best, the college president, would comment. Stagg came to Springfield in 1937 from Moravian college in Bethlehem, Pa. His first team, handicapped by a new system, won only one game. The teams improved in the next two seasons but slumped again this fall.

Joe Chamaco of Mexico, 1939 world three cushion billiard champion, and Jake Schaefer will play at 3 and 8 p. m. today in Bensinger's 131 South Wabash avenue arena in exhibitions for the benefit of Johnny Layton, who was injured in a traffic accident on Dec. 15 and still is in a serious condition in Augustana hospital.

Many of Layton's friends also have come to his assistance financially. The exhibitions are preludes to Schaefer's challenge series with Willie Hoppe, the champion, starting Jan. 6, and the annual tournament which opens Jan. 13.

The National Billiard association yesterday announced Charley McElligott of Chicago will referee the Schaefer-Hoppe match and also will be referee in chief in the tournament.

16,984 ACCLAIM SONJA'S RETURN TO CHICAGO ICE

Her Newest Revue Good as Her Best.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Sonja Henie last night opened her annual holiday visit to Chicago and 16,984 paid for the privilege of according her and her cast of the 1941 Hollywood Ice Revue a grand welcome to the Stadium.

Miss Henie is as sweet, as gorgeous, as skilled as ever. Her fans expect the best in skating, in ballet, in eagerness to delight her admirers. The concern of the producers in giving ice show enthusiasts bigger and better entertainment does not involve Miss Henie. They know she'll come thru. What the producers have to do each season is evolve more glamorous settings, more brilliant routines, more luxurious costumes, novel specialties, and surprise comedy interludes.

Arthur Wirtz of Chicago, producer of all of Miss Henie's ice shows, and his big staff this year have done everything to alter and enrich the familiar pattern of ice shows. In other words, the press agent was telling the truth in all his talk about the 1941 Henie ice show being the "best ever."

Sonja appears in seven of the 21 numbers. Her familiar "Tango," skated this year with Eugene Mikeler, seemed the favorite of the audience last evening — largest opening night crowd in history, by the way. Miss Henie's lone solo, titled "Intermezzo," was delightful.

Harrison Thomson shares honors with Mr. Mikeler as the star's skating partner. He assisted Sonja in four of her appearances.

No special effort was made in the matter of novelty, and there was no need for it with beauty, grace, and splendor the watch words. The comic numbers were less robust but funnier than some of the forerunners of this season's extravaganza.

Was a time when the funny fellows didn't get much of a chance in a Henie show. But this year the comics have more leeway than ever. Fredy Trenkler and Fritz Dietl stopped the show on two occasions and there was much applause for Irving Gregg, Jimmy Sisk, Tommy Lee, and Charley Slagle.

The Cast Is Good, Too.

Miss Henie makes her first appearance in the fourth number of the first act, and it may be remarked the spectators were placed in fine mood by the excellence and beauty of the creations which precede the star's bow to her fans: first the ballet in "Tally Ho," a colorful costume display, then "Shadows," in which Mr. Mikeler and Miss Amanda Dietrich, Mr. Thomson and Miss Iris Gordon skate as Richard Craig sings "Footprints in the Snow," and third, "The Huntsmen," first of the comedy specialties, by Gregg and Sisk.

Miss Henie's first appearance is in "The Legend of the Pearl," in which Sonja is drawn into the "under-sea" ballet in a huge shell. Then follows interpretive dancing on skates in which Mr. Thomson portrays a pearl fisher, Miss Henie the pearl, and the ensemble fantastic fishes.

Among the most beautiful of the first act numbers is "Reverie in White," in which the ladies of the ensemble do their stuff aided by plume fans just like Sally Rand's [but don't get the wrong idea, neighbors].

Sonja always has a number or two for the special delight of the younger folks in her vast following and this time its "Little Red Riding Hood." Anyone who knows Sonja readily can visualize her as the cutest Red Riding Hoods—and my, what a tough old wolf is Dietl, he of the skates on stilts. You may rest assured that the wolf gets his just desserts after he tries to make off like he is Little Red Riding Hood's grandma. The woodchoppers and the animate trees see to that.

Trenkler, remembered as one of last season's comedy hits, is back with his "Bouncing Ball" routine. The customers last night gave Fredy a seven encore reception.

New York, Dec. 26 [Special].—The Illinois basketball team set another record tonight in Madison Square Garden by shooting 18 free throws without a miss while beating Manhattan college, 56 to 40. Eight of the Illinois players took part in the record breaking event, which broke a mark of 14 held by New York university.

Two years ago Pick Dehner of Illinois set a new Garden individual scoring mark of 25 points while Illinois defeated Manhattan, 60 to 41. Illinois never has met defeat in Madison Square Garden.

Mathisen Leads Illini.

After playing a poor first half, the Illini rallied with the under the basket work of Sophomore Center Art Mathisen of Dwight, Ill. Mathisen registered 20 points, pushing in eight baskets in the second half. Hoot Evers was second in scoring with 15.

Mathisen threw in four baskets and Evers gathered one in the first seven minutes of the second half, but Christie aided the local team's cause with six points. The score at this point was 32 to 29. Two long shots by Substitute Guard Henry Sachs, two more goals by Mathisen, and a pair of free throws by Hocking gave Illinois a 40 to 32 lead with eight minutes to play.

Illini Make Free Throws.

Illinois made 13 free throws without a miss in the first half but got only four field goals in 43 attempts. Manhattan swung ahead 8 to 3 in the first six minutes, altho the Illini took 15 shots for a single basket by Vic Wukovits and a free throw by Evers. While Illinois hit three free throws, Kravitz intercepted a pass to score and it was 10 to 6 at the end of 11 minutes.

Four goals in rapid order by the Manhattan delegation and a field goal from underneath by Mathisen coupled with two free throws made it 18 to 10 with only four minutes of the first period left to play.

Evers Sinks Long One.

Evers hit a long basket, then cashed in on two fouls. O'Neill, in for Mathisen at center, added a free throw and Wukovits made two.

Evers went underneath to score and added a free throw to tie the count at 20 to 20. Richmond broke the tie with free throw and it was 21 to 20 for the Illini as the half ended. Lineups:

Eddie Miller Signs 1941 Contract with Boston Bees

Boston, Mass., Dec. 26 (AP).—Eddie Miller, the National league's best fielding shortstop, today signed his 1941 contract for President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees and then headed for Orlando, Fla., with his family. Miller, who remained unsigned last season until after his arrival at the training camp, probably received a big salary boost, but neither he nor Quinn would discuss terms.

DEW'S MARGIN IS CUT; PLANS NEW COAST CAMPAIGN

Taylor Rides a Winner; Only Two Behind.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 26 (AP).—Two 19 year old jockeys, fined and reprimanded for engaging in a fist fight, were told today the racing world was watching their keen rivalry for 1940 riding honors and that they must follow the rules closely.

Before today's racing, which saw the margin of victories between them reduced to two, the young riders grinned at each other and shook hands after Tropical Park stewards levied $50 fines and delivered stern lectures on proper behavior.

Taylor Wins One.

After the public reconciliation, Walter Lee Taylor, in second spot, and the pace setting Earl Dew resumed their turf feud and Taylor added a victory but Dew ran into a string of hard luck. At the end of the day the score stood, Dew 283 winners and Taylor 281.

So dissatisfied was Dew with his mounts and with his rival's progress in the stretch drive that he hurriedly packed his equipment and caught a plane for California.

He'll Ride at Caliente.

He planned to take advantage of a long card at Agua Caliente in Mexico Sunday and also expected to ride at Golden Gate Park before the end of the year.

In a telegram from the racing secretary of Agua Caliente Dew was promised 10 mounts of the 12 race program to be held Sunday. Eight of the horses he'll ride are favorites.

Taylor rode his 281st winner in the third race today. Astride Gold Tower, the second choice, he rated the mount well for victory by a nose that paid $5.90 to the growing number of betters who lay $2 on any entry Taylor rides.

For Dew it was an unlucky day. His mount in the first race, Stingaling, unseated him as the field lined up near the post, then romped all over the infield, delaying the start for eight minutes. Stingaling never was in the running.

Blue and Gray Stars Drill but Miss Fox Hunt

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 26 (AP).—Northern and southern college football stars who meet in the third Blue and Gray game here Saturday put finishing touches to razzle-dazzle attacks today, then saw a sudden downpour wipe out their hopes of engaging in one of Dixie's most colorful sports—a fox chase.

The players, loaded in buses, were turned back at nearby Wetumpka by rains en route to neighboring Coosa county hills, where they were to have followed hounds over the Ann Jordan preserve of Sidney Z. Mitchell.

May Wins Skeet Shoot.

While the stars spent the forenoon sightseeing, the skeet shoot, first event of the all-sports week began, with Tom May of Dyersburg, Tenn., breaking 95 out of 100 targets to win the individual small bore championship. W. B. Patterson of Jacksonville, Fla., broke 89 for runner-up honors.

In the 410 gauge event T. B. Hill Jr., of Montgomery, was high gun with 83 out of 100, and Eddie Parish of Jacksonville second with 82.

EVASHEVSKI IMPROVES.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 26 (AP).—While coaches of the East and West All-Star football teams, which meet in Kezar stadium New Year's day in the annual Shrine charity game, were moaning about the continued rain, Andy Kerr and Bernie Bierman of the eastern delegation were cheered by the continued improvement of the ailing Forest Evashevski.

Evashevski, whose fine blocking helped Tom Harmon make many gains for Michigan, was able to leave his bed today after successfully standing off a mild attack of influenza. He said he is feeling fine and expects to be in the lineup next Wednesday.

Harmon and the balance of the east squad attended a luncheon in San Francisco.

Crow Hunters Seek Longer Range Shells

BY BOB BECKER.

Can the range of the 12 gauge shotgun be extended so that wary predatory birds such as the crow can be killed beyond 50 yards? Sportsmen have been intensely interested in this practical outdoor question for many years. They have been asking manufacturers if they can't make a shell that will explode a shot charge at distances beyond the regular killing ranges. A cartridge of this type would get a big welcome from the crow hunters who find it difficult to get close to the birds.

We asked Wallace Coxe, ballistics expert of the du Pont company and author of "Smokeless Shotgun Powders," to help with this problem, and also to counsel us on the general subject of extra long ranges for the average scattergun. Charles S. Hopkins of the Western Cartridge company also was consulted.

They're Trying Hard.

Both Coxe and Hopkins stated that the experts have been experimenting for years with various unusual methods to extend the range of the shotgun, but so far no technician in the field of ballistics has been able to devise a safe, efficient cartridge [suitable for the average shotgun] that will explode and scatter shot at set distances. This particular phase apparently has been a problem for the men whose business is to produce small arms ammunition for American hunters.

In fact, one of the authorities pointed out that this general principle of inserting an explosive unit in rifle ammunitions has been giving the experts in the war department no little trouble. According to published reports from Washington, the ordnance experts have admitted that great difficulties are complicating the perfection of a certain type of anti-aircraft ammunition which can be exploded by fuses at set distances.

Jackets Have Been Tested.

In reviewing the efforts of manufacturers to produce a shotgun cartridge that will deliver a shot charge beyond the normal range, both Mr. Coxe and Mr. Hopkins have some interesting comments on the old idea of using a wire container or jacket for the shot pellets, a system that has been tested many times.

This little jacket [made of very fine wire] was supposed to open after it had traveled some distance from the gun muzzle. But usually the jacket didn't open so the solid mass of shot pellets was held together, slowly lost velocity, and failed to deliver a single pellet into the distant target.

Progress Is Being Made.

Unable to figure out an effective shot jacket and also unable to overcome the many ballistics problems involved in the production of a safe explosive shell for hunters, the Winchester Repeating Arms company and the Western Cartridge company nevertheless have been able to make much progress in extending the range of the 12 gauge gun so that birds may be killed cleanly beyond 60 and even 70 yards.

The joint contribution to long range shooting of these two companies is a heavy Magnum shotgun [Winchester repeater or double barrel] that will drop birds easily at 70 or 75 yards, and a shell [loaded by Western] with copperized shot which delivers extraordinary patterns at these long ranges.

We experimented with this long range combination of gun and shells and tested patterns at distances from 60 to 80 yards. This comparatively new development in shotgun shooting will be discussed in a later article.

Miami Greets Bowl Foes in Summer Heat

Miami, Fla., Dec. 26 (AP).—Both Orange Bowl football teams rolled into Miami's 80 degree sunshine to the blaring strains of band music today and one of them—Mississippi State—lost no time settling down to work for the New Year's day game.

The Maroons, detraining at 3 p. m., went thru the usual arrival fuss, then hurried to the practice field for a brisk session.

The Georgetown players arrived later at a different station, enjoyed the reception and later contented themselves with a long walk around a Miami Beach field to loosen the train kinks.

The weather was the principal topic of discussion in both camps but neither coach thought the heat would be a serious detriment.

"We had some 70 degree weather just before we left Starkville," Coach Allyn McKeen of Mississippi State said, "and I think we can get accustomed to the warmth shortly."

Coach Jack Hagerty of Georgetown said he believed the Hoyas, too, could become acclimated.

The reception ceremony was much the same at each station. Mayor Alexander Orr Jr., Orange Bowl officials, and the event's Sun Girl, Miss Elaine Edgar, welcomed Mississippi State first, then rushed three miles to the other station to greet Georgetown.

RAIN--AND MORE OF IT--CUTS DOWN TENNESSEE DRILL

Edgewater Park, Miss., Dec. 26 (AP).—The Tennessee Volunteers settled down today to a rigorous training grind on the rainswept coast of the Gulf of Mexico to get ready for their Sugar Bowl encounter with Boston College in New Orleans next Wednesday.

Coach Bob Neyland, taking the victory gorged volunteers to their third bowl game in as many years, sent his players into a stiff practice soon after they detrained this morning, but called it off when a semitropical rainstorm swept the coast.

He immediately ordered another session for midafternoon which was rained out also. The squad then went into skull practice. Neyland was much disappointed at the weather, but said two sessions would be held tomorrow regardless of the weather to bring the team back to the form with which it ended an all-victorious season a month ago.

Neyland professed to be much worried by the size of the Boston college Eagles, who are in training 35 miles farther west at Bay St. Louis, Miss.

"Boston has about 15 pounds to a man on us," he said. "Southern California was huge against us in the Rose Bowl last New Year's day, but Boston college is bigger, biggest of anything we've faced."

Neyland led the Volunteers to the Orange Bowl in Miami in 1938 and the Rose Bowl last year.

Trainer Mickey O'Brien said that big Bill Luttrell, a tackle, was still suffering from an injured knee and would be unable to take part in heavy scrimmage, but he hoped he would round into shape for the game.

BOSTON TACKLE AILING

Bay St. Louis, Miss., Dec. 26 (AP)—The skies turned wet—and gray—today for the Boston College Eagles who had to practice indoors while their 250-pound tackle, Johnny Yauckoes, went to bed with an ulcerated tooth, a bad cold and a mild fever.

Rain washed out Coach Frank Leahy's plans for a two-hour outdoor practice session to whip his squad into shape for the Sugar bowl game with Tennessee. He sent his charges thru dummy scrimmage, an extra set of calisthentics and signal drill in a high school gymnasium and then held secret practice.

Yauckoes, one of the strong points of the Boston line for the last two years, was the first casualty since the Eagles arrived here a week ago.

The other survivors are Von Steuben, Roosevelt, Manley, Wells, Calumet, Lake View, and Du Sable. They will play in second round games tomorrow night.

Austin advanced with victory over Waller, 46 to 31, in one of the afternoon games. In the other matinée contests, Von Steuben triumphed over Morgan Park, 35 to 23; Roosevelt defeated Parker, 33 to 30, and Manley toppled Washburne, 45 to 10.

The evening schedule saw Lake View take a close game from Hirsch, 23 to 19, while Wells subdued a fighting Sullivan five, 29 to 19; Calumet, led by Bob Harlow, handily beat Gage Park, 27 to 17, and a tall Du Sable quintet conquered McKinley, 43 to 27.

George Felt, Austin center, was the day's leading scorer with 17 points, one short of Irving Park's 18 points for Morgan Park in Monday's elimination round. Lineups:

St. John Talks to 2 More on Ohio Vacancy

Columbus, O., Dec. 26 (AP).—L. W. St. John, Ohio State university athletic director, interviewed two candidates today for the vacant Buckeye head football coaching job before departing for New York where he will talk to several other applicants during the next few days.

Alan Holman, former Buckeye back field star, now coach at Franklin and Marshall college of Lancaster, Pa., and Don Faurot, coach of the University of Missouri team, chatted with St. John and J. L. Morrill, vice president of the university and chairman of the athletic board, at today's sessions.

Paul Brown, coach of Massillon High school, was interviewed several days ago, St. John disclosed. In answer to a query as to whether there was any prejudice against employing a coach from the scholastic field, St. John said:

"We are interviewing only men whom we believe to be definite prospects for the situation."

St. John emphasized that Brown, Faurot, and Holman were only a few of the candidates who would be interviewed before the job vacated Dec. 16 by Francis Schmidt is filled.

Leagues Near Vote Deadline on Pin Contest

Sanctioned league bowlers who intend to enter the League of Leagues' ten weeks of competition have three or, in a few cases, four more bowling nights on which to bring the question of entering the contest before their circuits for a vote. The deadline on entries is midnight, Monday, Jan. 20.

A number of entries, mostly from full leagues, already have been received in the League of Leagues' offices at 1609 Tribune Tower [telephone Whitehall 5882]. Others who have spoken their intentions of joining up are awaiting the passing of the holiday season. The League of Leagues is urging action on participation to avoid late congestion.

Competition Starts Jan. 25.

The competition begins with the week starting at midnight Jan. 25. Participating bowlers will be classified according to their averages and will compete against others of their own caliber in a series of ten weekly contests. They also will roll for a grand prize which is to go to the bowler with the highest score over the full period in each of the seven classifications.

The plan provides that the bowlers' weekly total scores in their regular league competition be mailed by the league secretary to the League of Leagues' offices; that each participant be placed in his own average group; that the individual getting the highest score in each group get top prize, second high gets runnerup prize, and so on down thru 15 prizes.

Mail Prize Checks Weekly.

Prize checks are to be mailed weekly. Names of the winners will be published in THE TRIBUNE the day after checks are mailed.

The cost of participation is 10 cents per bowler per night, or $1 for the full period—or any part thereof. The competition runs thru Saturday, April 5, and leagues winding up their season's schedules before then will be asked to pay the full price. Their scores will count each week they roll and toward the grand prizes.

2 STARS REJOIN FIRESTONES FOR BRUIN CONTEST

Akron, O., Dec. 26 [Special].—The Chicago Bruins will open a two game stay here by opposing a strengthened Firestone quintet tomorrow night, and will meet the Goodrich team Saturday night in National Basketball league contests.

Paul Nowak, former Notre Dame star, and Howard Cable, two players who figured in the Firestones' march to a league title last year, have been recalled and will appear against the Bruins. Both stars had retired from active competition at the end of last season to devote more time to their employment with the Firestone company, but Coach Paul Sheeks has prevailed upon the two stars to don uniforms again in an attempt to get the team out of a six game losing streak.

DRAFTEES TO BE BETTER CLOTHED, FOLSOM ASSERTS

Terms Uniform Superior to 1917 Variety.

Army uniforms for the draftees will be better fitting and longer wearing than the "droopy duds" passed out to soldiers in the world war, Frank M. Folsom, executive vice president of Goldblatt Bros., Inc., said yesterday. He returned recently from Washington, D.C., after completing his work as coördinator of textile purchases for the national defense program.

Frank M. Folsom.

Folsom said that the purchasing of textiles and clothing under the defense program has been practically completed for the current fiscal year. Contracts moved smoothly thru his department with a minimum of red tape, he said.

Says Timing Is Big Job.

"We were able to get contracts for clothing to the manufacturers at such a time that the defense work would not jam with civilian orders," he said. "Our job was one of timing. For example, cotton goods contracts were let in August, instead of January, which is the usual time.

"Thus, the work on government orders will be done in December, January, February, and March, when the needle trades are in their seasonal slack period. Also, our purchasing was timed to create the least effect on prices."

Buying Mostly in East.

Chicago clothing manufacturers have defense contracts for about 85,000 uniform coats and a large quantity of overalls and other goods, according to Folsom.

He explained that the bulk of uniform contracts went to manufacturers in New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, and Baltimore, where the men's clothing industry's low priced producers are concentrated.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Light hogs and fresh pork rose sharply early yesterday when receipts fell again. Advances of 15 to 25 cents were general all hogs under 210 pounds in weight. However, most of the price increase was wiped out later. Most heavier butchers and sows sold steady to 10 cents higher.

The top reached $7.25 a hundred pounds, the highest price since Sept. 6. The average, at $6.85, showed 10 cents gain.

The first $10 lambs in four months appeared when the market advanced 15 cents more. Eastern order buyers paid the price. Fresh trends in cattle were the same. A 1,066 pound steers brought the $15 top, showing an advance for these weights, while some medium to good steers, yearlings, and heifers sold steady to 25 cents lower.

GAUGES FOR ARMY.

Do you know whether Greenfield Tap and Die is planning to increase its plant capacity? Has it paid any dividends on the common stock?—D. M.

Answer: The Greenfield Tap and Die corporation is expanding its gauge making facilities at a cost of approximately one million dollars to meet increased orders from the war department. The company, which has its main factory at Greenfield, Mass., is an important manufacturer of gauges, screw cutting tools, twist drills, reamers, pipe tools, and other machine tools.

For the first time since 1921 the company will pay a dividend on its common stock. This payment of 50 cents a share and an initial disbursement of $1.50 a share on the $1.50 preferred stock will be made Dec. 30 to holders of record Dec. 23. Regular dividends are being paid on the $6 preferred stock.

The company's business this year has thrived on defense orders. Earnings have been reported well ahead of those for 1939 and are expected to approach the 10 year high reached in 1937. Net profit in the first six months this year rose to $214,261, equal after preferred divided requirements to 93 cents a common share, compared with $57,702 in the same period of 1939.

	Net income.	Earned per com. share.
1935	$ 99,417	*$0.67
1936	225,139	0.32
1937	506,735	2.47
1938	*2,461	*1.19
1939	202,390	0.28

*Loss.

Capitalization of the company is composed of 23,000 shares of $6 preferred stock, 16,093 shares of $1.50 noncumulative preferred stock, and 145,087 shares of common stock, all of no par value.

CHICAGO PLANT WAITS A MONTH FOR ALUMINUM

Plane Requirements Delay Shipment.

Delivery of an order of aluminum window frames for a plant under construction in the Clearing industrial district has been delayed for more than a month because of the reported shortage of aluminum products resulting from the increased activity of the aircraft industry, it was learned yesterday.

The new plant at Lavergne avenue and 67th street, is being built for the Johnson Suture corporation, a subsidiary of Johnson and Johnson, a surgical dressing manufacturer.

With the walls and roof completed and the aluminum window frames yet to be received, temporary steel sashes were installed so that the building could be heated for thawing out the ground before pouring the concrete floor. Altho construction was reported otherwise to be proceeding on schedule, it was said that the installation of the temporary window sashes resulted in additional expense and trouble.

Set Delivery for Jan. 10.

The order for the aluminum frames was placed in September, when no shortage of aluminum products was expected, and delivery was scheduled for Dec. 1. Delivery is now promised by Jan. 10.

Aluminum sashes were specified because this metal can withstand certain acid fumes which cause steel to deteriorate, it was explained. Had the shortage of aluminum frames been anticipated, wooden sashes coated with acid resisting paint probably would have been used, it was said.

Construction of the building was begun in September, with completion set for early February. The plant, a one story building, will contain 32,000 square feet, and will double the company's manufacturing facilities.

The building will be used for making surgical sutures, material used in the sewing together of wounds. The plant will have fluorescent lighting thruout, and will be air conditioned. The company's present plant is at 2212 South La Salle street.

Curbs Aircraft Force.

Lamotte T. Cohu, general manager of Northrop Aircraft, Inc., of Los Angeles, Cal., disclosed a few days ago that a lack of aluminum materials had necessitated a 20 per cent reduction in the working hours of his plant's 2,000 employés. In reply, a spokesman for the Aluminum company of America, asserted in Pittsburgh, Pa., that there was no shortage of aluminum for the airplane industry.

Confirming reports of a shortage of certain aluminum parts, Edward R. Stettinius Jr., in charge of the industrial materials division of the national defense advisory commission, termed the shortage a temporary one. He previously had said that certain plant expansions would provide an ample supply of aluminum for this country's military and civil needs, as well as for Great Britain.

PRE-CHRISTMAS BANK CLEARINGS AT 10 YEAR PEAK

New York, Dec. 26 (AP).—Bank clearings for 23 large cities during the five-day pre-Christmas period were the largest in ten years and 12 per cent above the corresponding 1939 period, Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

The mercantile agency gave the total as $6,303,747,000, compared with $5,630,747,000 in the 1939 period, but $843,266,000 below the preceding 1940 week when clearings reached a two year high.

The last week's turnover in New York was $3,932,354,000, an increase of 15.1 per cent over last year's $3,417,408,000. In the 22 other cities, the total was $2,371,393,000, a gain of 7.1 per cent over last year's $2,213,339,000.

Declines were shown for three cities: Chicago, 6.9 per cent; Richmond, Va., 5.6 per cent, and Minneapolis, Minn., 4.1 per cent.

CRUCIBLE STEEL ORDNANCE SALES SHARPLY HIGHER

Ordnance sales of the Crucible Steel Company of America totaled $4,589,290 during the first 10 months of 1940, compared with $2,991,502 for all of 1939. This was shown in a registration statement which the company filed yesterday with the Securities and Exchange commission for its $15,000,000 debenture offering.

The ordnance output included shells, armor piercing and explosive projectiles and bombs, gun forgings, and torpedo and periscope tubes. The production of high and medium grade steels, also vital for national defense, also expanded sharply.

Sales of the company were listed at a total of $61,435,756 for the 10 months ended Oct. 31, compared with $49,103,473 for all of 1939.

Willys to Get Navy Powder, Hoists Order

Defense orders were topped yesterday by a Washington report that the navy department has informed Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., Toledo, that it proposes to award the automobile company contracts for $6,000,000 in powder and ammunition hoists.

This order will increase Willys-Overland's armaments backlog to about $18,000,000, including shells and other ordnance parts, reconnaissance trucks and truck forgings. The company is utilizing a part of its huge automobile manufacturing plant for the defense work.

Greeley and Hansen, sanitary engineers, 6 North Michigan avenue, with Metcalf and Eddy, Boston firm, were awarded war department contracts to plan adequate sewage disposal at 38 scattered new camps.

Chicago Firms Get Orders.

Two Chicago companies were among 10 which got war department contracts for a total of 839,832 gallons of paint. The Enterprise Paint Manufacturing company, 337 South Peoria street, will furnish 108,953 gallons at $143,117 on a carload basis or $149,265 on a less than carload basis. The Alston-Lucas Paint company, 1031 North Throop street, is to provide 36,234 gallons costing $54,713 on a carload basis or $61,713 on a less than carload basis. The paint will be used at 41 army cantonments.

The Western Felt works, 4115 Ogden avenue, reported receipt of a $156,359 order for 119,540 yards of olive drab felt for mackinaw linings from the Philadelphia quartermaster depot.

The war department also let a $1,383,140 contract to the Owens-Ames-Kimball company, Grand Rapids, Mich., for construction of temporary buildings and a hospital at Fort Custer, Mich. It let a $948,304 contract to L. H. Hoffman of Portland, Ore., for the construction of a 750 bed hospital at Vancouver Barracks, Wash. It also authorized $1,687,100 in additional temporary buildings and facilities at Hickam and Wheeler fields in Hawaii.

Award Motorcycle Contract.

Among the other army contracts let yesterday were the following:

Amazon Knitting company, Muskegon, Mich., 720,000 sleeveless summer undershirts, $107,040.

Westinghouse Air Brake reported receipt of an order for about $5,000,000, most of which is for airplane hubs and parts.

Orders for a substantial amount of steel for nonmilitary purposes have been placed in the United States for use thruout the British empire, it was reported yesterday. It was stated that the orders were placed as a result of advice by the British government that users of nonmilitary steel buy from American mills. Such orders have been placed thru the British Iron and Steel corporation instead of thru the British purchasing commission. Orders for railroad rail are included.

The Ohio Edison company plans to install $3,600,000 of new equipment at its Gorge power plant which serves the Akron, O., district. Work is to be started next spring, with completion scheduled for the fall of 1942.

WICKARD ASKS U. S. FARMERS TO RAISE MORE HOGS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard urged farmers today to increase hog production and send more cattle to market in the months ahead to meet an "expanding" domestic demand for meats arising from defense spending.

Compliance with these recommendations, the cabinet member said in a formal statement, would be to the best financial interests of farmers themselves.

Wickard said that the 1941 spring pig crop is expected to be about 14 per cent smaller than the 1940 spring crop, whereas economic conditions make a crop of the size of last spring desirable. The 1940 spring and fall crops combined, he said, were 10 per cent smaller than the record production of 1939.

This decrease, he said, reflects the fact that prices of hogs, in relation to feed grains, have been unprofitable. Currently, the price of hogs at the farm average about $6 per 100 pounds.

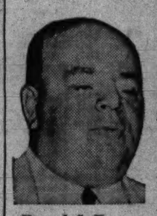
HOPSON'S ATTORNEY ENDS PLEAS; FRAUD CHARGES NEAR JURY

New York, Dec. 26 (AP).—The mail fraud and conspiracy trial of Howard C. Hopson and two others neared the jury today as the summation for the Associated Gas & Electric system's former president was completed and the summing up for his co-defendants began. The trio was accused of syphoning $20,000,000 from the vast utilities system.



Howard C. Hopson.

Hugh A. Fulton, special assistant to the United States attorney general, was expected to end his summation for the government tomorrow, and it was believed Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe would charge the jury tomorrow or Monday.

Hopson dozed in his chair as his attorney, Fred A. Ironside Jr., declared the utilities corporation had "never faltered" until his client stopped managing it after he became ill two years ago. Hopson's practices "were completely proper at the time," Ironside said. "It seems strange the government should ask us to judge business practices which prevailed in the 1920's in 1940." Charles M. Travis and Garrett A. Brownback, who were Hopson's attorneys are the co-defendants.

Illinois businessmen will have 43 tax payment dates to meet during 1941, according to the annual tax calendar issued yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce. These payments will include federal, state and local taxes.

January and July will be the months of the heaviest tax burdens on businessmen, with six tax collection dates scheduled for each of the two months. The lightest months will be August and November, each with only one tax date.

Tax dates for January are:

Jan. 15—Illinois retailers' occupation tax return and payment for the month of December.

Jan. 30—File employer's application for termination of coverage report, for employers who had less than six employés, including officers, in twenty weeks during 1940.

Jan. 31—Illinois unemployment compensation tax for 1940.

Jan. 31—Federal unemployment compensation tax for 1940.

SEC Delays Action on Rule to Require Securities Bids

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26 [Special].—The Securities and Exchange commission today announced that at the request of representatives of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., and of the Investment Bankers Association of America it has extended from Jan. 6 to Jan. 20 the deadline for submission of written comment on the recent report of the staff of the public utilities division. The report recommended competitive bidding to maintain "arm's length" bargaining in the sale and distribution of utilities' securities.

Waco Aircraft Has Increased Sales, Profits

The Waco Aircraft company realized a net income of $74,240, equal to 51 cents a share, in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, compared with $4,582, or three cents a share, in the preceding year, Clayton J. Brukner, president, announced yesterday.

Net sales for the year totaled $1,149,876, compared with $925,791 in the preceding year.

Build Training Planes.

Brukner said that during the last four months of the fiscal year the company, in coöperation with officials of the civilian pilot training program, instituted an intensive production schedule on its 220-horsepower training airplanes. This was done, he said, to meet early purchases by holders of training contracts under the program. Deliveries of the training planes totaled 100 by Sept. 30.

In the report, Brukner also said that the company had received a number of army air corps contracts for the production of airplane parts for the defense program. The company plans to expand this branch of production to utilize any capacity not absorbed in the efforts to coöperate with the government training agencies, he said.

NEW AUSTIN COMPANY HEAD PREDICTS 35 PCT. RISE IN CONSTRUCTION

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26 (AP).—The defense emergency will spur 1941 industrial construction at least 35 per cent above this year, George A. Bryant, new president - general manager of the Austin company, Cleveland engineering concern, said today.

George A. Bryant.

Election of Bryant, executive vice president and general manager since 1930 was announced today by the company. Bryant, a native of Chicago, who joined the concern 27 years ago as a field engineer, succeeds W. J. Austin, who was killed in the crash of an airliner at Chicago.

Present industrial facilities are "wholly inadequate" to meet the defense program "even after months of record breaking awards and construction activity," Bryant declared. He based his 35 per cent estimate on the current "trend of foreign affairs."

IDLE INSURANCE 'NEW YEAR' STILL 3 MONTHS AWAY

New Year's day is still three months away for Illinois workers who are jobless and who may be eligible to draw benefits on the basis of wages earned in 1940, the state department of labor said yesterday.

Under the Illinois law, workers are paid benefits on the basis of insured earnings in a calendar year, but the benefit year during which such payments may be drawn does not start until the following April 1.

The effect of this law, according to the department, is that at the present time and until April 1, only workers who earned at least $225 in the year 1939, working for employers of eight or more persons, can qualify for benefit payments. Workers who have used up all their benefits, based on 1939 earnings, will not be eligible for any additional job insurance payments until after April 1.

AUDIT FIRM ASKS $300,000; THINKS IT EARNED MORE

New York, Dec. 26 [Special].—The process of auditing the affairs of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., drug company, after discovery of the Coster-Musica frauds, involved 146,300 manhours or 20,000 man-days for the partners and assistants of S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., it was disclosed today. The auditing firm thinks it earned $521,717, but in deference to the trustee's wish to keep expenses at a minimum, has asked $300,000.

This disclosure came when William J. Wardall, the trustee for McKesson, announced that he was asking the federal court for authority to appoint the Leidesdorf company to make the 1940 audit and to pay an additional $82,254 to bring the total of the previous audit payments to the $300,000 the firm asks. Wardall said that the cost of the 1940 audit would not exceed $122,500.

3 FIRMS ORDER EXPANSIONS TO COST 3 MILLION

Enlarge Forge Unit Busy on Defense.

BY AL CHASE.

Plant expansion of three Chicago area industrial corporations involving a total expenditure of 3 million dollars was announced yesterday. One of the new plants is indirectly the result of the federal defense program.

The Ingalls-Shepard division of Wyman-Gordon company, one of the world's largest makers of steel forgings, much of which is used in defense activities, has started work on an addition to its Harvey plant which it is understood will increase the working force by about 500 men. The company now employs 1,000. Completion of the new unit is scheduled for next July.

Designed by R. H. Maveety, engineer, the plant expansion will cost about $150,000, with equipment costing more than a million dollars contemplated.

Includes Forge Shop.

The building program includes a one story forge shop 260 by 100 feet, of steel frame construction, an office building and other smaller units.

The heavy equipment will include steam drop hammers weighing 50 tons each, and steel yard cranes of 20 tons each. With the exception of one automobile company the Ingalls-Shepard division is the world's largest manufacturer of crank shafts, it was said.

Altho the company has no direct defense orders, it was learned that an increase in business resulting from the armaments program has necessitated the plant expansion.

The Harvey plant, on Wood street, is the company's largest unit. It occupies about 15 acres on a 30 acre tract. Another factory and offices are in Worcester, Mass.

Coca-Cola Buys Site.

The Coca-Cola Bottling company of Chicago bought a plant site 220 by 520 feet at the northwest corner of Narragansett and Fullerton avenues for $42,500, and will build a half million dollar plant from plans by Shaw, Naess and Murphy.

Installation of new type machinery will enable the company to fill 270 bottles a minute, whereas older machines occupying equivalent space are now turning out 140 bottles a minute. The capacity of the new northwest side plant will be 576,000 bottles daily, according to H. A. Dirksen, superintendent.

In addition, the company will soon start work on another half million dollar plant on a near west side site to be selected between Canal street and Racine avenue. This will replace the plant at 1119 West Congress street. These two new units will add several hundred men to the company's pay roll, it was said.

Continental Gets Land.

The Continental Can company took another step in its $25,000,000 expansion program decided upon by directors who met in Chicago last September. The company purchased a parcel of land 138 by 310 feet west of its big can plant in the Clearing Industrial district. This, together with a parcel it expects to buy next week from the district trustees, and land it purchased some time ago, provides a site 1,000 by 138 feet.

The land to be bought from the district is improved with a building containing 33,000 square feet which will be used in the manufacture of containers. Officials said the company had no immediate plans for use of the balance of the 1,000 foot strip of land.

Chicago Bank Adds Million to Its Surplus

Enlargement of the capital structure of the American National Bank and Trust company, thru the transfer of $1,000,000 from undivided profits and reserves to surplus, was announced yesterday by Lawrence Stern, president.

This action increases the surplus to $2,000,000. It enlarges the capital structure to $3,600,000, including $1,000,000 in common stock and $600,000 in preferred.

Boosts Lending Power.

It was stated that the change will increase the bank's lendng power. Loans to a single borrower are limited to 10 per cent of a bank's capital and surplus under the national banking laws. Undivided profits are not taken into account in establishing this limit.

Increase in the capital structure from $2,600,000 to $3,600,000 will automitically increase the size of individual loans which the bank may make from $260,000 to $360,000. It was said that this may enable the bank to take a greater part in defense financing should the demand for loans from manufacturers expand.

Deposits and Loans Rise.

The last previous addition to surplus was in December, 1938, when $200,000 was added to make a total of $1,000,000. The $1,000,000 added to surplus came from accumulated earnings and unused reserves.

At the time of the previous increase resources of the bank were approximately $60,000,000 and now exceed $80,000,000. The American National has had a substantial growth in deposits and in loans in 1940. The bank recently leased an additional floor in its building at the southeast corner of La Salle and Washington streets.

N. Y. EXCHANGE FAILS TO REACH DECISION ON BAN

New York, Dec. 26 [Special].—Governors of the New York Stock exchange failed to reach a decision today on a course of action to be followed in the controversy over the exchange's "multiple trading" rule. Their meeting was adjourned until tomorrow when consideration of the question will be resumed.

The Securities and Exchange commission has given the exchange until Saturday to reply to a request that the rule be rescinded on the ground it would cripple some of the smaller exchanges in other cities.

The New York rule would curb the activities of its members operating in other cities, forbidding them from "making markets" in securities which are also listed here.

Wall street opinion is that the exchange will continue to resist the SEC request. Should the exchange refuse to lift the ban, the SEC is expected to call public hearings, and the question may eventually reach the courts for a determination of SEC powers to enforce its request.

GRAIN MARKETS MOVE NARROWLY IN DULL TRADING

Grain markets continued listless yesterday. Some early buying of wheat futures was attributed by brokers to mills, following reports that more than 300,000 barrels of flour, equal to 1,350,000 bushels of wheat, had been sold in the last few days to bakers. Closing trades on wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade were unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Corn held within a range of about ⅛ cent and closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Oats and rye gained a small fraction of a cent a bushel and soy beans closed ⅜ to ⅞ cent higher.

FANSTEEL WILL EXPAND ALLOY MAKING PLANT

America Builds Up Metal Supplies.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago, producer of several metals important to national defense work, will expand its plant. Fansteel is the nation's only producer of two rare metals — tantalum and columbium. The move to expand its facilities comes at a time when the government is showing concern over possible future shortages of certain metals essential to rearmament.

Robert J. Aitchison, president, tells Fansteel plans.

The expansion project, to cost $150,000, was disclosed yesterday. A one story building of fabricated steel will be constructed as an addition to the present plant. The addition will be about 125 by 500 feet. New equipment which will permit use of improved processes will be installed in the new building. Many of the details of the project remain to be worked out. The company's subsidiary, Vascoloy-Ramet corporation of Jersey City, N. J., also is expanding, it was learned.

Used as Hardening Alloy.

Tantalum, a hard, rare metal, roughly five times more precious than silver, and columbium, a sister metal only a little less valuable, are being used both directly and indirectly in the national defense program. Fansteel also produces two other rare metals, tungsten and molybdenum, which other companies are supplying to industry.

Tantalum's present major rôle in the national defense effort is as a hardening substance for metals from which steel cutting tools are made. Another important use, which is expected to increase as explosives manufacturing gains headway, is as a corrosion resisting material for chemical plant equipment, particularly that connected with nitric acid production. Tantalum also is used in portable radio transmitters used by the army and navy. Besides, it goes into many products used in peacetime industries.

New Substitute for Tantalum.

Columbium, a newer development, is adaptable to most of the same uses as tantalum, and is considered a re-

NEGLECTED WAR STOCKS PUSHED TO YEAR'S PEAKS

Traders Ignore Normal Defense Favorites.

In the favored group a number at new highs for this year or longer were Timken Detroit Axle, New York Shipbuilding, Electric Boat, Bath Iron Works, Lima Locomotive, and the preferred issues of American Locomotive and Jones & Laughlin.

Prime Issues Neglected.

Yet such prime arms issues as United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Caterpillar and International Harvester, were unchanged or moderately lower. Eastman and du Pont made a little progress but Union Carbide and Allied Chemical just held their ground.

Price trends were irregular throughout the session. The Associated Press index dipped .1 of a point to 43.1.

Another decline in the price of exchange memberships was recorded when arrangements were made for the sale of a seat for $32,000, a new 41 year low and $1,000 less than the last previous sale on Tuesday.

Chicago Stocks.

Irregularity marked the trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with 36 issues advancing, 31 declining, and 36 remaining unchanged. Transfers numbered 30,000 shares. Parker Pen established a new price peak for the year at 13¼, up 1¼. Chicago corporation, the volume leader, finished at 1, unchanged.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 26 (AP).—The bond market followed a fairly even course today despite some wide open breaks in the foreign dollar group under light offerings.

A selected group of low priced rails showed gains of fractions to a point or more. Among them were various Atlantic Coast Line issues, Alleghany stamped 5s, Baltimore and Ohio 6s, and Missouri Pacific 5s.

United States governments were quiet but steady, ending 8-32 of a point higher to 4-32 lower.

Some of the wide losers in the foreign group were Rhine-Westphalia 6s, off 5¼; Uruguayan 3½s, off 12; Consolidated Electric Power of Japan 6½s, off 14, and New South Wales 5s, off 3¾. The heavy losses were the result of the extremely thin market in some foreign issues, brokers said.

Bank Stocks.

Harris Trust shares advanced three points and Northern Trust declined three points yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Chicago Title, Continental Illinois, and First National were a point higher.

FANSTEEL WILL EXPAND ALLOY MAKING PLANT

America Building Up Its Supplies of Metals.

serve that can function as a pinch-hitter if necessity arises.

Robert J. Aitchison, president of Fansteel, said yesterday, however, that his company expects to be able to fill any demand for tantalum, as well as the other three rare metals it produces.

Supply of the rare metals such as tungsten, tantalum, and molybdenum is only one phase of the problem of essential metals for the defense program. The government, thru the Reconstruction Finance corporation's Metals Reserve company, has taken steps to accumulate reserves of several other essential metals such as nickel, antimony, chromium, manganese, tin, aluminum, and zinc, either thru actual purchase of supplies by the government or thru encouraging expansion of producers' capacity.

Tin Smelter Is Planned.

Members of the metal trades are inclined to the view that talk of shortages of various metals is exaggerated, and they observe that the government has made progress in storing away supplies of some metals such as tin and tungsten.

Most tin ore comes from Malaya, and nearly all tin smelting is done in England. However, the Metals Reserve company recently arranged to get tin ore in Bolivia in sufficient quantities to make 18,000 tons of tin annually for the next five years. The agency plans to build, or have some private company build, a smelter either in the United States or Bolivia. The United States used about 70,400 tons of tin in 1939.

Tungsten normally is used in the United States at a rate of 2,950 tons a year. It comes chiefly from China, but other sources are Mexico, British Malaya, Argentine, and Bolivia. Some is produced domestically. The government is understood to have built up a reserve of 500 tons or more.

Canada Supplying Nickel.

The situation with regard to other essential metals:

Nickel, used to make steel hard, stronger, and rust resistant, is acquired mostly from Canada, source of 85 per cent of world output. The United States used 52,000 tons in 1939, but rearming will expand needs.

Manganese, necessary in making steel, comes from the African Gold coast, Russia, Cuba, British India, and Brazil. We never have produced more than 35 per cent of our needs domestically, but we have enough on hand to last a year and a half or longer. Normal annual use in America is 725,000 tons.

Antimony, used as alloy in nonferrous metals, mainly lead, and essential in bullet making, has been consumed at the rate of about 14,100 tons annually, of which about 10 per cent has been home produced. Until recently, China was the chief source, but Mexico, Bolivia, and other Latin American nations are now suppliers.

Some Produced at Home.

Chromium, needed in making stainless, corrosion resisting and heat resisting steels, and used in armor plate, guns, and planes, comes almost entirely from sources outside the United States, among which are South Africa, the Philippines, Cuba, Turkey, and Russia. Efforts to build up defense supplies are said to have met more difficulty with respect to chromium than nearly any other metal.

Copper and zinc normally are produced in sufficient quantities domestically to meet all United States requirement, with some left over for export. However, since the war began, some copper has been imported from Latin America. Most of the lead used in this country also is produced at home.

People and Events

William J. Kelly.

William J. Kelly, president of Arthur J. O'Leary & Son company, steel fabricating concern, has been nominated to succeed Richard Hackett as vice president of the industrial department of the Chicago Association of Commerce, the organization announced yesterday. His selection completes the slate of new officers for the election to be held Jan. 8. Kelly is a former president of the Economic club of Chicago and a director of the Association of Commerce.

Roy Steffen, managing director of the Bismarck hotel for the last seven years, is resigning Jan. 15 to join Albert Schwill & Co., malt manufacturers. Otto K. Eitel will return to Chicago from the west coast to take over the hotel post.

Clifford L. Ellison has been appointed Pittsburgh branch manager for the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company. Ellison, who lives in Chicago, is at present supervisor of the company's sales training school.

M. J. Devaney and E. G. Hill have been named assistant general superintendents respectively, of the South Chicago and Gary plants of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

The mid-winter convention of the Philco corporation will be held Jan. 6 thru 8 in the Edgewater Beach hotel.
